CARAWAY DIES IN LITTLE ROCK AFTER RELAPSE

SENATOR'S RECOVERY HAD BEEN EXPECTED

Legislator Underwent Operation October 29; Governor to Fill Seat.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Thaddeus H. Caraway, forceful United States senator and Democrat of the first rank, died suddenly tonight in a hospital here. Death was caused by closing of arteries which feed the muscles of the heart.

The senator underwent an operation October 29 and his recovery appeared certain. At no time was his physician alarmed at his condition. He was 60 years old.

Laughter and happy conversation with his wife preceded by only a few minutes his sudden complaint of "terrible pains." Mrs. Caraway stepped from the room for a moment and returned on the call of the nurse to find her husband asleep in death.

Lived Forceful Life.

Senator Caraway was born October 17, 1871, and his threescore years were filled with his philosophy that "everything comes to him who waits—and fights." He had often spoken of his parents and other close relatives who had died before they felt the sting of old age. He only recently told Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, that "I believe I will not live much longer."

The farmer had no better friend in Congress than "Fighting Thaddeus H. Caraway, United States senator." He was raised on a farm and had few advantages, but his determination and resourcefulness carried him from a farm hand, railroad section worker, book agent, teacher and lawyer to the Senate, where his fights with local affairs had girded him with strength for greater battles.

He took an active part in Tea Pot Dome debates and severely criticized President Coolidge for vetoing the revised McNary-Haugen farm relief bill which Senator Caraway had helped rewrite.

Was District Attorney.

Senator Caraway's first verbal fights of consequence began when he was prosecuting attorney. His debating ability brought him renown and jurists acclaimed his work as "most noteworthy."

Born on a farm in Missouri, Senator Caraway moved to Arkansas when he "was old enough to realize my horrible mistake." This he told Senator Jim Reed, of Missouri, during a Senate debate in which the Arkansas tongue-lashing solon had bitterly berated Reed and Missouri.

Caraway, riding into the Senate on the record of his predecessor, sought reelection as a strong supporter of Woodrow Wilson and his opponent was easily defeated.

A spectacular disagreement with the administration over unemployment relief measures was ended by the death of Thaddeus H. Caraway.

Long recognized as a stalwart fighter, the junior senator from Arkansas had been much before the national public the last few years. During the last Congress, with Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, he led the fight against President Hoover's relief program. His proposals were far more liberal.

Senator Caraway demanded that loans be made to farmers to buy food for their families, as well as feed for their live stock. On the other hand, the administration contended that the support of human beings was a function of the Red Cross and other charitable organizations.

This bitter fight, which occupied Congress for weeks, finally ended in a legislative compromise by which the Red Cross agreed to raise $10,000,000 to feed the drought sufferers.

Attack on President.

Since then, however, Senator Caraway had continued to attack the administration on its relief efforts and

Cleared by Jury, Man Is Shot Dead

Reprisal Squad Opens Fire in Saloon; Two Dead; Third Wounded.

Detroit, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Thirty hours after a coroner's jury had exonerated Joe Rivett, 60-year-old saloon keeper, of blame for killing a notorious down river liquor operator, a machine gun squad opened fire in a Wyandotte saloon tonight, killing Rivett and another man and wounding a customer.

Rivett had arrived at the saloon of Charles Tear, 34, only five minutes before the reprisal squad entered. There was a volley from two machine guns and one or two shotguns and Rivett and Tear fell dead. John Fellitier, 40, who was standing at the bar, is expected to die of several wounds in the head and neck.

Three weeks ago, Rivett beat Joe Evola to the draw in what police said was a quarrel over Rivett's refusal to sell Evola's beer in his saloon. A coroner's jury found yesterday that Rivett had shot in self-defense.

G. O. P. TO CONTINUE HOUSE CONTROL WAR

Thin Majority Gone, Snell Avers Loss Will Not Affect Plans.

(Associated Press.)

Beaten but unbowed, the Republicans plan to contest Democratic organization of the House.

Death yesterday of Representative Harry M. Wurzbach at San Antonio, the only Republican House member from Texas, added to the party's severe reverses in deaths and elections in the last three weeks.

Thin hold on House control the Republicans maintained since the 1930 November elections has been wiped out. They are in the minority with 214 seats, while the Democrats hold 217, Farmer-Laborites 1, and 3 vacancies exist. The Democrats expect to fill the Wurzbach vacancy in the Fourteenth Texas district.

Despite this, Representative Snell, of New York, a contender for the Republican Speakership nomination, said, "We will go right ahead with our organization as if we were in the majority." He added the Republicans would "not quit just because the Lord has taken some of our members."

"It will not be determined until the roll is called for the election of a Speaker whether the Democrats or the Republicans will control the new House," Snell said.

Loss of Representative Wurzbach brought the number of deaths in the House to fourteen, seven for each party, since the 1930 elections. One of the three seats now vacant will be filled December 1, when a successor to the late Representative Ackerman, in the Fifth New Jersey District, is to be elected.

Successor May Aid Control Fight.

Democrats also hope to take this seat on the basis of the returns in Tuesday's gubernatorial race, in which A. Harry Moore (Democrat), was elected. Moore had a 10,000 plurality over the Republican candidate, David Baird, in this district.

Gridiron Player Killed, 5 Hurt in Wreck of Bus

Cleveland, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—One youth was killed and five others were cut and bruised when a school bus collided with another automobile at Bainbridge, near here, today.

Tony Botash, pinned under the bus, was believed killed instantly. All the victims, it was said, were football players, members of the Chester Township High School team, on the way to Aurora for a game with Aurora High School.

POWER DIVE KILLS BOMBER TEST PILOT

Edward C. Ritchie Dies in Effort to Avoid Plane's Crash on Anacostia.

For the second time within 24 hours Washington aviation suffered a fatal crash when a new type of Martin diving bomber being tested yesterday for the Navy went to pieces in the air as its pilot, Edward C. Ritchie, attempted to pull it out of a power dive.

The accident occurred shortly after noon, the plane falling near the southwest edge of Bolling Field in full view of a group of Navy and civilian observers, who saw the test pilot hurtle to his death.

Ritchie, who did not attempt to leave the broken plane until he was sure that he had done all possible to save it and, more important, to prevent it from falling on Anacostia, was evidently rendered unconscious as he finally cleared the ship for he fell 30 feet from the twisted mass of wreckage, his parachute unopened but his hand firmly grasping the ring, which, if it had been pulled, would probably have saved his life.

Known as one of the most experienced test pilots in the country, Ritchie had served for many years in the Naval Air Service, flying all types of planes before he resigned in November, 1930, to enter commercial aviation. He entered the employ of the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Co. of Baltimore, about eight months ago.

The dive, which carried the pilot to his death, was part of a series of final tests being conducted for officials of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics before the ship was to be accepted by them for use in the service. The plane was designed to fly at a high altitude, dive on its target, releasing a destructive bomb from a low altitude, after which it was to climb back to a height where it could not be reached by antiaircraft weapons.

At the time of the accident the ship carried a dummy bomb together

Representative Is Freed In Auto Death of Boy

Parma, Mich., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury today exonerated Representative Earl C. Michener, of the Second Michigan Congressional District, of blame in the death of Robert Moe, 7-year-old boy, who was killed by Michener's automobile yesterday.

Evidence was to the effect that the boy, confused as the car approached him on a highway, leaped in front of it. Representative Michener, who served in the Spanish-American War with the boy's father, Henry Moe, delayed a projected trip to Washington to attend the boy's funeral Sunday.

Girl, 12, in Closet 4 Years Is Freed; Parents Arrested

Police Raid Reveals Child Captive in Windowless and Bedless Recess in Home on Rhode Island Avenue; Victim Wan and Scarred.

The world of Edith Riley, 12 years old, broadened immeasurably last night after police rescued her from the dingy, unventilated closet which had been her prison and her world for four years.

In the children's ward at Gallinger Hospital, Edith stares vacantly ahead, looking at nothing and seemingly seeing nothing. What little rationality she had, seems stultified and warped just like her frail little body.

Why was she placed in the closet which was her dreary den for four years? That is what a Post reporter asked her father last night at the Third Precinct. He answered. "We had the child to a doctor several years ago. He said she was abnormal and should be placed in an institution. We never got around to it. We thought they would put her in a strait-jacket and kill her.

"How long has it been since the child was out in the fresh air?" her stepmother was asked at the House of Detention.

"About two years ago her father took her for a walk and she misbehaved on the street, so he brought her back. That was the last time she was out," she answered.

And the child's appearance shows the effects of the dearth of sunshine, both in mind and body. Her face is a pasty yellow. Great tufts of black hair hung over her dull, vacuous

NAVY DISPUTE REPORT READY FOR PRESIDENT

Six-Hour Study at Club Brings Report Rodman Says Is "Good."

CONTENTS EXPECTED IN PUBLIC TOMORROW

League Members Disclaim Language of Attack on President.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The five-man committee appointed to investigate statements made by Mr. Gardiner in his now famous "abysmal ignorance" attack on President Hoover, last night completed the drafting of a report.

This report, which is expected to bear out President Hoover's contention that Mr. Gardiner uttered "untruths and distortions of fact" about the administration's naval policy, will be delivered to the White House today by John Hays Hammond, chairman of the committee, and probably will be released for Sunday morning newspapers.

No Indication of Apology.

In announcing Thursday a week ago that he would appoint a committee to show that Mr. Gardiner had uttered falsehoods, President Hoover said that once the committee had reported he would expect the Navy League head to make a public apology.

Thus far, Mr. Gardiner has shown no inclination to apologize.

Although the executive committee of the Navy League, at a meeting Thursday, adopted by a vote of 7 to 1 a resolution upholding Mr. Gardiner, there are many influential members of the organization who, like Henry Breckenridge, believe that Gardiner went too far in his attack on the President.

General May Resign.

The Washington Post yesterday received the following telegram from Gen. George E. Leach, of Minneapolis, Minn., holder of the Distinguished Service Cross for his service with the Forty-Second Division in the World War:

"I have been a member of the Navy League and Navy Day chairman for the Northwest for eleven years. Unless Gardiner apologizes I will resign. Attack on the President unpardonable."

Legionnaire Scores Attack.

"I cordially indorse position taken by Col. Breckenridge in the controversy between President Gardiner, of the Navy League, and President Hoover.

"I have not been privileged of late to be in touch with the activities of the Navy League and I am not minutely informed as to the issues that have been raised, but I deem the language used by Mr. Gardiner as unfortunate to say the least."

As a matter of fact, several members of the Navy League already have resigned because of Mr. Gardiner's vehement attack on the President. On the other hand, a number of persons, convinced that Gardiner is right, have joined the organization.

Language Is Regretted.

Dr. David Jayne Hill, former Ambassador to Germany, and Mrs. James Carroll Frazer have told The Post that, while they sympathized with Mr. Gardiner in his crusade for an adequate Navy, they regretted that he should use any language that might seem discourteous to the President of the United States. Both Dr. Hill and Mrs. Frazer are members of the board of governors of the Navy League.

Mrs. Leigh Richmond Smith, of Berkeley, Calif., another member of the board, wired The Post last night

Five to Toss Dice For Hawaii Flight

One of Quintet Will Try Hop From Islands to United States.

San Francisco, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Five aviators sailed today for Honolulu on the liner President Coolidge, planning to shake dice to decide which one should attempt to fly back aboard a monoplane stowed in the Coolidge's hold.

Heading the group was J. K. Althaus, former German war flier. With him were H. S. Mead, W. S. Loudon, Tom Darby and Harry Forbes. Their plane has a cruising radius of 3,500 miles. It is 2,400 miles between here and Honolulu.

"These four men have undertaken to gamble with me for the privilege of piloting the first plane from Hawaii to the mainland," said Capt. Von Althaus, who although he has been an American citizen several years still speaks with a slight accent. "It will be a solo flight. We hope to complete it in less than 20 hours."

HOOVER CLIPS $350,000,000 FROM BUDGET

Army and Navy Furnish Third of Reduction of Estimates.

SECTIONAL INTEREST APPEAL IS RENEWED

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Sharp curtailment of Federal expenditures for the fiscal year 1933, was forecast yesterday in an announcement by President Hoover that $350,000,000 already has been clipped from the preliminary budget estimates of the various departments.

On the basis of reports now before him, the President estimates that the new budget, which will go to Congress in December, will call for approximately $280,000,000 less than the budget for the year ending next June 30.

At the same time the President renewed his plea to all sectional interests and nonpolitical organizations to refrain from new demands upon the National Treasury.

Army and Navy Furnish Third.

"Nothing will contribute more to the return of prosperity than to maintain the sound fiscal position of the Federal Government," he said.

He told the country also, through his regular Friday press conference, that every department is cooperating in the effort to eliminate from the 1933 budget those projects which can be postponed without impairment of essential functions.

Approximately one-third of the $350,000,000 stricken from the departments estimates has come from the budgets of the Army and Navy. But the $125,000,000 scratched from these two estimates does not represent a reduction by that amount in national defense quotas. Many of the reductions in both the Army and Navy were effected in nonmilitary items.

All Departments Cooperate.

"The departmental budgets for the fiscal year beginning next July," the President said, "have proceeded far enough to enable me to state that appropriations which will be proposed to Congress will show a reduction of at least $350,000,000 below that of original departmental requests.

"Every department in the Government is cooperating; every item has been cut; every item postponed that can be done without injury to the fundamental purpose of the departments and the efficiency of the service.

"As nearly half the expenditures of the Government are for interest, sinking fund, veterans' services and other items which are irreducible, this cut represents most earnest cooperation by all the departments of the Government in their endeavor to meet the necessities of the taxpayer and the present economic situation.

Appeals to Sectional Interests.

"Again I wish to refer to the many sectional interests throughout the country who are asking us to increase expenditures. Such action can only embarrass the earnest efforts of the administration and the Congress to maintain our governmental finance on a sound basis. Many new plans of different sections, meritorious in themselves, must be deferred until the country can afford to pay for them.

"Nothing will contribute more to the return of prosperity than to maintain the sound fiscal position of the Federal Government."

President Hoover launched his curtailment program as long ago as March 27, when he asked all department heads to study their 1933 estimates carefully with a view to avoiding increases in the period of sharply reduced revenues. At that time he abandoned the old system of preliminary estimates in July, directing each department to submit instead a rock-bottom estimate by Septem-

Warehouse Burns; Ocean Liner Saved

3-Block Hoboken Docks Destroyed; Loss Is $250,000.

Hoboken, N. J., Nov. 6 (U.P.).—Fire today destroyed the three block warehouse and pier of the Hoboken Manufacturers Railroad, and for a while threatened the Holland-American liner Statendam, one of the finest ships plying the North Atlantic. Loss was estimated at $250,000.

A score of tugs hastily pulled the Statendam from her berth and into the North River when her masts caught on fire from the blazing warehouse. A fireboat extinguished the flames, and the loss was small.

Several hundred railroad cars loaded with merchandise for export were in the warehouse. They were completely destroyed, as were great quantities of merchandise in storage. The fire was directly across the North River from Manhattan and thousands watched its progress from office windows.

SITE OF LATEST WAR OUTBREAK

The arrowson this map indicates the approximate location of the Nonni River Bridge of the Taonan-Anganchi Railroad, south of Tsitsihar in western Manchuria, where more than 100 soldiers were reported killed in battles between Japanese and Chinese for possession of the bridge. Heavy line indicates roughly where Japanese sphere of influence ends and Russian sphere begins.

JAPAN WILL RECALL TROOPS, SAYS ENVOY

U. S. Notified of Withdrawal Program After Bridges Are Repaired.

(Associated Press.)

A "cease firing" omen in Manchuria came yesterday as Ambassador Debuchi, of Japan, said it was the "present intention" of his country to withdraw her troops southward.

Both the diplomat and State Department officials minimized the danger of Russia's becoming involved in the Sino-Japanese fighting.

Calling at the State Department to present his country's explanation of the latest outbreak, Ambassador Debuchi told newspapermen Japan planned to begin the troop movement south as soon as bridges around which the fighting has occurred have been repaired. He said this would take a week or ten days.

From Japanese sources came a previous explanation that the bridges were considered extremely important because they were arteries in the movement of the soya bean crop.

In his talk with reporters, the Japanese Ambassador also said he believed "there will be no serious complications between Russia and Japan."

"The Soviets have no troops in Manchuria," Debuchi added.

Secretary Stimson noted closely a report from the Soviet capital saying the international Communist party had served notice that war against China is "a step toward war against Soviet Russia," but refused to register alarm.

First-hand reports to the Secretary by George Hanson, American consul general at Harbin, are understood to have given no evidence that Russia is mobilizing or is giving aid to Chinese armies opposing Japan.

The latest fighting in the vicinity of railroad bridges across the Nonni River is near the Russian sphere of influence along the Chinese Eastern Railway, jointly controlled by China and Russia.

Ambassador Debuchi indicated that unless Japan's troops are attacked they will not advance further northward.

"I don't believe Tsitsihar will be captured," he said, referring to an im-

New York Idle Given Million by Rockefellers

New York, Nov. 6 (U.P.).—The Rockefellers—John D., sr., and John D., jr.—today contributed $1,000,000 to New York's emergency unemployment relief fund.

Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the fund-raising committee, said that the $12,000,000 goal will be exceeded if contributions continue in the present trend. A fund of $7,631,134 has already been raised and Gibson expects the total to reach $18,000,000.

TOKYO MOVES BALK U. S. PEACE EFFORT

State Department Anxiety Grows as Japan Builds Manchuria Force.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Japanese stubbornness in reinforcing, instead of receding from, its military positions in Manchuria seriously threatens to compromise the peace-making activities of Secretary Stimson and the League of Nations Council. The consolidation of Japanese military effectives in western Manchuria was officially admitted yesterday by Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi.

The ambassador had called at the State Department to see Undersecretary William R. Castle, jr. It is understood the purpose of his visit was to transmit the reactions of Baron Shidehara, the foreign minister, to the representations which American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes has been making to the Japanese government since his return to his post.

Japan has utilized her full total of soldiers which she is permitted to maintain in Manchuria by treaty agreements. This number is approximately 15,000 men. In addition to these forces, however, the ambassador declared that a supplementary force of some 4,000 soldiers has also been ordered to the Manchurian region for replacement. He added depreciatively:

"Of course, these are young soldiers. They are supposed to take the places of veteran troops who were rushed into Manchuria from Korea, but, as frequently happens with inexperienced troops, they have to be trained. For this reason there may be some duplication of troops before the veterans can be evacuated and returned to their home garrisons."

The State Department regards the situation in Manchuria with considerable anxiety. The recent observation trip of George Hanson, American consul at Harbin, to the disturbed region of Tsitsihara, where clashes have been reported, revealed one factor, however; there are no evidences of Soviet mobilization there. Red troops assure the administration of the Chinese Eastern Railway, which Soviet Russia controls jointly with the Chinese government. No additional forces have been dispatched from the headquarters of the

DIPLOMACY BAN AGAINST JAPAN BEFORE LEAGUE

Concerted Withdrawal of Envoys by Powers Considered.

WORLD REDS ASKED TO SUPPORT CHINA

(Associated Press.)

The League of Nations yesterday considered a plan to ask all members to withdraw their diplomatic representatives from Tokyo in an effort to force Japan to make peace with China in Manchuria.

In Moscow the Communist International urged the "workers and oppressed people of all the capitalistic world" to support China against "the imperialists."

Meanwhile a three-day battle in the vicinity of the Nonni River ended with the Japanese in control and the Chinese in flight. Japanese dead totaled 130 and Chinese losses were described as heavy.

In Washington, Japanese Ambassador Debuchi declared it was "the present intention" of his government to withdraw its troops south from the Nonni River. He said Russia had no military force in Manchuria.

Chinese Put to Rout.

Mukden, Manchuria, Nov. 6 (U.P.).—Japanese defenders of the Nonni River bridge, reinforced after three days of combat, drove the Chinese forces northward today in a brisk battle that left the Japanese in control of the railroad line along the river.

A superior force of Chinese was routed by an aggressive Japanese attack. The Japanese, outnumbered more than 5 to 1, held their opponents off until reinforcements hurried north from Taonan and Changchun, and a determined drive forced the Chinese to retire toward Anganki, at the junction of the Taonan-Anganki Railroad with the important Chinese Eastern, jointly controlled by the Chinese and Russians.

The scene of the engagement is along the Nonni, in northern Manchuria, just south of the region where influence ends. The Chinese Eastern Railway, important link in the trans-Siberian route, crosses the Nonni from west to east near Anganki. The Chinese-controlled and Japanese-built railway, the Taonan-Anganki, runs north and south at the same point, being a vital link with southern Manchuria.

300 Estimate of Casualties.

A corps of Japanese engineers has been attempting to repair the Nonni River bridge, on the north and south line 25 miles south of Angan, which was blown up by Japanese planes last week. The engineers were guarded by two battalions of Japanese troops.

Fighting broke out on Wednesday, when the Chinese forces led by Gen. Ma Chanshan clashed with the Japanese. The latter made a brisk strategic attack and captured several positions. The Chinese then bore them back by weight of numbers, but the Japanese held firm until reinforcements arrived, when a new drive routed the Chinese completely and forced them to retire northward.

The Japanese have announced that they will proceed no farther north than necessary to protect the Nonni River bridge, and it was believed here that unless the Chinese obtain strong reinforcements, the episode has been ended.

Latest estimates of casualties, before today's drive began, gave the probable dead as 200 Chinese and 130 Japanese, the latter including five officers. Many were wounded on both sides.

Communist Call to Arms.

Moscow, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The "workers and oppressed people all over the capitalistic world" were urged today by the Communist International to lend active support to

Child, 3, Locked in House, Burned to Death on Bed

A 3-year-old child who had been locked in an Alexandria, Va., house by his mother when she went to watch a funeral procession was burned to death yesterday while his older brother hammered on the locked door in a vain attempt to save the child.

The charred body of the victim, Charles E. Miller, was found on a burning bed by neighbors who finally broke in through the back door. Apparently the child, who was asleep when left in the house by his mother, Mrs. Louis J. Miller, had awakened and begun to play with matches. The fire was confined to the bedroom and appeared to have started on the bed.

Hysterical when she learned of her son's death, Mrs. Miller said she had locked the doors when she went to the house of a neighbor to watch a funeral procession pass. Some time later Mrs. J. C. Baber, who lives near the Miller home, at Alexandria and Swann avenues, saw smoke curling from the house.

Mrs. Baber said she ran to the house and found Louis Miller, jr., 5 years old, pounding on the locked front door and screaming that his little brother was inside. Louis had been playing in the neighborhood, which saved him from being locked in the burning building.

Mrs. Baber and another neighbor, Mrs. A. S. Douglas, unable to enter through the front door, broke open a door into the kitchen. They rushed immediately to the bedroom, but the child was already dead on the blazing

REPUBLICAN ADVISES PARTY TO OUST FESS

Representative Golder Says Aggressive Leader and Wet Plank Needed.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Representative Benjamin Golder, Republican, today called on the Republican national committee to oust its chairman, U. S. Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, and come out on a wet platform for the 1932 Presidential campaign.

The statement followed upon an interview given by William S. Vare as he left yesterday for Florida, calling upon Republican leaders to take a stand on prohibition.

Mr. Golder said the loss of New Jersey and possible control of the House of Representatives should be a "danger signal" to party leaders and new plans for the next national election should be laid.

"A new Republican national chairman should be elected at once—one who is aggressive and wet," he said. "Self-satisfied, smug, holier-than-thou Republican leaders in Washington who saw fit to repudiate the Republican vote in Pennsylvania when it sent William S. Vare to the United States Senate, might do well to stop, look and listen and repudiate prohibition.

"That the election in New Jersey was more a repudiation of the national Republican leadership than a repudiation of Republican party principles generally, is shown by the fact that Philadelphia, where there was no question of Republican national leadership involved, where there was no appeal by the President through his Cabinet members or his foreign ambassadors, a normal Republican majority was returned for the full ticket."

2 Policemen Cleared Of Extortion Charges

Edward Willis Gore and Frank Joseph Hospidor, members of the Fourth Precinct of the Police Department, were cleared of charges of extorting a small amount of money from an alleged colored bootlegger when the grand jury returned a report refusing to indict them.

Lieut. Oscar J. Letterman, night inspector of the Police Department, charged the pair with having taken $10 from the colored man with the understanding that they would not molest him.

Lindbergh Named To Air Committee

(United Press.)

President Hoover yesterday announced appointment of Charles A. Lindbergh to the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

The committee was created by Congress in 1915 to supervise and direct scientific study of aviation problems. It also serves in an advisory capacity in determining questions of general policy in regard to military aviation. At the Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory at Langley Field, Va., the committee conducts experimental work on fundamental problems.

Two Army officers, two naval officers, one representative each of the Weather Bureau, the Bureau of Standards and the Smithsonian Institution, and eight citizens not connected with the Government compose the committee.

Distribution of Relief Investigated by Seabury

New York, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Administration and distribution of the city's emergency unemployment relief fund of nearly $8,000,000 raised through revenue bonds and tax notes were investigated today by the Hofstadter legislative committee.

Samuel Seabury, chief counsel, checked reports that political capital was made of the fund by Democratic workers. He had been told that voters were assured part-time employment under the relief fund if they voted the right way and his assistants questioned many witnesses in an effort to find under exactly what circumstances unemployed persons were given relief.

Grand Jury Clears Former Phone Girl

Mate of Dismissed Police Worker Is Indicted on Liquor Charges.

Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Jett, former telephone operator at police headquarters, was exonerated of liquor charges yesterday when the grand jury returned a refusal to indict her. The jury, though, indicted her husband, Jay Franklin Jett.

The indictment alleges that Jett unlawfully possessed liquor and property designed to manufacture it. He is also charged with making liquor. The alleged violations were unearthed several weeks ago when police raided the Jett home, 3701 Seventeenth street northwest.

Billion-Dollar Red Cross Fund for Needy Sought

St. Paul, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Appointment of a nonpartisan commission by President Hoover to raise $1,000,000,000 for American Red Cross relief for the needy was suggested today at a Minnesota congressional delegation conference.

Representative M. I. Maas said the commission would appeal to citizens to provide the fund by subscription. No action was taken on the suggestion.

with a full complement of other ammunition and sand-bag weights. Similar tests had been successfully completed Thursday and it was regarded by officials that the plane had showed its worth and would soon be adopted by the Navy.

According to eyewitnesses of the accident, Ritchie put the ship into a dive from around 8,000 feet. As he neared the ground and started to right the plane the left wing was seen to collapse and the ship started an erratic course which it followed until it crashed in the woods bordering on Bolling Field.

At a low altitude the pilot made a desperate effort to free himself and jump to safety in his parachute. He succeeded in finally getting free of the plane but was never able to pull the rip cord of his chute.

Officials of the Martin company arrived at the scene of the accident later in the afternoon. They expressed high regard for Ritchie's flying ability and could offer no explanation for the crash other than structural failure due to the terrific strain placed on the wings and fuselage of the ship when it was brought but of the dive.

Ritchie's crash was almost identical to the one which carried Lieut. George C. Cuddihy, famous Navy Schneider Cup racing pilot, to his death two years ago. Cuddihy, however, was entirely unable to get his British fighter out of a dive, and it plunged several feet into the ground on the edge of the Naval Air Station.

As in the crash of the Ludington liner Thursday night at Camden, investigation of the cause of the accident was practically impossible, due to the complete destruction of the ship. Officials of the air station removed the wreckage to one of their hangars.

Ritchie was born in Newport, R. I., February 15, 1903. He was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1922 and graduated in 1926. He resigned from the Navy in November, 1930. He was married, and lived at 1410 Eutaw place, Baltimore.

After the accident Ritchie's body was removed to the infirmary at the Naval Air Station, where Dr. Carl J. Robertson pronounced him dead. Coroner Joseph Rogers issued a certificate of accidental death and ordered the body turned over to officials of the Martin company.

U. of M. Has $12,000 Prizes.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Twelve thousand dollars will be given as prizes this year in the annual literary contest at the University of Michigan, made possible by the gift of $321,000 by the late James Avery Hopwood, American playwright, and his mother, the late Jule Hopwood.

Cause of Air Liner's Crash Mystery as Probe Continues

Wreckage Fails to Reveal Even Hint as to Responsibility.

Two investigations, both apparently hopeless, are in progress as complete mystery surrounds the tragic airplane crash in which five men lost their lives at Camden, N. J., Thursday evening.

So complete was the demolition of the fast Lockheed-Orion monoplane, pride of the Ludington Line, that officials of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Department of Commerce, and of the line, who are making independent investigations, see little hope that the wreckage will provide any clew to the cause of the accident.

Meanwhile the regular hourly transport service of the line between Washington and New York was continued without interruption yesterday, although the express service has been discontinued because the plane which was destroyed was the only one of that type operated by Ludington.

Officials of the line reported only one cancellation yesterday, while the total number of passengers carried on the regular 23 flights on the day's schedule was about 60 per cent of capacity. Ordinarily on a Friday, it was stated, about 80 per cent of capacity would be carried. The decrease yesterday was attributed primarily to the high winds which prevailed.

Planes Are Filled.

Planes leaving the airport here for New York on the 3 o'clock, 4 o'clock and 5 o'clock schedules were filled to capacity, and on the latter trip twelve passengers could not be accommodated.

Ludington issued a formal statement last night at Camden which read:

"The 68-minute New York-Washington express service of the Ludington Line will be temporarily discontinued, pending investigation of the accident.

"Although another high-speed plane is available, the decision to effect this temporary suspension is due to the line's desire first to ascertain all facts which may be determined by the official investigation. Announcement concerning the resumption of service will be made after the investigation is completed.

"All other services of the line between New York, Trenton, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore, Washington and Norfolk will continue as usual."

Officials of the company yesterday suggested three possible causes for the crash. One was that Pilot Floyd Cox might have made an error in judging his landing. The possibility was seen, too, that something may have gone wrong with the plane's controls, while the third possibility seen was that the ship's motor might have failed to accelerate properly after it had been throttled for the landing.

The first of these theories is discounted for the reason that Cox, a thoroughly experienced flier, was the crack pilot of the line and little chance is seen that he could have misgauged a landing.

According to all information which the investigators have been able to obtain, the plane is believed to have been performing perfectly.

Mr. Vidal declared that the plane was in perfect condition when it left Newark Airport bound for Washington, after having been delayed eight minutes to provide for a change in schedules, and that it was on time when it approached the Camden airport.

Eyewitnesses were agreed that the plane approached the airport, circled and descended normally.

Suddenly, and entirely without any warning, when it apparently was only about 200 feet off the ground it crashed on the golf course of the Cooper River Country Club which adjoins the airport.

As the speedy black and white monoplane hit the ground and buried its nose two feet into the earth, there was an explosion and the ship instantly was surrounded by a sheet of flame.

Not Regular Stop.

The stop at Camden was not on the regular schedule of the 68-minute run between New York and Washington. It was made to accommodate Francis R. Ehle, whose home was at Riverton, N. J., and whose wife, Mrs. Blanche Ehle, was waiting to meet him at the Camden Airport. She was prostrated when she learned that her husband had been killed in the accident.

Immediately after news of the tragedy was received at Washington Airport, a few minutes after the crash, Paul Collins, vice president and operations manager of the line, and Henry Brown, assistant operations manager, took off with five mechanics for Camden.

C. Townsend Ludington, chairman of the board of the line, said after an investigation yesterday that it was impossible at this stage to make any intelligent statement as to the cause of the crash. He said Cox had pursued a normal course in landing. Officials of the company stated further that as far as could be determined there was no mechanical defect in the ship.

Cox, pilot of the ill-fated ship, was born on a farm near Smithland, Iowa, on September 1, 1898. As a boy he learned the printing trade and worked as a printer for various newspapers. He also was a violinist and a member of the Musicians Union.

Worked for Newspapers.

He learned to fly eight years ago at Denver, Colo., and for the following six years he barnstormed. He was married about eighteen months ago. He is survived by his wife, who lives in the Alban Towers Apartments; and by his mother and a brother living at Sioux City, Iowa, where the body will be sent for burial.

Cox died with his greatest ambition unfilled. He had planned a flight next spring to circle the globe in four hops to break the speed record established by Post and Gatty.

Vernon R. Lucas, 33, of Oakcrest, Va., another Ludington pilot, was "deadheading" a ride back to Washington from New York. He was born at St. Vincent, Minn., on July 7, 1898. He will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery here.

The fourth victim was Elmer Smith, 35, of Harvard Hall Apartments, advertising manager of the Washington Herald. Smith served in France with the Aviation Corps during the war.

He was well known in advertising circles. His newspaper career was begun with the Boston Herald. Later he joined the Zane Advertising Co.

Bodies Are Identified.

George B. Taylor, 54, of 1517 Seventeenth street northwest, the other victim of the crash, was bacteriologist and chief of the laboratories of the Chestnut Farms Dairy Co.

Lucas' body was brought back here by train last night, and the funeral will be held either today or tomorrow. Cox's body is to be taken to his brother's home at Hornick, Ia., by George Pomeroy, senior pilot of the line and Cox's closest friend, who had planned to accompany him on the proposed round-the-world flight.

Ill-Fated Plane Pilot Joked in Last Message

The last message from Floyd Cox, pilot of the ill-fated Ludington express plane, to his associates at Washington Airport was a wise-cracking sequel to a joking reference he made a few days ago to the possibility that he might die in a crack-up.

Earlier in the week he had been detained late at the field without ready cash, and before leaving for home he borrowed $20 for which he placed a note in the cash drawer reading: "I. O. U. $20. If I crack up, present this to my wife for collection."

Just before stepping into the death plane at Newark Airport Thursday night he sent a message to Washington on the company's teletype saying: "I have the $20 with me. Have a bodyguard meet the plane."

SENATOR WAS HARD FOE BUT KIND FRIEND

(Associated Press.)

To newspapermen he was a periodic source of stories; to his colleagues he was a man to be avoided in rough-and-tumble debate.

Many times on the Senate floor while a colleague was discussing at length a question which he opposed, Caraway would rise from his seat, thrust his hands in his pockets and walk about the room mumbling. The mumbling, though, would be audible nearly all over the chamber floor and sometimes in the galleries.

Brought on Tears.

When he had the floor, his manner of presenting arguments was forceful, even though he was not considered an outstanding orator. Once last session, when he was taking a leading part in the debate over Federal appropriations for drought relief, he began describing a family in need in his home State of Arkansas.

Before he finished he was in tears. An official stenographer—one of those who ordinarily shows no reaction to speeches, no matter what their subject—met the Arkansan outside the Senate chamber later and gave him a personal check for $25 to help care for the family.

His liking for moving about the room when he talked followed him through his term as chairman of the Senate lobby committee. While witnesses were testifying, Caraway would differ with them in an outburst that would end when he had walked around the committee room several times, his voice dropping lower and lower as he continued until the official stenographers had difficulty hearing him.

Had Many Friends.

Despite the lash of his tongue that he applied in debate, he was on friendly terms with most of his colleagues. Often he found them after the Senate had adjourned, patted them on their backs and assured them he was not attacking them personally but their beliefs.

He was noted for having his desk piled so high with magazines and mail that he hardly could see over it. Yet his memory was such that he could dig into the stack at any time and pick out what he wanted without hesitation.

He owned and lived in an attractive colonial home in nearby Maryland.

"His loyalty and unfaltering devotion to the public interest commanded unqualified respect and admiration," Senator Robinson said.

"He was diligent, able and faithful in times of great confusion and distress. He has passed away in the prime of his usefulness and at the climax of a remarkable career."

SENATOR CARAWAY DIES IN HOSPITAL

had promised to bring the question into the next Congress.

One of the most important pieces of legislation sponsored by the senator was a bill to regulate short selling on the commodity exchanges. It had been considered favorably by the agriculture committee in at least two Congresses and was expected to be given further attention in the approaching Congress.

It was Senator Caraway who two years ago presided over a Senate committee's investigation of lobbying. It conducted lengthy and often sensational hearings. And its work was not done.

As chairman of this committee, the senator expected to return to the Capital soon to conclude the investigation into reports that a member of the Senate had received a large sum of money from a domestic sugar company while the tariff bill was pending before the Senate.

The warring spirit was manifest in Senator Caraway's rise from farm boy to the Senate.

He had been in the Senate since 1920 and had been a member of the House of Representative for seven years before that.

Senator Caraway's term expires March 3, 1933.

Caraway was always a fighter. It was his battles in the Senate, in which he gained the reputation of being one of its most fiery and vitriolic speakers, that he was perhaps best known. Presidents, cabinet members, fellow senators and others, mostly Republicans—for Caraway was a Democrat through and through—were not spared the tongue-lashings this Arkansan was able to administer.

Caraway was married in 1902 to Miss Hattie Wyatt at Harrisburg, Tenn. There were three children, Paul W., Forrest, and Robert E.

(Associated Press.)

The death of Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway restored the Republican plurality in the Senate which was lost by the recent death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey.

The party line-up now is Republicans, 47; Democrats, 46; Farmer-Laborer, 1; vacancies, 2.

The Governor of New Jersey probably will appoint a Republican successor to the Morrow vacancy before Congress convenes a month from today, which would bring the Republican total to 48.

With a Democratic governor in Arkansas, Caraway's death is not likely to make much difference in the Senate line-up as his successor undoubtedly will come from the same party.

Socialist Group Hears 'Fat and Lean' Lecture

Speaking on the topic "The Fat and the Lean," Charles W. BISHOP SAYS CHURCH WILL FIGHT '32 WET

Ainsworth Warns Methodists Plan to Take Stand for Prohibition.

Sylacauga, Ala., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Warning that the church would oppose any "wet" candidate for President in 1932 was issued today by Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in an address at the North Alabama Methodist Conference over which he is presiding.

Speaking on the report of the conference committee on social service and temperance reform, the bishop said "one of the first lines of attack of opponents of prohibition is to intimidate and browbeat the preachers of this county to silence."

"Many politicians and newspapers have for some time been greatly concerned for fear the churches will get into politics," he added. "From now on we will hear more and more about the great principle of separation between church and State and the expression of a grave concern for the welfare of zion, lest she forget her spiritual mission.

"The world knows these papers and politicians are not concerned about the piety of the church, but the pie counter of the party, and will dress up the devil as an angel of light if only they can get him through the gates and into the city—of Washington.

"Let it be perfectly understood that the church is not an ally of partisan politics. The church, as such, is not concerned as to whether the Democrats or the Republicans win the day, but its membership will oppose the election of any man in either party who has lived to thwart the moral and patriotic programs of Christian citizenship.

"No, the church and its ministry are not the foes of good government, but advocates of law and righteousness."

Sneak-Thief Fells Woman and Flees

Police last night were looking for a colored man who attacked Miss Florence Galvin, millinery buyer for Garfinckel's, with a blackjack, when she returned to her apartment at Copley Courts, 1514 Seventeenth street northwest, at the close of her day's work.

Miss Galvin had reached her apartment on the sixth floor and was searching through her handbag for the key. She heard a noise and turned just in time to see the man behind her, but she could not dodge the blow aimed at the back of her head. She screamed as she fell and the man ran.

Miss Galvin's cries attracted her mother, Mrs. Catherine Galvin, and her sister, Miss Lillian Galvin, who live with her at the apartment. They spread the alarm, but the man escaped. Miss Galvin was treated at Emergency Hospital for severe cuts on the back of her head.

Little Girl, Lost, Saves for Mother

Tot of 5 Found Selling Candy Is Taken to Receiving Home.

A sharp, piercing wind swept along downtown F street last night. Every one was in a hurry—in a hurry to reach the protecting warmth of theaters and restaurants, there to forget the chill of a frosty November night.

In all this hustle and bustle little attention was paid to a tiny figure huddled in a doorway. No one seemed to care that this tiny figure—that of a little girl—held in her hands a box of assorted candies.

However, two policemen of the First Precinct saw her and stopped to inquire her name. She told them it was Margaret Warren. She said she was 5 years old, but she didn't know where she lived. She left her home early yesterday morning with her mother, she said, to sell candy. The two became separated.

At the precinct station house the child was given some food. Only half of it was consumed—she said the rest was to go to her mother. She was taken to the Receiving Home to await word of relatives.

Sister of Mrs. W. H. Taft Is Dead in Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Mrs. Eleanor Herron More, sister of Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the late President and Chief Justice, died at her home here last night after several months' illness.

Mrs. More also was a sister of Mrs. Henry Lippitt, wife of former Senator Lippitt, of Rhode Island, and her husband was Prof. Louis Trenchard More, dean of the graduate school, University of Cincinnati.

Capital Man Held In Baltimore Theft

Three Captured in Chase After Armed Holdup of Shoe Store.

Three men, one of them giving his name as Philip May, 22 years old, and his address as Washington, were captured in Baltimore last night after a daring armed holdup and a chase of several blocks by Baltimore police.

Washington police were told the men said they had just come to Baltimore from Washington. May is said to have admitted to Baltimore officials that he is on parole in Washington on a larceny sentence. The trio robbed a manager of a shoe store of $24.71 after one of them had tried on several pairs of shoes. The manager gave an alarm and a policeman took up the chase in a commandeered taxicab. Another patrolman joined the pursuit on foot.

After three blocks the men were overhauled, police say, and one of them drew a pistol but, seeing he was covered, gave up without a struggle. The other two men gave their names as Paul Gold, 20, and Paul Sparks, 20, both of New York.

that she "indorses President Gardiner in what he says in his pamphlet."

Mrs. Robert W. Kelley, of New York, a member of the board, wired the following message:

Jury Meets at Club.

"I indorse without reservations the policies of President Gardiner and the executive committee of the Navy League."

President Hoover's vindication committee, made up of Mr. Hammond, Admiral Hugh Rodman, Eliot Wadsworth, Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke, completed its report after a six-hour session at the Metropolitan Club.

Report "Good," Says Rodman.

"We finished the report, and it's a good one, too," said Admiral Rodman.

Chairman Hammond explained, however, that there was some checking and editing to do before the report is turned over to President Hoover. This probably will be completed early today.

The conclusions in the report will be based almost entirely on documentary facts and figures in possession of the State Department and the Navy Department. These facts and figures were presented to the committee by Undersecretary of State Castle and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke.

The five men got together yesterday at luncheon, and over "black cows," the Metropolitan's celebrated concoction of ginger ale and cream, went over the Gardiner pamphlet paragraph by paragraph.

Lengthy Statement Promised.

Chairman Hammond said that his committee's report will be several thousand words in length and will deal with various of the statements made by Mr. Gardiner.

It is a foregone conclusion that the committee will refute two of Mr. Gardiner's statements, the one in which he charged that President Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, entered into a secret agreement at the Rapidan Camp, and the one in which he accused President Hoover of trying to "starve" the Navy through his economy program.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson already has branded as false the charge that there was a secret Hoover-MacDonald agreement, and Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams has defended the President's economy policy and denied that he is trying to "starve" the Navy.

Army and Navy Journal Sharp.

Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, had a lengthy conversation with President Hoover yesterday on naval affairs. Later he said he planned to issue a statement concerning the relationship of the American Navy to the London treaty. The Pennsylvania senator was one of the American delegates to the London conference.

The Army and Navy Journal had this to say yesterday about the Hoover-Gardiner controversy:

"We think that the President finds he has the bear by the tail. It is already apparent that the country will not accept the conclusions of his own committee. Indeed, the door has been opened wide for the facts to come trooping out, and while no committee will agree with the Gardiner charge of 'abysmal ignorance,' there is little doubt the people generally will question a policy which prevents the United States from possessing that equality upon the seas which its vital interests require, and which the administration, with a blare of trumpets, declared had been achieved by the London treaty."

Sewer Contract Is Awarded.

Corson & Gruman Co. was awarded a contract for construction of the Fifteenth street replacement sewer, between Constitution avenue and E street northwest, yesterday by the District Commissioners on a bid of $3,906.35.

Jury Clears Jordan, Aikin and Edith Dodsworth of Conspiracy.

Thomas Jordan, Ralph Everett Aikin and Edith Magruder Dodsworth, arrested several months ago for allegedly conspiring to rob the Garden-T-Shoppe, were declared innocent of that charge yesterday, when the grand jury returned a report ignoring the request for their indictment.

Police had charged the trio with planning to rob the establishment, which was later robbed by two men who at the time shot and killed the cashier, but they were not charged with the actual robbing.

Conversations alleged to have been overheard and reported to the police led to the arrests. They were held in heavy bond, when they were given a preliminary hearing in police court. The action of the grand jury means that all three are cleared of any connection with the case.

Article Criticizes Dean; Editor Gets Suspension

Greencastle, Ind., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The board of control for The Depauw campus publication at Depauw University, this afternoon suspended Thoburn Wiant, student editor, because of a recent article severely criticizing Katherine Alvord, dean of women.

The article urged the dismissal of Dean Alvord for her "incompetency, inability to exert the slightest positive influence on women students and her total lack of capacity to understand and help women placed under her authority." It was written by Ben Deming, Fort Worth, Tex., student who is not a member of The Depauw staff. It was carried under the heading of "Student Opinion."

BANKS FAIL TO ASK U. S. CREDIT LOANS

Subscriptions to New Federal Corporation Pass $400,000,000 Mark.

New York, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—More than $400,000,000 of subscriptions to gold notes of the National Credit Corporation are already assured from banks throughout the country, Mortimer N. Buckner, president of the corporation, reported this evening after a meeting of the executive committee at the Federal Reserve Bank.

"The amount already subscribed," said Mr. Buckner, "and the indorsement of the plan throughout the country, satisfy the committee that the original estimate of $500,000,000 will be exceeded. The committee accordingly has instructed the officers of the corporation in their discretion to issue an initial call for 10 per cent of subscriptions to the notes as soon as any applications for loans from banks in fully organized associations are filed."

Although the corporation, formed for the purpose of assisting well-managed banks throughout the country to weather any crisis, has been ready for business several weeks, not a single application for a loan has thus far been received.

Subscriptions of the various banks, when and if needed, will be deposited in their District Federal Reserve Banks. This does not mean, however, it was said, that the money thus raised will be used only in the reserve district in which it is subscribed. It can be sent to any other district to meet an emergency.

Those present at the executive committee meeting were George M. Reynolds, of Chicago, chairman of the board; Mr. Buckner, Daniel G. Wing, of Boston; Livingston E. Jones, of Philadelphia, and Arthur E. Braun, of Pittsburgh.

ONE of the famous amateur baseball teams of Washington, well known around this section of the country. This is a picture of the old Columbia Athletic Baseball Team, taken in 1906.

5 IN JERSEY ASPIRE TO ACKERMAN SEAT

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Democratic hopes for adding the representative from the Fifth New Jersey Congressional District to the 217 the party expects to have when Congress convenes were centered today on Percy S. Stewart, of Plainfield, former member of the State highway commission. He was the only Democrat to file for the seat left vacant by the death of Ernest R. Ackerman, Republican, also of Plainfield. Candidates had until midnight to file.

Four Republicans filed nominating petitions, presaging keen rivalry at the primary to be held November 17. The election has been set for December 1, a special session of the Legislature having revised the State election laws to make possible certifying the winner in time for Congress opening session, December 7.

The Republicans are Donald H. McLean, of Elizabeth, former assistant prosecutor of Union County; Kenneth C. Hand, of Roselle, retiring member of the State Assembly; John E. Nicoll, of Plainfield, secretary to the late Mr. Ackerman, and Wesley A. Stanger, of Cranford, Mr. Ackermans opponent in the 1930 primary.

Hand expressed support of prohibition, while Stanger expressed opposition. The other candidates did not express their views.

Retired Officer, 68, Is Injured in Fall

A fractured skull was suffered last night by Charles Leon Brockway, 68, years old, a retired Army officer, when he tripped and fell down a flight of stairs at his home, 5332 Fifth street northwest. His head struck the corner of a small table at the foot of the stairs.

No one was in the hallway at the time of his accident, but it is believed he fell the entire distance from the top step of the second floor to the first floor. His wife, Mrs. Myrtle Brockway, heard a noise and came from another room in the house to find her husband unconscious, with blood flowing from the wound in his head.

Dr. John Marion Baker, of 1819 G street northwest, was called and had the man removed to Emergency Hospital. Mr. Brockway retired from the Army as a lieutenant in 1919. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American and the World Wars. He worked until last January at the General Accounting Office.

All Quiet Down the Cellar! Fermentation Aids Strike

By JOHN J. DALY

ALL is quiet in the basement.

No longer will the dog bark at the man who controlled the concentrated chemical reaction of wine in the making, the man who laid down the batch, the man who sang merrily as he worked:

"You get a fine glow
From drinking Vine-glo."

Henceforth and forever, Nature must take its course unhampered by the hand of the hired man. In America the individual home-owner must husband his own bubbles, taking care of his own vats underneath his castle. It all comes about from a voluntary gesture by the big companies, the great grape-juice interests of California, who jilt the spirits for the spirit of the law.

Abandoned to his own resources, the amateur must perforce roll his own kegs, cork his own bottles—and, if fermentation sets in, let it set. Thus is another new industry let loose, and one that will not tarry for the tariff.

Sad days, these, down where the wurtzburger flows. The lord of the manor must go it alone, without benefit of expert advice. It means an extension of the working day—a lengthening of the hours of labor.

* * * *

A MAN, after he has served his allotted time in the office, the factory or the field, will come home and do guard duty in the subterranean recesses, deserted by the very forces that glorified the American cellar.

Where is the justice of it all? Blame them not for believing there is no Santa Claus.

Mournful moments these be for those who have been swaggering around the best cellars.

From the white rock-bound coast of Maine to the sunny, grapefruited shores of California, moaning and groaning grip the land. From Canada on the north to Mexico on the south, the sparkle departs from human eyes, gone with the glow of the wine; the Vine-glo. Ah, woe that works such havoc!

It was not long ago that one of the philosophically inclined cellar poets was spurred by his muse in this fashion:

* * * *

BUBBLING bottles of Vine-glo,
As good as a man might be drinking,
Consumed when the stars and moon shine low;
When a man might be sleeping, not thinking,
He loses his bets;
For he might have been snoozing while drinking,
Or drinking while sleeping, thus thinking
Of the soul-flow that men lose by sleeping
And of sleep that's forsaken by drinking,
And weeping and wailing regrets.

Oh, it is too sad for words.

What will become of the battalions, the regimented fermenters, the marshalled forces of fruit-juice vendors who wended their way, day after day, and from door to door, into the great caverns beneath American homes, there crushing, stirring, filtering and bottling the nectar of the gods—the elixir from whose soothing substance came the shadowy thoughts of the morning's morning?

They have folded their siphons, like the Arabs, and have silently slipped away. There is only one glo of hope: The average American housewife, looking for her husband, may now be able to find him at home pursuing a policy of watchful waiting while the wine works in the cellar, with no expert to guide him.

SNELL PLANS TO CONTINUE FIGHT FOR HOUSE CONTROL

General James B. Allred, of his State, said Gov. Sterling could call a special election any time within the next 30 days in Wurzbach's district. Patman said he thought a successor could be elected in time to participate in election of a Speaker.

William Wurzbach, brother of the late House member, a Democrat, and county judge of Bexar County, of which San Antonio is the seat, is expected by Texas Democrats here to be a candidate.

Garner Delays for Funeral.

Funeral for the late Representative Wurzbach will be held at St. Mark's Church in San Antonio tomorrow afternoon. Members of the Texas delegation were appointed to the congressional funeral party by Sergeart-at-Arms Joseph Rodgers, of the House. Vice President Curtis will designate a Senate committee, including Senators Sheppard and Connally, of Texas.

Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, the Democratic selection for the Speakership, deferred his plans to leave Uvalde tomorrow for Washington long enough to attend the funeral.

While some Republicans have conceded privately that it appears certain the Democrats will organize the House, Senate Republicans expect to continue control of that branch.

Insurgent Threat Evaporates.

Senate Democrats have shown no inclination to wrest the organization from the Republicans, maintained by a coalition of regulars and independents, unless they have a majority. It is likely Republicans will have a plurality of one when the Senate meets. There have been some threats and counterthreats of a split in their forces, but none is expected to materialize.

As a result of the overturn in House control, the threat of Republican Independents to bolt the party on organization has evaporated. However, Representative Frear, of Wisconsin, allied with the group, said yesterday he thought they would continue to demand liberalization of House rules.

There are several Democrats, including Representatives Crisp, of Georgia; Collins, of Mississippi, and Huddleston, of Alabama, who also have fought for a change in procedure for several years.

At a conference with newspapermen, Representative Snell said he believed that if either party organized the House no attempt would be made by the other to overthrow control, even if a change in line-up placed the one out of power in the majority.

"If the Democrats organize the House, let them take and keep the responsibility," he said. "If we organize we will expect to take and keep the responsibility for the passage of much needed legislation. It would be a detriment to the country if the two parties reopen the fight over control after the House is once organized."

Democrat Is Expected To Succeed Wurzbach

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The Republican minority of the national House of Representatives was further reduced today by the unexpected death of Representative Harry M. Wurzbach, giving the Democrats a stronger position in their plans to organize the House.

Wurzbach's death gives the House Democrats a plurality of three, with one Farmer-Labor member on the rolls and three vacancies.

As the situation stood tonight there appeared serious doubt that the Republicans would be able to elect a successor to the Fourteenth District representative who, by his great personal popularity, won his place as the only Republican representative from Texas in five campaigns.

Personal Friend of Garner.

Increased Democratic strength in the House made more probable elevation to the Speakership of a neighbor Texan, Representative John Garner, an old personal friend of Wurzbach.

Whether a special election will be held in time to choose a successor to Wurzbach before Congress convenes December 7 remained undecided.

Confident the Republicans would be unable to advance a candidate who could duplicate Wurzbach's victories at the polls in a district with a heavy Democratic vote, some Democrats urged the election be speeded up in the hope that a Democrat could reach Washington in time to cast a ballot in organizing the House. It was argued that every vote that could be mustered should be rounded up, in view of the close division in the House membership.

Governor Delays Action.

Under the Texas law, the election may be set for any time within 30 days after the issuance of a proclamation by the governor, who may act as he sees fit. Gov. Ross S. Sterling, who was at Houston today, gave no indication as to when the election will be called.

Wurzbach died of complications following an operation for appendicitis. He was 57 years old and is survived by his widow. The home is at Seguin.

Funeral services will be Sunday afternoon at St. Mark's Episcopal Church and burial will be in the National Cemetery here. The body will lie in state in the Municipal Auditorium before the services.

BERLIN-PARIS PACT CARES FOR FUTURE

Germans Accept in Principle Laval's Plan on Debts After Moratorium.

Paris, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Germany already has agreed in principle to preliminary proposals made by Premier Laval in preparation for the financial problems that will arise when the Hoover one-year debt holiday is over, it was understood today.

The Laval proposals concerned the means of returning to the Young plan at the conclusion of the Hoover moratorium.

Dr. Leopold von Hoesch, German ambassador to Paris, has reported to the premier on the attitude of the Berlin cabinet toward his suggestions. It is understood the ambassador said Germany agreed in principle, but wished to have certain matters cleared up, notably the extent of the powers of the special consultative committee to be designated to investigate Germany's obligations under the Young plan.

The negotiations conducted by the premier, Finance Minister Flandin and Dr. Von Hoesch, it was said semiofficially, must soon be followed by an agreement between France and Germany on the conditions under which the inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay will be conducted.

Both the premier and the finance minister discussed German financial problems today with Emile Francqui, Belgian financial expert, who has just returned from the United States.

To them M. Francqui explained his suggestion that an international credit bank be established to act as trustee for the $1,300,000,000 of foreign credits frozen in Germany.

It was said semiofficially that the Francqui scheme struck the premier and the finance minister as being very ingenious, and that it will be seriously studied by experts for the purpose of determining how and whether it could be applied practically.

Chrysanthemum Show Opens Today

Flower Display of Government Promises to Eclipse All Previous Efforts.

It's chrysanthemum blossom time again in Washington. The United States Department of Agriculture will open its thirtieth annual "mum" show in celebration of the event at 9 o'clock this morning at its exhibition house at Fourteenth street and Constitution avenue northwest.

The flower display promises to eclipse all other similar exhibitions, according to Dr. William A. Taylor, chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, who, with other botanists and commercial florists, have already viewed the blossoms.

The "mum" house will remain open daily from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. until November 15, the department announced. Exhibits include 195 varieties of the Japanese blooms, 570 varieties of pompoms and singles, and several dozen new singles of both varieties.

Pension Again Denied Widow.

The District Commissioners yesterday sustained the action of their predecessors who in 1928 denied a pension to the widow of William N. Still, a policeman who committed suicide. The denial was based on a recommendation by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride.

MISS SWANSON WED IN AUGUST, REPORT

Elmsford, N. Y., Mayor Says He Married Actress to Irish Sportsman.

Elmsford, N. Y., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Mayor John E. Murray said tonight he had married Gloria Swanson, film actress, and Michael Farmer, wealthy Irish sportsman, August 16 at the home of Dudley Field Malone, the attorney.

Mayor Murray said he was called by telephone on Sunday, August 16, from the Elmsford home of Malone and asked to officiate at the ceremony and provide witnesses.

The wedding took place, he related, at the Malone home at 11 a. m. that day, with William Buckley, receiver of taxes for Greenburgh Township, and Edward F. Hennessey, Mount Pleasant town clerk, as witnesses.

The mayor said Miss Swanson gave her age as 31 and Farmer said he was 29.

"It was all in a day's work, and I promptly forgot about it," the mayor said when asked for details. He was unable to remember what sort of a costume Miss Swanson wore or whether Mr. Malone was present at the ceremony.

The date on which the mayor said the wedding took place was two days after Miss Swanson and Farmer returned from Europe on the same liner.

At that time the film star told reporters she "certainly will marry again some time" when asked about her plans after the conclusion of divorce proceedings dissolving her marriage to the Marquis de la Falaise.

In California it was understood the divorce would not become final until tomorrow, November 7. Milton Cohen, Miss Swanson's attorney there, had said he would file the final papers next Monday.

Hine School Contract Awarded Wagner Firm

The District Commissioners yesterday awarded a contract for the construction of a gymnasium and three additional classrooms at the Hine Junior High School to Frank L. Wagner, Inc., on the low bid of $60,899.

Although only $53,044.86 was available for this project, the Commissioners transferred a surplus of $10,000 from the appropriation for the Benjamin Stoddert School.

bed. Firemen were called to assist other residents of the vicinity who tried to extinguish the fire.

Hearing the excitement, Mrs. Miller, whose husband is a carpenter at the Four Mile Run barns of the electric railway, returned to her home. She collapsed when told of her child's death and was taken to the Alexandria Hospital in the rescue squad ambulance to be treated for hysteria. Her husband was notified and returned home at once.

Dr. E. M. Jones, the coroner, issued a certificate of accidental death. The position of the body on the bed where the fire started and the absence of any other cause for the fire led to the belief that a childish interest in matches lay at the bottom of the fatality. The fire was extinguished before it had seriously damaged the house.

PROGRAM PREPARED FOR VISIT OF GRANDI

Extra Guards to Be Thrown Around Italian to Bar Anti-Fascists.

Tentative program for the visit of Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi to the United States was officially announced yesterday by the State Department.

Signor Grandi is the latest exponent of the new school of "personal diplomacy," which was inaugurated when Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald visited President Hoover in his Rapidan White House.

The Italian diplomat will arrive in New York Monday, November 16, and it is now planned he will be hurried from the pier at the foot of West Fifty-seventh street to the Pennsylvania Station without the formality of the usual city hall reception. This precaution has been decided upon advisedly by special agents of the Government who have been assigned to guard the Italian statesman from feared anti-Fascist attacks.

Special Guards Assigned.

A special corps of secret service men speaking Italian and State Department agents has been mobilized to guard the statesman. It is believed the secret service men will be under general direction of John J. Fitzgerald, formerly of the White House detail, who is now in charge in New York. Robert Bannerman, State Department special agent in New York, will have his usual force accompanying the diplomat.

Extraordinary precautions will be maintained to protect the life of Signor Grandi as long as he is in the country. He may not even enter New York proper, but may decide to cross over immediately to the Jersey side of the river and come to Washington on the Baltimore & Ohio.

These arrangements, however, will be definitely decided by Italian Ambassador De Martino, who arrives here today from Rome.

To Visit Stimson Home.

His first two days in Washington Signor Grandi and his wife will be guests of Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson at their magnificent home, Woodley. Col. Stimson met the 36-year-old diplomat in Rome this summer and was deeply impressed with his very warm sentiments and sympathies for the United States.

It was Signor Grandi who first proposed to the League of Nations the twelve-month arms truce which has been adopted almost unanimously by all nations which are to attend the general disarmament conference in Geneva next year.

The first two days of the Grandi visit will be filled with the usual courtesies of international protocol—calls on the President, visit to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, visits to the Vice President and Chief Justice, and, finally, on the evening of November 18, President Hoover will entertain the foreign minister at a formal White House dinner.

Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon both will entertain Signor Grandi, and Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., will be host at a luncheon.

The Washington part of the Grandi visit will terminate with a dinner at the Italian Embassy offered by Italian Ambassador and Mme. de Martino. Friday Minister Grandi will be entertained in Philadelphia, and Saturday and Sunday he will be guest of the American Ambassador to Italy, John W Garrett, at Baltimore.

From November 23 to 27 Signor Grandi will be in New York, where he is expected to discuss financial details of recent Italian political movements with American bankers and with the directors of the Banca Commerciale Italiana.

Arms Significance Seen.

Especial significance of Signor Grandi's visit is in the basis which will be laid for an understanding on the scope and nature of the forthcoming General Disarmament Conference in February at Geneva. The United States and Italy entertain the same views along certain lines, particularly with reference to reduction of armaments, either naval or military.

Italy's swollen budget makes it exceedingly difficult to follow the pace which France has set, backed up with her gold reserves, which are approximately six times as great as Italy's. Conversations are envisaged here which will have a direct bearing on the agenda of the Geneva Conference.

The full Grandi program is as follows:

Monday, November 16.

Morning, arrive at New York on the S. S. Conte Grande and proceed immediately to Pennsylvania Station to entrain for Washington. (This may be changed to departure from Jersey City without entering New York.) Early afternoon, Arrive at Washington and proceed to Woodley, the home of the Secretary of State, where they will dine en famille. Signor Grandi's staff will proceed to the Mayflower Hotel. Late afternoon, formal call on the President at the White House.

Tuesday.

The day will be spent at Woodley. The foreign minister, accompanied by the Italian Ambassador, will visit the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Signor Grandi, accompanied by the Italian Ambassador, will call upon the Vice President. Signor Grandi and the Italian Ambassador will call upon the Chief Justice. Signor and Signora Grandi will lunch at the Italian Embassy. The Secretary of State will give a dinner at the Pan American Union in honor of Signor and Signora Grandi.

Wednesday.

Signor and Signora Grandi will take up their residence at the Mayflower Hotel. Luncheon at Secretary Mellon's. The President will give a dinner at the White House in honor of Signor and Signora Grandi.

Thursday.

Luncheon at Mr. Castle's. The Ambassador of Italy and Signora de Martino will give a dinner in honor of Signor and Signora Grandi.

Friday.

Signor and Signora Grandi leave for Philadelphia. The Mayor of Philadelphia will give a luncheon in honor of the foreign minister. Signor Grandi will attend a dinner given by the Order of the Sons of Italy.

Saturday.

Signor and Signora Grandi will visit the Widener art collection and leave for Baltimore, where Signor and Signora Grandi will be guests of the Ambassador to Italy and Mrs. J. W. Garrett. Informal reception by Ambassador Garrett.

Sunday.

The day will be spent at the home of Ambassador and Mrs. Garrett. There will be no public engagements.

Monday.

Arrive in New York.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Rome, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Dino Grandi, black-bearded, broad-shouldered, who is sailing for the United States tomorrow to give President Hoover Italy's suggestions for curing the world's ills, is the youngest man who holds a position of the first rank in the government of any major power.

Only 36, he is Italy's foreign minister and Benito Mussolini's right-hand man. His full beard disguises his youth to some degree, but his flashing eye, his verve and enthusiasm are those of a man much younger than most of the world's statesmen.

It was not so long ago that his black shirt was in the thick of the Fascist fight against Communism in the postwar period. His voice bawled from balconies and his typewriter produced flaming editorials in the Assault, the newspaper he edited in the pre-Mussolini period.

The rough-and-tumble Fascist fighter is a facile statesman now, ranking in prominence, and probably in ability, with high state diplomats with whom he has negotiated many times. His appointment pad has at one time or another listed the names MacDonald, Stimson, Mellon, Briand, Bruening, Pilsudski, and, many, many times, Mussolini.

In the imposing office at the Palazzo Chigi he is a diplomatic magnifico, but his is a double life, and at home he is only "Pap" to Simonetta and Franco, the two children with whom he and his wife spend frequent Sundays and holidays on tramping trips in the mountains.

Signor Grandi, son of a gentleman farmer, came from Mordano, in central Italy, to the law school at Bologna. In the middle of his course the war began, and when Italy went in, so did he, joining the Alpine corps as an officer on skis.

When it was over he was a captain with a silver medal and a bronze medal with four crosses for valor. Later he was made a major, then promoted to colonel and eventually became an honorary lieutenant general of the Fascist militia when it was organized.

Early in 1921 Communist terrorism was spreading like a pestilence. The young Grandi threw in his lot with Benito Mussolini and together this early unit of Fascism wiped out the Communist menace.

Grandi was the first Fascist deputy sent to Parliament by his district, but he was too young by a month to take his seat. Mussolini then was a deputy, too, and when his month had passed Grandi came in to work again with his old chief. In October, 1922, the 27-year-old Fascist was chief of the general staff of the black shirts who marched on Rome, overthrew the tottering government and placed Mussolini in power.

Then Grandi's real political career began. The Fascists made him vice president of the Chamber of Deputies and the new premier started him on that long series of international missions in which he got his training for the post he now occupies.

He has been to Washington once before, accompanying Count Volpi in 1925 to negotiate a debt settlement. It was that visit which made him resolve to learn the English language. His knowledge of the alien tongue now, is more than sufficient for his purposes.

HOOVER BUDGET CUTS TOTAL $350,000,000

ber 1. He followed this with a series of week-end budget conferences at his Rapidan camp, in which every major item of expenditure was scrutinized.

Reduction Is 10 Per Cent.

It was disclosed at that time that the President hoped for a reduction of 10 per cent in the 1933 budget as compared with that of 1932.

Since the department estimates were placed in the hands of Budget Director Roop in September they have been gone over once more in a series of conferences with the departmental fiscal chiefs. Out of this revision has come the $350,000,000 reduction announced yesterday.

The Navy estimates still are in the process of revision, but agreement has been reported on the outside limits of the department's 1933 expenditures. These limits represent a reduction of approximately $60,000,000 from the department's compilations.

Message to Give Details.

Although the Federal budget estimates sent to Congress last December aggregated $3,932,842,000 for the fiscal year ending next June, various emergency measures, including expansion of public works, called for $500,000,000 of additional appropriations in the last session.

Not all of these additions, however, were entirely for the fiscal year 1932. But the President has not yet received figures to show how much in such items will carry over to 1933.

Details of the 1933 expenditures will not be made public until the President transmits his budget message to Congress December 8.

Jury Clears Policeman In Embezzlement Case

Alexander D. McKinnon, whose dismissal from the police force was recommended by the trial board Wednesday, was cleared of a charge of embezzlement by the grand jury yesterday. He had been charged with taking $500 of the funds of the Police Relief Association.

The association wrote to United States Attorney Leo A. Rover disclaiming any wish to prosecute McKinnon as the money had been fully repaid.

AMRICAN BURIAL PLANNED.

Miss Jessie Patterson Will Be Interred in New York.

The body of Miss Jessie Patterson, socially prominent member of the American colony in Paris and an aunt of Mrs. Harral Mulliken, of 2019 Q street northwest, is being brought back to New York for burial. Miss Patterson died at the age of 72 years at her summer home in Barbizon, France, October 26.

One of her nieces, Miss Marion Mansfield Greenough, of New York, was at her bedside when she died.

She had been prominent in philanthropic and social circles in the French capital. After the World War she helped organize and was second president of the American Women's Club in Paris. She also was a member of the Children's Library Association and the McCall Mission Society in Paris.

MASS FOR SISTER JERLATH.

Requiem Will be Sung For Repose of Miss Marie Stanton.

Requiem high mass will be said for Sister Jerlath, in maiden life Miss Marie Stanton, of Oakland, Md., who died November 1 at Toomiliah, India, at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the Foreign Mission Seminary, Brookland, D. C.

Sister Jerlath attended Holy Cross Academy here from 1918 to 1922, and was in the Foreign Mission Convent in 1928 and 1929. She left this country for foreign mission service in India in January, 1930. Holy Cross sisters will attend this morning's ceremonies in a body.

DUCE GIVES GRANDI FINAL INSTRUCTION

Long Talk on Eve of Sailing Empowers Minister to Speak for Chief.

Rome, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Fortified by Premier Mussolini, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi sails for the United States tomorrow to present to President Hoover a "neutral" viewpoint on what ails the world's economic and political machinery.

He had a long talk with Il Duce and therefore goes as the premier's personal representative, empowered to speak in the latter's name. Both statesmen are said to feel that Italy is in a more detached position than any other European nation and alone among them is able to move quickly in any direction that the premier approves.

The Italian government has maintained silence on the possibilities of Premier Laval negotiating with Germany for the recasting of reparations payments, but diplomatic circles here say the feeling in Europe generally is gloomy on that score. Signor Grandi is expected to reach the heart of the problem in his discussion at Washington.

His visit may assume major importance among the recent intergovernment conferences, it is believed, because of Italy's disposition to cooperate with the United States wherever possible, and because he takes with him a real knowledge of the German situation.

Signor Grandi, it is known, in his talks at Rome and Berlin received Chancellor Bruening's full confidence and will be in a position to tell Mr. Hoover what Herr Bruening himself would say if he went to Washington—but "sterilized" with his own and Mussolini's observations.

Going with him on the liner Conte Grande are attractive Signora Grandi, making her first voyage across, and a staff of nine. Chief of the latter is Augusto Rosso, former counsellor of the Italian Embassy at Washington and head of the foreign office department dealing with reparations, disarmament and other international matters.

Man, 77, Succumbs To Injuries by Auto

Driver Held for Coroner's Action as Victim Dies After 11 Days.

Casius Blacklidge, 77 years old, 1106 Seventh street, died at Providence Hospital yesterday as result of injuries sustained when struck by an automobile October 26 as he was walking across the intersection at Eighth and H streets northeast.

Lewis Salatto, 31, 331 Eighth street northeast, driver of a car which was backing out from the curb on Eighth street when the man was struck, was arrested by police of the Ninth Precinct and held for action of a coroner's jury.

After the accident Salatto took the injured man home, where he was treated by a private physician for contusions about the body and a possible fracture of the hip. His injuries were not considered of a dangerous nature. Later Mr. Blacklidge became worse and he was taken to the hospital, where he died shortly after noon yesterday.

ROLL CALL INDORSED BY COMMISSIONERS

Red Cross Drive to Continue From November 11 to Thanksgiving.

The Board of Commissioners yesterday expressed their interest and approval of the fifteenth annual membership roll call of the Red Cross in a letter addressed to Mrs. Harry Barnes, director of the District chapter.

The letter read: "The Commissioners of the District of Columbia desire to express their deep interest in the fifteenth annual roll call of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Red Cross, which begins on Armistice Day and will continue until Thanksgiving Day.

"A business committee has been appointed to cover all the business industries of the District for the local Red Cross chapter. It is hoped this will give an additional return in memberships.

"Every citizen of the District of Columbia should enroll as a member of the Red Cross. The work of the Red Cross, internationally, nationally and locally, is of the greatest benefit to humanity, and it should be an honor for every citizen to assist in the work. The Commissioners hope that your membership drive this year will exceed all other years."

Formerly Was Superintendent of Supplies of Postal Department.

Thomas L. Degnan, former superintendent of supplies of the Postoffice Department, died last night at his home, 1825 Kilbourne street northwest. He was 62 years old and had been ill for several months.

Born in Easton, Pa., Mr. Degnan came to this city in 1901 and has resided here ever since. He was a member of Spaulding Council, Knights of Columbus, and also of the Washington General Assembly of the fourth degree, Knights of Columbus.

Surviving Mr Degnan are his widow; four brothers, James M., John K., William I., all of Bethlehem, Pa., and Joseph J., of this city; two sons, Thomas L., jr., of New York, and George A., of this city, and a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Degnan, of this city.

Church Says New Party Will Have Wet Platform

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, said today that a national Liberal party would be organized with an outright wet plank in its platform and hold a convention in 1932 for the purpose of nominating candidates for President and Vice President. He said the party's platform also would include demands for immediate reduction of 20 per cent in the tariff; issuance of $1,000,000,000 in silver certificates based upon the purchase of an equal value of silver bullion, and remission of a part of the war debts.

RIVERMAN INDICTED FOR KILLING GIRL, 14

Grand Jury Action Repeats Finding of Illegal Body Last Summer.

A 70-year-old man, who killed a 14-year-old girl when she spurned him, was indicted by the District grand jury yesterday on a charge of first degree murder. He is William Owens, a riverman.

Miss Louise Bryant was shot by Owens in her home at 436 M street southwest July 2. She died several days later.

Owens had been previously indicted but the indictment was returned by a grand jury that later was found to have been illegally constituted.

Two others were indicted for murder yesterday. They were William Watkins and Alonzo Dunbar, both colored. Dunbar is accused of shooting Cicero Dodson, colored, September 19, in Schoot's alley. Watkins stabbed Wesley Phillips, colored, in a fight October 25.

More British Strikers Dismissed.

Plymouth, England, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Further dismissals of navy enlisted men were reported here today. It was understood that the men concerned are marines attached to H. M. S. Rodney. That vessel was one of those involved in the "strike" at Invergodon recently. Twenty-four seamen were dismissed from the service last week.

"I liked Chesterfield right from the start"

"NO, I don't know a blessed thing about how cigarettes are made. But, of course, I would want the tobacco to be PURE. And then I've heard that the blending is very important. I'd want that to be done just right.

"Then the paper. I don't like paper that you can taste—or smell when it's burning. I'd want that pure too.

"Another thing. I want to smoke whenever I feel like it—without worrying about smoking too many. So I want my cigarettes MILD.

"But the main thing, of course, is TASTE. I don't care for over-sweetened cigarettes. I much prefer those that are just sweet enough.

"Chesterfield seems to satisfy in every one of these ways. That is why I'd rather have a Chesterfield."

SMOKERS tire of too much sweetness in a cigarette, and they don't like rawness. For a steady diet, they want a cigarette like CHESTERFIELD—a mild and mellow smoke, free from any over-sweetness or any harshness or bitterness. That's why more and more smokers every day are changing to CHESTERFIELD.

Good . . . they've got to be good.

SAILORS' BRAVERY IN BLAST IS CITED

Death Toll Is 7, With 2 More Dying; 20 Injured Kept at Rescue Work.

San Pedro, Calif., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The bravery of wounded sailors who aided comrades more seriously injured was told today as the death list from a series of three accidents involving the United States naval forces along the Pacific Coast mounted to seven.

The stories of heroism came from the U. S. S. Colorado, where an anti-aircraft gun exploded yesterday while the ship was 45 miles at sea.

Four men, an officer and three enlisted sailors, were killed outright as broken steel, hurled like shrapnel, raked the decks. Another sailor died today and a sixth was on the verge of death.

A recheck of the list of injured, originally placed at 10, disclosed that 22 were hurt. The 12 additional injured were sailors, who had disregarded their wounds in the hours following the explosions.

Tales of Heroism.

Not until they had given all possible assistance did they seek treatment. One officer, Ensign George F. Kosko, former football star at the Naval Academy, aided fallen comrades while he himself suffered from a piece of metal driven into his thigh.

Another, Claude A. Coulter, seaman first class, of Jefferson City, Mo., worked with the injured while his elbow joints were splintered with metal. Seamen Chancey Stover, of Lansing, Mich., with back injuries, and Herbert E. Lutz, of San Diego, suffering from leg cuts, joined in the rescue work before seeking assistance.

To the five dead on the Colorado a sixth fatality was added with the death of Chief Petty Officer J. J. Plummer, who died today from a crushed back and chest, received when he was pinned beneath the base of a gun which had been lowered when a sailor operating the mechanism became confused. Plummer was standing in the gun pit.

Killed in Plane Crash.

The seventh death was that of Lieut. Comdr. O. W. Erickson, veteran Navy pilot, killed when his airplane plunged off the deck of the aircraft carrier, U. S. S. Saratoga, as a landing was being attempted. Erickson, member of an air club, the Borrowed Timbers, so named because its members had escaped from other narrow brushes with death, had several sensational experiences in his flying career before death overtook him.

The list of dead on the Colorado follows: Lieut. Ralph F. Bradford, jr., 32, Pontiac, Ill.; Maurice G. Hawkins, seaman, first class, Hastings, Mich.; Lewis A. Clark, 18, seaman, second class, Los Gatos, Calif.; J. J. Schnur, seaman, first class, St. Louis, Mo.; Clarence E. Swift 19, seaman, first class, Los Angeles.

Expected to die:

Robert O. Duff, seaman, first class, Ages, Ky.; back riddled by steel.

H. J. Hintin, seaman, first class, Wichita, Kans.; fractured skull.

Injured but will recover:

Lieut. Winston I. Quattlebaum, Covington, Ky.; arm mangled; amputation likely. All seamen, first class: S. R. Kowalski, Pittsburgh; Herbert E. Lutz, San Diego, Calif.; Chancey V. Stover, Lansing, Mich.; William H. Duval, Boise, Idaho; Claude A. Coulter, Jefferson City, Mo. Ensign George F. Kosko, Long Beach, Calif.

Electric Rate Cut Urged by Pinchot

Former Governor Says Lower Charges Would Aid Trade.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, speaking before the American Academy of Political and Social Science tonight, said that electric power and electric appliance companies could contribute to the forward movement for industrial recovery by lowering their prices.

"Nobody questions the field for increased use of appliances at more reasonable prices," said the governor. "Low cost of current means low cost of operation, and that induces purchase. With the increased use of appliances, there would be increased consumption, and under an adequate system of regulation a further reduction of rates would become possible."

Artificial Hand Is Lost By Prowler in Scuffle

Los Angeles, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—A husky householder who knew his wristlock pulled a hand off his prowling adversary today.

Sam Loya surprised the early morning intruder on his lawn and seized him with a viselike wristlock. Loya gave a vicious yank, something parted, and the prowler fled. In reporting the incident to police Loya laid an artificial hand before the desk sergeant as proof of the encounter.

JAPAN WILL RECALL TROOPS, SAYS ENVOY

portant strategic city in northwest Manchuria, 25 miles north of the scene of Thursday's skirmish.

The ambassador described as a "regrettable misunderstanding" the battle in which 130 Japanese and an unknown number of Chinese were killed.

He told Undersecretary Castle that Japanese authorities had been assured by the commander of the Chinese forces, Gen. Mah Chanshan, that the detachment of 500 Japanese soldiers guarding engineers at work on the bridges would not be molested.

Apparently through a misunderstanding, he said, some of Gen. Mah's troops opened fire, killing fifteen Japanese at the first volley and a hot fight ensued, the Japanese driving their foes northward.

Debuchi denied a Chinese contention that some of the Japenese soldiers masqueraded in Chinese clothes and were accompanied by Chinese bandits.

Whaley, Aircraft Head, Found Dead.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Edward A. Whaley, president of the Whaley Aircraft & Engineering Corporation, was found dead in his automobile in the garage at the rear of his home today. Death apparently was from heart failure.

PARENTS ACCUSED OF CRUELTY

blue eyes and bulbous cheeks. Her limbs hang from her body like useless appendages. Her legs can hardly support her 38 pounds.

Armed with a warrant Policewoman Ruby G. Brandt, two United States marshals and Detective Sergts. L. M. Wilson and Thomas Bragg went to the Riley home, which is next to a church at 1110 Rhode Island avenue.

In the small closet they found the child crouched in a corner. There was no bedding. Her only covering was a small slip over her small body. Thus she sat, as she has every day for years. Accustomed only to the blackness of the closet, her large blue eyes blinked when she was brought into the sunshine. Outside the door a dog stood sentinel.

Doctors at the hospital said her body was scarred and bore nasty blue bruises. Her development, they said, was that of a child about 5 years of age. Never had she been to school, the detectives said, and her vocabulary is limited only to expressions of her wants.

When they brought her to Gallinger Hospital from the Receiving Home they fed her. The prosaic records of the hospital diagnosed her case as "malnutrition."

The records say nothing of the meal she ate or of her request for four eggs after she had finished the usual meal, and no mention is made of her pleadings for two more cups of cocoa. There is nothing on the records of the impression that must have been made on her dwarfed mind as the nurses brought her gently into the playroom of the children's ward.

Play a New Experience.

Nothing in her experience had equaled this. In truth, to her it must have been like a transplanting of her mind and body from the drab and black closet, where sunshine came only through the cracks in the door, to a new land, perhaps fairyland, of which mentally normal children hear.

Nurses thought they saw a faint smile crease her pasty cheeks. Then she gathered those toys that caught her fancy and carried them with her when she was brought away. To her, it didn't matter that the doll she picked was wigless and had been tossed aside by other children. It was something new and she hugged it to her.

There is nothing in the hospital records of the nurse, who attended the child, sobbing convulsively as she dressed the child in a clean nightgown. Nothing that would tell the story of Edith, hugging the broken doll to her breast, and staring fixedly ahead, breaking her gaze only to cast an affectionate glance at the battered and broken doll.

In the House of Detention her stepmother said: "When I first knew her eight years ago, she used to take spasms and bang her head on the sidewalk. They said she was dirty when they found her today. You should have seen her when I first met her.

Door Not Always Locked.

"The door to the closet wasn't always locked. I closed it because I was going out to a store. Why, when she was 3 years old she tried to kill us all by turning on the gas jets. We kept her in the closet to stop her from killing herself and dirtying the house."

"Why didn't you send her to an institution?" she was asked.

"We thought we'd like to keep her."

"Didn't you think that she would be better off in an institution than in a closet?"

"We talked about it many times, but just never got around to it."

"Was it a question of money?"

"No. The doctors said it would cost nothing.

In the Third Precinct, her husband said the child was born January 4, 1919, and her mother died three weeks later.

"I now wish that I had sent her away," he said, "when the doctors advised us to."

"Was she always kept in the closet?"

Police Doubt Malice.

The police are inclined to attribute the treatment of the child to ignorance rather than malice. Even though the child is mentally defective, they said, it would be no excuse for keeping her in the condition in which she was found. There are institutions, they said, for the treatment of such children, where she should have been placed.

Knowledge of the girl's imprisonment came through her brother, Francis, who attends Langley Junior High. He had spoken to his classmates about her and the rumors reached Judge Kathryn Sellers. She asked Mrs. Brandt to investigate, and after receiving her report issued the attachment.

The warrants for the arrest of the parents were issued in Police Court. The charge on which they are held is considered a misdemeanor and the maximum penalty is a fine of $250 or imprisonment up to two years, or both, if found guilty.

Party to Be Given Volunteer Workers

"Anniversary week" at Neighborhood House, the Community Chest settlement at 470 N street southwest, will end tonight with a supper party from 5 to 7 o'clock for volunteer workers. Miss Amy C. Leavitt and Mrs. William G. Crabbe, both of whom have given continuous service through the 30 years of the settlement's existence, will be guests of honor.

"We are anxious to have all the volunteer workers who have assisted Neighborhood House present tomorrow night," Mrs. J. P. S. Neligh, head resident of the settlement, said last night. "There are a great many women who have given time to our work, especially in the days when we had no paid workers, and we would appreciate the opportunity to do them honor. We were not able to send out invitations to this event."

Tonight's supper party will conclude a week of activity marking 30 years of service on the part of Neighborhood House.

Cannon's Counsel Withdraws Appeal

(Associated Press.)

Counsel for Bishop James Cannon, jr., has withdrawn an appeal for a writ of prohibition against the Senate campaign funds committee investigation into his political activities.

The writ was denied by the District of Columbia Supreme Court and the Senate committee immediately completed its inquiry.

Cannon called upon his counsel to appeal the case against the Senate committee, but it was learned yesterday that as soon as the action was filed, it was withdrawn by his attorneys. The Southern Methodist Church man had challenged the jurisdiction of the Senate committee.

Bean Named to Police Board.

Inspector Thaddeus R. Bean yesterday was appointed an alternate member of the Policemen's and Firemen's Retiring and Relief Board by the District Commissioners to replace Inspector William S. Shelby, who retired last week.

CAPTURE AND DEATH OF MISSIONARY TOLD

Letter Cabled From Nanking Bares Details of Chinese Bandits' Terrorism.

(Associated Press.)

A description of the capture of the Rev. J. W. Vinson by a large group of Chinese bandits, who later killed him, was received at the State Department yesterday through Consul General Willys R. Peck, at Nanking.

Mr. Peck cabled a letter sent him by the Presbyterian Mission at Haichow to which Mr. Vinson, whose home is in Lexington, Va., was attached.

The letter said Vinson was staying in a country town, Yang Chiachi, described as "a good sized place and safe enough, ordinarily, from bandits," about 30 miles southeast of Haichow.

"On October 31, (Saturday night)" it continued, "a band of six or seven hundred bandits entered the town and took entire possession, all that night and all the next day they looted, burned over a third of the town, killed about 30 people, wounded others and took captive about 150 people.

"The first night the chapel where Mr. Vinson was staying was entered a number of times but not seriously disturbed until about 3 o'clock Sunday morning. At that time a number of bandits forced an entrance. They first threatened and robbed several, helpers, but did not make them captive.

"Finally they entered Mr. Vinson's room, robbed him of all his possessions, including his overcoat, which one of the bandits put on. He was then compelled to dress and was made captive. He was kept under watch till about dark Sunday night, when the bandits left the town, taking their loot and captives, among the latter Mr. Vinson."

An escaped captive and a coolie, who had been compelled to carry loot, returned a few hours later and reported having seen Mr. Vinson in the custody of the bandits with his hands tied in front of him. It was added that the raiding party split into two bands, heading in opposite directions, and that Mr. Vinson was in the hands of those going east.

Since the letter was written the State Department received reports that the bandits decapitated him.

Public Works Get Prosperity Credit

(Associated Press.)

A Massachusetts carried to prosperity by a public works program was described here last night by Democratic Gov. Joseph P. Ely before the Woman's National Democratic Club.

Ely said the building of roads, hospitals, and other needed public improvements in the State had furnished employment to 25,000 men who would otherwise have been out of work.

Building in a time of depression, the governor said, had saved the State $1,500,000 out of the first $7,000,000 of estimated cost, and that from 15 to 30 per cent of estimate had been saved in every endeavor. Ely urged "utilizing credit resources so that the faith of men can be held to our plan of government."

Soviet Credit Request Is Refused in Germany

Berlin, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Russia's request for a new rediscount credit of 50,000,000 marks (about $11,846,000) has been refused by the German economic committee for Russia in view of the fact that this year's rediscounts already total 200,000,000 marks or 50,000,000 more than the amount originally agreed on.

LEAGUE STUDIES PROPOSAL TO RECALL ENVOYS TO JAPAN

the "Chinese proletariat" in their conflict with Japan over Manchuria.

The executive committee of the international, which represents the Communist parties in every nation, issued the appeal on the eve of the fourteenth anniversary of the October revolution.

"This war against the working masses of China," the statement read, "is a war against us and a step toward war against the Soviet Republic. Organize mass revolutionary barriers against that war for a united, independent Soviet China.

"The leaders of all capitalistic countries are wandering about in search of an outlet, afraid of complete bankruptcy before the mounting proletarian revolution. The class fight is becoming more acute. The imperialists have already begun war in the Far East in the hopes of attaining this outlet."

History now presents the question as to whether capitalism or communism will emerge from the present international crisis, it was said, and the masses throughout the world must enlist under the banner of Lenin to assure victory for the proletariat revolution.

"Capitalism means the enslavement of the working classes, uniting all the black forces in the world for war against the Soviet Republic," the statement continued. "A revolutionary outcome means the establishment of a proletarian dictatorship and the organization of millions of new fighters for the difficult but great struggle along with the proletariat of the Soviet Republic for the complete victory of socialism.

Diplomatic Boycott Studied.

Geneva, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The possibility of a concerted withdrawal of diplomatic representations from Tokyo as the next move in the Sino-Japanese conflict was considered by League of Nations leaders tonight in planning for the next meeting of the council in Paris on November 16.

In fact, the legal section of the secretariat, under orders from Secretary General Sir Eric Drummond, was studying article 15 of the league covenant to determine whether the member nations could be asked to remove their ambassadors and ministers in the event that Japan continues to reject measures of arbitration. This article deals with sanctions of a military and economic nature to be invoked against an aggressor nation.

It is understood that this examination also envisages the practicability of levying an economic boycott against Japan, but such action remains in the background for the present. When the council reassembles, a threefold program will lie before it, according to league authorities.

Moderates Fight Militarists.

First, a supreme effort will be made to induce Japan to adopt a conciliatory attitude toward China and restore the status quo in Manchuria in accordance with the league's recommendations. Failing that, the next proposal would be a declaration calling for all members and probably all Kellogg pact signatories to remove their envoys.

The latter could be voted validly without Japan's approval for it would be only a recommendation, but officials believe it would have a tremendous moral effect. It probably would be prefaced by a condemnation of the Japanese as a violator of the covenant and the pact of Paris.

If Japan is still adamant, the council carrying out plans now under discussion would consider ways and means of putting a boycott into operation.

This program, which is said on excellent authority to be under consideration by several governments as well, is of course predicated on the premise that the Japanese army will continue its activities in Manchuria. Far Eastern experts insist that there is a moderate group in Japan which is doing its utmost to curb the power of military elements.

American Support Expected.

The league is obviously counting on the support of America in executing these steps. A Tokyo report that the United States Ambassador had informed Foreign Minister Shidehara of his government's approval of the council's recent resolution was received with great satisfaction.

Chairman Aristide Briand is said to be struggling with Japanese Ambassador Yoshizawa in Paris in an effort to have Japan return the salt tax revenues allegedly seized in Manchuria and to abandon purported "incendiary activities" by the Japanese army. International circles are much disturbed by reports that Japan is seizing revenues and setting up puppet governments to displace Chinese authorities.

While there was some opposition on the part of the Chinese to the council meeting in Paris, it is believed they will approve in deference to M. Briand's wishes and to assure that he will remain in the role of peacemaker until a solution is reached.

RUSSIA PROCLAIMED AS NATION OF PEACE

Premier, on 14th Anniversary of Revolution, Charges Powers Seek War.

Moscow, Nov. 6 (U.P.).—The Soviet Union, entering the fifteenth year of its revolutionary existence, was proclaimed as a nation of peace tonight by Premier Viacheslav Molotov.

Molotov made a two-hour exposition of the Soviet policy of peace in the packed Soviet Grand Opera House, aflame with red bunting and banners bearing the slogan of the proletariat revolution. He was received with a thunderous ovation.

"The Soviet Union not only is protected, it is invincible," Molotov declared. He denounced "imperialist inventions" charging Soviet intrusion in Manchuria and contrasted the Soviet achievements with the depression, unemployment and wage cuts of capitalistic nations.

The 5-year plan, Molotov said, will be completed in 1932, or in four years, being already three-fourths completed. He admitted serious obstacles existed, particularly in connection with supplies of food and clothes, but hinted at an important reorganization of methods of distribution.

Sees New War Prepared.

The mutual visits between statesmen of the capitalist nations, he said, referring to the Laval, Bruening, MacDonald, Hoover and other conversations, indicate that the powers are preparing "new wars and attacks on the Soviets."

The United States, stronghold of capitalism, is undergoing economic disasters, Molotov said.

"The fall of the pound," he told his vast audience, "is another rack in the foundations of the British empire."

The masses are increasingly disillusioned by capitalism, he continued, adding that "the epoch of world revolution has begun, with the Soviet Union in the vanguard."

The Kellogg pact and the League of Nations, while designed to prevent war, "actually serve to promote war," he charged.

Josef Stalin, the Soviet dictator, sat on the stage in high boots and khaki coat. The war commissar, Klementi Voroshilov, and other Soviet leaders were also on the platform.

Japanese Plot Charged.

Prior to tonight's meeting, an appeal to the workers of the world was issued by the Communist International to "organize mass revolutionary resistance against the instigators of new imperialist wars," referring to the situation in Manchuria.

The appeal charged that Japan, with the capitalist nations, was helping in an attempt to involve the Soviet Union in a war which already exists in the Far East.

Workers were asked to "help your Chinese brothers actively in their struggle against occupation, against the League of Nations, against the treacherous Kuomintang, against Chiang Kai-Shek—for a united, independent Soviet China."

The proclamation called the occupation of Manchuria tantamount to a summons to war against Japan.

Tonight's meeting was preliminary to a nation-wide celebration tomorrow on the fourteenth anniversary of the Soviet regime. Probably 1,000,000 men, women and children will parade through Red Square tomorrow and past the tomb of Lenin, to be reviewed by Stalin and other leaders. Similar parades and demonstrations will take place at the same time in every city, town and village of the union. Mass meetings, concerts and other gatherings will round out the national holiday.

Nevertheless, Secretary Stimson is carrying on peace-making negotiations through diplomatic channels. The position of the United States was somewhat clarified, however, after the Secretary of State made the following announcement yesterday:

"The policy of the Government of the United States remains unchanged, merely by acting independently through diplomatic channels and reserving complete independence of judgment as to each step, to cooperate with the support the other nations of the world in their objective of peace in Manchuria."

This guarded expression of the official American attitude is believed to be a "red herring" to distract the suspicions of Senators Borah, Norris and other equally well-known opponents of the League of Nations who are ready to challenge the recent activities of the Secretary of State as virtually bringing the United States into the League of Nations. For this reason the United States has been emphasizing its independence of action in the recent phases of the Chinese-Japanese clash. Furthermore, no decision has been made with regard to the presence of Prentiss B. Gilbert at the forthcoming league council meeting which has been switched from Geneva to Paris. Although Mr. Gilbert has participated in the recent steps taken by the league to call Japan and China to a realization of their situation, he may not attend the Paris meeting. No official announcement was made on this point pending further developments.

The exchange of diplomatic messages between American Ambassador Forbes and the Japanese foreign office have been of a purely informal character, it was authoritatively stated. The Japanese Ambassador confirmed the fact that there had been contacts between Mr. Forbes and Baron Shidehara, but he was inclined to discount their importance. He stated that as the American Ambassador was returning to his post after an absence from Tokyo of several months, it was natural that he should call on the Japanese foreign minister and exchange impressions with him.

The interests of Soviet Russia in Manchuria were first agreed upon by treaties between the old czarist government and the Chinese government. Since that time most of these points were assumed by the Soviet government and the one which creates the most concern in Moscow is the joint administration by Soviet officials and Chinese officers of the Chinese Eastern Railway, which runs from Manchulito to Vladivostok with a spur running from Chanchun up to Harbin. Russian troops have been employed in the protection of this line and last year a clash between China and Soviet Russia, similar to the present one between China and Japan but less in intensity, almost caused international conflict which is still in the process of adjudication by a compromise commission from both countries now sitting in Moscow.

Saddle Club to Aid Jobless With Show

Shoreham Group to Hold Eighth Annual Exhibit Today.

The eighth annual horse show of the Shoreham Saddle Club will open at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon at the equitation field in Rock Creek Park, with proceeds of the performance dedicated to Washington's unemployed.

The show this year has not been restricted to local entries, according to John O. Gheen, president of the club. In other years the event has been staged in the spring of the year. This year it was postponed to prevent conflict with other similar functions.

The program will include eleven events. There will be jumping in both the open and pony classes, a handicap jump and entries in the saddle pony and family class. There also will be open, thoroughbred and hunter hacks events.

Building Supervisors Will Fete Col. Grant

Decision to tender a dinner to Col. U. S. Grant 3d, supervisor of Public Buildings and Parks, and his staff of officers was made at the regular business meeting of the Supervisors Association of Public Buildings and Parks of the National Capital. A committee was appointed by the supervisors, who met in the Interior Department Cafeteria, to arrange for the affair in honor of Col. Grant.

Other matters of interest to the supervisors were discussed at the meeting. Officers of the group are Elmer H. Bailey, machinist, president; William E. McShea, plumber, vice president, and E. J. Cunningham, coat secretary, secretary-treasurer.

Today Closes Our Successful

Annual

EXECUTIVE ECONOMIES.

President Hoover's economy program will result in substantial savings for taxpayers next year. Departmental requests have been trimmed down at least $350,000,000, the President's statement shows, and the total budget to be submitted to Congress will call for expenditure of approximately $280,000,000 less than this year's budget. In view of the fact that half of the Government's expenditures are fixed charges that can not be reduced, this must be considered a remarkable achievement in economy.

In trimming down the estimated requirements President Hoover has had the cooperation of every department. In no case has arbitrary reductions been made. Department heads have scrutinized the bureaus under their direction and shaved down the expenditures in such a way that efficiency will not be impaired and no fundamental service will be suspended. Wherever possible public improvements will be carried on to relieve unemployment.

This may be regarded as President Hoover's answer to politicians who are clamoring for enormous new taxes to extend the Government's activities and take up the slack in business. President Hoover has not yet made known whether he will recommend to Congress a moderate new tax to supplement the deficient revenue. But it is certain that the President will give no consideration to new taxes until every practical economy has been effected in the Government service. This decision will certainly meet the approval of taxpayers.

Once more the President calls upon sectional interests to forego their demands upon the Federal Treasury. All congressmen and lobbying organizations that contemplate Treasury raids during the coming winter are forewarned that their plans will be opposed. President Hoover will not approve of reckless and extravagant legislation. Those interests that are seeking special favors might just as well abandon their efforts or at least wait until a more propitious time.

The President has given Congress an example that ought to be inspiring. The rank and file of legislators in both parties should be as anxious as is President Hoover to avoid further tax burdens at a time when business is just beginning to take heart again. If the responsible leaders of the House and Senate make as earnest an effort to keep expenses down as President Hoover has done the Government can pull through this slump with only a moderate new tax, or perhaps with no increase at all.

MacDONALD'S CABINET.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald paid little attention to the relative strength shown by the parties in the recent election in forming his second coalition cabinet. The Conservative party, with 473 seats in Parliament, has eleven members in the cabinet. Mr. MacDonald's National Laborites, thirteen in number, were assigned four cabinet posts. Five portfolios were awarded to the National Liberals, Sir John Simon taking over the key position of secretary of state for foreign affairs.

Only two positions of special importance were awarded to the predominant Conservatives. Former Prime Minister Baldwin becomes lord president of the council, a position that will keep him in close touch with Premier MacDonald in directing affairs of the government. Neville Chamberlain, vigorous advocate of a protective tariff for Britain, takes over the key position of chancellor of the exchequer.

The cabinet is truly "national" in character. It includes stanch advocates of both a protective tariff and free trade, with the influence of the former predominating. Premier MacDonald has made an earnest effort to unite all factions, except those that are positively inimical to his regime, for the forthcoming struggle to balance the budget and resuscitate British industry.

The most interesting aspect of the situation is the passive attitude of the Conservatives. With 77 per cent of the seats in the House of Commons the Tories could demand everything. Yet they content themselves with one more than half of the cabinet portfolios. Apparently the Conservatives are willing to give Mr. MacDonald one more fling. The coalition government is confronted with some of the most difficult problems that Britain has ever had to face. If Mr. MacDonald can make any headway in their solution, he can do so only with the support of a Tory Parliament. If he fails again, as he did when leading his own party, the blow will probably fall upon him alone. Then the Conservatives could step forth and take the reins into their own hands.

Stanley Baldwin was embarrassed by the overwhelming victory of his party. He is quite willing to let Mr. MacDonald wrestle with the distressing problems of raising revenue and stabilizing the pound. He can remain the power behind the throne without accepting responsibility for any fresh blunders that the coalition government may make. It seems logical to conclude, therefore, that the coalition government will hold together until the financial and industrial crisis in Britain has passed, or until Premier MacDonald demonstrates inability to meet the situation. In either case the Conservatives will doubtless take over the government in their own right.

A DEMOCRATIC DILEMMA.

Democratic congressmen who are planning to organize the House are beginning to find that it is no bed of roses into which they have been precipitated. They are fortunate in having no intraparty contest over the Speakership, but the row over distribution of committee chairmanships may assume major proportions. So long as they constitute merely the opposition the Democrats are able to pull together on most occasions, but as soon as an opportunity for leadership presents itself they are bedeviled by intraparty dissension.

If the Democrats do organize the House they must assume responsibility for much of the legislation enacted by the Seventy-second Congress. Fiscal legislation, which is of special importance at this time, must originate in the House. Will the Democrats shoulder responsibility for increased taxes? What action will the Democratic House initiate to rob American producers of tariff protection? The party's orators have proclaimed the iniquities of the Smoot-Hawley act throughout the country. If they organize the House and do nothing to correct this law, which they claim is responsible for the depression, they will be accused of insincerity and intellectual dishonesty. On the other hand, if they do try to overhaul the tariff they will be blocked and will only advertise their impotence.

The only Republicans who will be sorry to see the Democrats organize the House under the existing circumstances will be the candidates for Speaker and the former committee chairmen. The output of a legislative body that will exert almost equal strength pulling in opposite directions is not likely to be a credit to any one, especially with a clique of insurgents on hand to turn the balance in either direction. All that the Democrats can hope to gain from leadership over such a House is a drastic shrinkage of their prestige.

Organization by the Democrats will mean that they take the brunt of responsibility for an extremely unruly Congress. They will probably share the blame for everything that goes wrong and receive credit for nothing that turns out well. In view of the certain chaos on Capitol Hill the people will look more and more to President Hoover for leadership. There is every indication that the President will not disappoint them. Many of his efforts to counteract the depression have already borne fruit. The Democratic party will hardly risk its claim to popular support by blocking the Hoover moratorium or any other measure that is obviously a stepping-stone to better times. As a result the prestige of Mr. Hoover will be enhanced.

There is not the slightest opportunity for the Democrats to make a favorable showing as the majority party in the House. As a minority opposition to the Republican administration they could make political capital for 1932, but if they take over the reins in the House they can only disappoint their constituents. It appears that the party will pay an exorbitant price for the honor of electing Mr. Garner Speaker.

SOVIET FACING DISASTER.

Evidence that Soviet Russia has been caught in a net of its own weaving is growing stronger every day. Last week it was reported through European sources that the Soviet will soon find it necessary to default on its foreign obligations. Within the last few days it has become known that Russian wheat exports will be sharply curtailed, if not suspended. Furthermore, the Department of Commerce is warning American firms that sales to Russia on credit are made at unusual risks.

The attitude of the Moscow government toward international affairs tends to confirm these reports. The Soviet is unable to carry on its campaign to overturn all "capitalist" governments. Boasts of undermining world markets with Soviet products made by communistic methods are no longer heard. In fact, the whole world revolutionary program is suspended, while the Soviet looks after its domestic troubles.

Economic distress at home may account for the passive attitude of the Soviet in the Sino-Japanese squabble over Manchuria. Russia has vital interests in Manchuria. It is difficult to believe that the Moscow government would allow Japan to send troops so far within the province without protest if the Soviet were in a position to make its influence felt. Reports indicate that small detachments of troops have been assembled on the Siberian border, but the Kremlin is ominously quiet.

Throughout the depression the Soviet dictators have been extending their pity to the down-trodden capitalistic world. Russia, they said, was the only nation free from unemployment, the only country that was going forward while the world suffered reverses. Such talk was, of course, for local consumption. In reality Russia was forcing its people to work and starving them in an effort to maintain a balance of trade that would finance the five-year plan. Apparently the people have lived on hope and communist promises as long as they intend to. Peasants are withholding grain, and it is estimated that the government is collecting no more than 50 per cent of what its schedule calls for.

American firms have been repeatedly warned against extending credit to the red regime. In many instances they preferred to listen to Senator Borah's prattle about the Soviet being the greatest potential market in the world. As a result they may lose a large share of their Russian "investments." When the Soviet can not extort raw products from its farmers to dump upon the world market it can no longer meet its obligations; and the Soviet does not hesitate to repudiate debts.

It is suggested by some one with a penchant for irony that Congress set up a huge credit fund against which American firms may continue to sell to the reds. Will any congressman dare to recommend such a reckless gamble with the taxpayers' money?

THE CRASH AT CAMDEN.

Mystery surrounds the tragic airplane accident in which four Washingtonians and one resident of Philadelphia met death at Camden, N. J. The cause of the crash may never be known, because the wreckage was consumed by fire.

Floyd Cox, the pilot, who had flown 3,500 hours without an accident, was one of the most capable aviators in the country. The plane was of the latest design and had many safety features that were unknown to aviation a few years ago. An inspection at Newark showed it to be in perfect condition shortly before the fatal moment. So far as is known the weather was ideal for flying.

Calamities of this kind strike a heavy blow at all air transport lines. But the public did not cease to patronize railroad trains because of frequent wrecks in their early stages of development, and the appalling loss of life in automobile accidents does not deter the public from buying and using more cars. No means of transportation is free from hazards. When a relative degree of safety has been attained and every precaution against accident is taken, the public can ask no more. All that can be hoped is that diligent efforts will be made to fathom the cause of this crash, so that the knowledge gained can be used to prevent similar tragedies.

We saved the allies from Germany to make the world safe for democracy. Now we must save Germany from the allies to make investments safe for the bankers.

The soya bean crop is a cause of friction in the Far East. It would be tough if our gobs have to participate in a war over beans.

The South will get a great kick out of sending the University of Alabama football team to Washington to play for charity.

When Washington was chosen as the seat of government there was no thought that Congress would lie down.

D. C. residents are pleased that President Hoover is so strong for the "commission" form of government.

The American people may escape another war, but their lives are not safe in the streets.

Probably they say that the Democrats have "captured" the House because it is wild.

Politicians never have to worry about bread lines. They have plenty of crust.

The Democrats must soft-pedal the prohibition issue, or some nuts will bolt.

The next Congress will be closely divided, but not evenly balanced.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER

From the New York Times.

When the Du Pont chemists inform us that they have succeeded in making synthetic rubber from such cheap raw materials as coal, limestone, salt and water, they do themselves scant justice. In all organic chemistry there is no more baffling task than that of producing in the laboratory a compound which approximately resembles the latex of the rubber tree. Distill rubber and a benzine-like liquid, called isoprene, is obtained. Synthetic rubber results when this process is reversed. The performance is not unlike that of unscrambling an egg and putting it back in its shell. It is not the original egg, yet good enough to hatch out some useful industrial products. Commercial success depends on a cheap source of isoprene, and this the Du Pont chemists have found where the experience of others have taught them to look.

Even though the new synthetic rubber is of limited usefulness, its production must be regarded as a chemical triumph. Soft, elastic rubber is apparently still far in the offing, so that the tire-maker with heavy investments in plantations has nothing to fear for the moment. Indeed, the attempt to produce a synthetic rubber of exactly the same constitution as a specific natural rubber would be commercially futile. Rayon is not the exact chemical and physical equivalent of natural silk, nor need it be. A synthetic rubber of acceptable chemical and mechanical properties is enough.

The important question arises: Will synthetic rubber repeat the story of indigo and drive the natural product out of the market? The native indigo growers of the Far East were no match for Western chemists and business organizations. But the owners of rubber plantations stand on a different footing. Even in normal times there is too much natural rubber, the Malay Archipelago alone being able to meet the world's demands. Just now nature's product is selling at about a third its actual cost. In the face of low prices the synthetic chemists must be very sure of their ground if they are prepared to begin commercial production. Moreover, the plant biologist is still to be heard from. If he succeeds in increasing the content of the sugar beet ninefold, what may not be expected when he turns to the plantations and breeds trees which will produce more and therefore cheaper latex?

All this has been duly considered by German, English and American chemists and their backers. Probably industry will produce varieties of rubber unknown in nature—varieties so cheap that they can be used for impregnating wood and fabrics and even for paving streets to reduce noise. Still from the plantations will come the latex, which is the basis of soft, elastic rubber. Whatever the outcome, an economic problem of the first magnitude is created which can be solved only by finding new uses for rubber.

"But Why Worry Over a Couple of Kicks!"

POST HASTE.

Secretary Hurley's department seems to have accomplished a nice, harmonious expense cut: that is, unless an Army League turns up to dispute it.

It should be generally noted north of the Rio Grande that the threatened railroad strike in Mexico has been averted by an agreement to arbitrate the question of wage reductions.

With the United States, France and Dr. Kemmerer supporting the gold standard, it's a majority.

The silverites hardly know whether to be pleased or not, as they see the price of the white metal increase naturally along with the rise in other commodities.

French athletes coming for the Olympic contests seek a special dispensation for their training ration of wine. Dr. Wilson suspects that it is just propaganda.

"Each man reaps on his own farm," said Plautus 2,000 years ago, but that was before he also came to Washington to Garner a winter crop.

It seems evident now that the only safe thing is to have observers appointed to sit in on all the leagues.

President Wiggins, of the world's largest bank, says we have turned that hard corner. Maybe he is as right as he was last January when he told the optimists that liquidation wasn't over.

The last Democratic President came from New Jersey. At least one governor-elect wants Moore of New Jersey.

Communism doesn't thrive in an Anglo-Saxon environment. In the London and New York elections the Reds got nothing and the Socialists were a close second.

As we understand it, Vine-Glo now must allow nature to take its course without the benefit of counsel.

PAUL HUDSON.

Democrats on Trial.

Wall Street Journal.

What business men will be interested in is the patent fact that Democratic prospects in next year's presidential campaign will be shaped by the use the party makes of its House control, if it is able to maintain control, and the tactics to which it may resort to win insurgent Republican support. It will elect or defeat a Democratic aspirant to the presidency not on the stump next summer but in the Capitol at Washington this winter. His election will be difficult in any case; whatever the outcome, it lies in the hands of a bare Democratic majority in the House.

If that majority essays to play the familiar game of narrow party politics, at a time when the country has its greatest need since the World War of unselfish effort for the common good, it will do worse than throw away the gains it has just made.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: Do you remember when Booze, your Boston bull, developed the puppy habit of chasing chickens? And do you remember the dreadful thing we did to break him—how we tied one of his victims to his neck and left it dangling there, a smelly reminder of his crime, until his woe-begone look and our own craving for unpolluted air caused us to relent?

I have gone through an experience very similar to his.

When I was a small boy, it was an adventure to play in one of the village livery stables—chiefly, I suppose, because it was forbidden.

Playing there, unnoticed by the habitues of the place, I frequently heard stories that were not meant for juvenile ears. They were, for the most part, without wit or humor, and the loud guffaws that greeted them were a tribute to unadorned filth.

Those stories were as nasty as the dead chicken and as inescapable. They entered the clean mind of a boy and made a definite physical mark on his brain cells, as the recording needle makes lasting impressions on a phonograph record.

That was 30 years ago. I have forgotten many of the rules of grammar and arithmetic so unwillingly "learned" during that period, but those vile stories still recall themselves at intervals and shame me with their rottenness.

Think of living for 30 years with something unclean inside your head! Think of being the helpless host of filth that no art known to man can remove from the premises! Use my mind as I will—store it with knowledge and wisdom as best I can—never can I remove from my brain cells the impression made in my boyhood.

Oh, my dear, what treasures I would give to prevent the pollution of your mind in this age of universal smut!

Don't make the mistake I made—that countless others make. Shield your brain from all uncleanness. If you are tempted to see a play or read a book or listen to conversation that isn't clean, ask yourself this question: "Is this the kind of thing I wish to store in my brain to be my lifetime companion?"

You can't clean a brain after the dirt enters.

You wouldn't let filth touch your body if you knew it would cling there all your days. How much more you should shield your mind from things that would befoul it forever. Love, DAD.

No Dry Money for Wet Parties?

Boston Transcript.

Another angle to the "Don't give till after the conventions" movement is presented by the course which the National Prohibition Board of Strategy now advises. That body flatly advises dry Democrats not to support a "wet propaganda bureau," meaning, we are saddened to learn, the Democratic National Committee. That organization is accused of directly spreading views subversive of the eighteenth amendment, and while the National Prohibition Board of Strategy impliedly would tolerate contributions to the Democratic campaign chest, it would expressly stipulate that none of the money should be used to pay the salary of Jouett Shouse, the very able chairman of the executive committee and lieutenant of the wet John J. Raskob. This sage advice unquestionably labels the Democratic National Committee as a thoroughly wet organization, despite the assurance that it is no function of the committee to write platforms or do more than support duly nominated Democratic candidates.

Tammany's Knock Is a Boost.

Detroit News.

Was ever man more favored by the gods of political luck than Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York? Apparently the one thing necessary to cinch his nomination for President by the Democratic national convention is a good battle with Tammany Hall; and apparently he is going to have it. Such a fight can do him no harm. Even if it lost him New York—which is not likely—it would make tremendous gains for him elsewhere, such is the opinion of Tammany throughout the rest of the country.

Al Smith was nominated by the Democrats in 1928 in spite of the fact that he was wet and had Tammany's support. But during the presidential campaign these proved handicaps. His wetness probably carried Massachusetts and Rhode Island, but elsewhere it did him no good. The fact that he was favored by Tammany, even though it was known that Tammany did not and could not control him, injured his chances. The South might have accepted him in spite of his attitude toward the eighteenth amendment, but it could not swallow the Tammany connection, too. In fact, among the disgruntled Southern delegates at Houston, Tammany Hall was mentioned much more bitterly than Mr. Smith's stand for beer. The latter could be fought in Congress, but the power of Tammany is insidious; it is like a disease, which must be fought locally; and neither the South nor any other section has power over New York.

Sizing Up the Returns.

New York Times.

The emphatic Democratic victory in Kentucky has confirmed Democratic hopes and Republican fears that, given an opportunity this year, voters would register a verdict against the Hoover administration. What Gov. Moore's great vote in New Jersey and Representative-elect Hart's capture of the Fordney district in Michigan portended has been borne out in Kentucky. In these three elections local considerations also counted, no doubt. But in each of them the Democrats urged voters to express their dissatisfaction with President Hoover by supporting the ticket of the party opposed to him. Rural and urban populations showed the same trend.

These results do not necessarily prove that the Democratic presidential nominee in 1932 will be elected; much may happen between now and then to change the popular temper. But reasonable observers can not doubt that they do reflect deep public feeling against Mr. Hoover and his administration.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

British Form of Government Compared With That of the United States to the Latter's Disparagement.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Is there not a lesson to be learned by us from the recent British election as to our different structure of national Government and our two-party system?

At a critical moment in British history there were prevalent, of course, widely divergent opinions and beliefs held by statesmen of several political parties as to the proper methods to be taken by the government to lead the country through the crisis. Under the British constitution the leaders immediately went before the voters with their different programs and theories, submitted their arguments and let the public at large be the judge.

Under our system of government, issues of such importance are decided by a government which is in office for four years for better or worse, and a majority of the people, although in disagreement with the conduct of their Government, have to wait for years for the opportunity to record their choice. Even then they are confronted by only two sets of ideas or doctrines, both of which, at times, fail to represent the sentiments of a majority of the people.

It is noteworthy how splendidly the British citizenry has discharged its duty when we think of the apathy and indifference prevailing at our own elections.

Which is the more democratic form of government, and which produces a more intelligent and appreciative electorate? FRANK WEISHAUPT.

Corrupt Practices Act Should Be Enforced by the Courts and Not by Congressional Investigations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congress should create within the Department of Justice a bureau for the enforcement of the Federal corrupt practices act.

The complete enforcement of this act would give employment to many and enable our Federal legislators to devote more time to the problems that confront us today on account of the world-wide depression. However, there are more cogent reasons for the establishment of such a Bureau. They are as follows: The Constitution provides for a three-fold distribution of powers; for a division of State and Federal powers, and for certain rights to those accused of crime.

The act imposes penalties for excessive expenditures and for failure to report expenditures in elections. Few prosecutions, if any, have been made of candidates successful or unsuccessful, for excessive expenditures. The amount of expenditure has merely been used as a test of qualification for membership in the house in which the candidate was seeking a seat. That, to my mind, is the sole interest of Congress in the act, other than to clarify its provisions and thereby safeguard the ballot from corrupt influences.

Contributions for political purposes, just like any other contributions, constitute a sacred trust, the breach of which is punishable in the courts of the State in which the offense is committed. The improper use of money to influence an election of Federal officers is a Federal offense punishable in the Federal courts.

The accused in all cases has a right to trial before judgment. In congressional investigations, however, there is such a free use of their privilege by members of both houses that the mind of the public is misled. The result is that judgment is rendered before trial. Is this due process of law?

By all means establish such a bureau to find the facts in each case for the use of the courts, to which should be committed the sacred guardianship of the ballot.

THE ODDS.

The things men fear are glory's ripest seeds,
The darkest day brings forth man's brightest deeds.
It is the threat of imminent defeat
That ultimately makes the victory sweet
Who lives at last to triumph will at length
Recount the heavy odds which tried his strength.
Men think they wish to live their days in ease,
But peace and comfort give no victories.
In difficulty lies all true delight.
Fear becomes joy when wrongs are put to right.
The fretful failures which have tried the soul,
Are glorious memories once we reach the goal.
Why are the tales of hardship proudly told?
Why do men still re-live their struggles old,
Recall to mind with pride the storms they've known
And tell the long, dark nights they wept alone
Unless the dangers which they feared the most
Have grown to be the joys they choose to boast?
Time was we thought that cruel was our fate,
But now we love the woes we bore in hate.
The care that brought the frown now brings a smile,
Our happiest memory is our dreariest mile.
And it shall be, when we have lived them through

Wickersham Talk Hits County Jails

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 6 (U.P.).—"The blackest spot in the American penal system is in the county jail," George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's Commission on Law Observance, told the West Virginia Bar Association tonight.

In a speech reviewing the work of the commission, Wickersham said:

"A majority of the county jails are literally a public nuisance, and are unfit for the purpose for which they are designed.

"Only through an aroused public interest * * * can the existing evils in our system be removed, the machinery of criminal justice be perfected and a law-abiding spirit be developed among our people."

Worker Spends Nights in Jail

New Philadelphia, Ohio, (U.P.)—Dorsen Richardson, of this city, was sentenced to serve ten nights in jail recently on a charge of resisting an officer. He was permitted to absent himself from the jail in the daytime to continue work at a clay plant.

Reds Told to Hurl Stones True, Seized Order Shows

Toronto, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Communists were advised in a document introduced today at the conspiracy trial of nine radicals to spend their evenings hurling stones at a target 25 paces away.

Just before the prosecutor rested his case, he introduced a set of instructions confiscated by Sergt. John Leopold, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, during the seven years he acted, in disguise, as a Communist officer.

One section reviewed a clash between the radicals and police, and said:

"They (the Communists) don't even know the tactics of street fighting. They don't even know how to box. * * * One policeman broke up dozens of sections of proletarian self-defense because our comrades waved their arms about aimlessly. * * *

"If members of the proletarian self-defense organizations * * * train themselves in throwing stones and set themselves the aim each evening when they finish work and each morning, intsead of going through gymnasium exercises, throwing stones at a target 25 paces away, we can say beforehand that by two weeks the results of such training on any attack may be quite different."

Tim Buck, alleged leader of the Communist party in Canada and one of the defendants, was the first defense witness. He said that Leopold, as Comrade E. W. Esselwain, rose rapidly in Communist ranks and characterized him as a man always faithful to the "cause." He denied the party ever advocated the use of violence, but said strikes were organized as frequently as possible.

Woodcock to Describe Technic to Crusaders

The local chapter of the crusaders, militant anti-prohibition organization, has invited Amos W. W. Woodcock to tell it how he enforces prohibition.

The federal enforcement chief replied he would be "most happy" to do so, and he expressed great appreciation. All that remains is setting the date.

Solution Expected Of Bond Problems

Investment Bankers Are to Meet at White Sulphur Today.

New York, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Belief that constructive and workable suggestions to deal with the Nation's investment problems will emerge from the Investment Bankers Association convention beginning tomorrow was expressed today by Col. Allan M. Pope, president-elect of the association.

The problems of the bankers, meeting in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., center around such items as $7,000,000 worth of foreign bonds, $10,000,000 real estate bonds, and billions more of railroad and other bonds, all possessed by American investors.

Great interest attaches to real estate and foreign bonds, with reports prevalent that both may be the recipients of elaborate schemes to make them more liquid. Announcement by President Hoover of plans to establish a central real estate fund to liquefy the estimate $3,000,000,000 frozen real estate bonds, is expected by the bankers.

MOB SCENE QUIETS AS TRIAL IS MOVED

Eastern Shore Killer Will Face Dorchester Court as Change Result.

Snow Hill, Md., Nov. 6 (A.P.)—Maryland's Eastern Shore was quieted today with the granting of a change of venue for the murder trial of Yuel Lee, Negro, sending the hearing to adjoining Dorchester County.

The change was granted by Judges Joseph L. Bailey and Robert F. Duer in circuit court and quieted several days of unrest among Worcester County residents.

When the case was called, many of the crowd which stayed through the night had gone home to bed when they found that Lee was not to be brought from the Baltimore City Jail, where he has been held for safekeeping, and that Bernard Ades, International Labor Defense League attorney, would not be present.

Ades and two companions, one a woman, were beaten by the mob Wednesday when he appeared as voluntary counsel for the man.

F. Leonard Wailes, counsel appointed for Lee by the court, asked for the venue change. The case will be docketed for trial at the Cambridge Court term which opens Monday.

Dorchester County officials said the case would probably not be called before the third week of the term because of the heavy trial docket ready for disposal.

Authorities, headed by Sheriff W. Lee Bradshaw, said ample protection would be given the man when he is brought to trial.

Ralph Capone Hustled Off To Prison to Begin Sentence

Chicago, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Ralph Capone, older brother of Al Capone, left tonight at 6 o'clock aboard a special car on a Burlington train with a dozen other Federal prisoners for the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans., where he will serve a three-year sentence for income tax law violations. The train is due at its destination tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock.

Capone was taken to the Union Station in a patrol wagon with other prisoners from the county jail in custody of Deputy Marshal James O'Neil. Only a crowd of the curious was on hand.

At the station, the other prisoners were marched under guard through the main waiting room, but Capone was hustled through the baggage room, evading the crowd.

Capone was placed aboard the train almost an hour before departure and was placed in a private compartment with a special guard. The special Pullman car, the Guyen Court was attached to the baggage car, just behind the locomotive.

Rumor persisted until late in the day that Ralph's more notorious brother, Scarface Al, intended to ask the circuit court of appeals to set aside a writ of supersedeas granted him in his appeal from his conviction on a similar charge in order that he could make the Leavenworth trip with his brother. No such action was taken, however.

Shortly before Ralph was bundled into a patrol wagon with several narcotic peddlers, bootleggers and others facing prison terms, he and Al were allowed to hold a family reunion with their mother and two sisters in Al's cell at the jail. Jail officials would not disclose what took place at the meeting, but at the end of 45 minutes Ralph was summoned to pack his belongings for the trip to the penitentiary.

Ralph's rage and bitterness at his fate, first apparent yesterday when he cursed and threatened newspaper reporters and photographers shortly after he had surrendered, apparently was forgotten tonight in his desire to evade the newsmen. He dashed from the jail door to the waiting patrol with his head covered with his coat and at the station he ran through the baggage room, head again covered, to the rear end of the train.

Followed by O'Neill, the gangster ran through the coaches to the front of the train, where he immediately was closeted in his compartment with a guard.

At Leavenworth, Capone, one of the "big shots" caught in the campaign against gang tax dodgers in Chicago, will have as neighbors, although he probably will not have a chance to visit them, several of his associates. Frank "The Enforcer" Nitti, a leading member of his brothers "mob" is there; so is Sam Guzick, a "collector" and vice overseer for Al; Sam's brother, Jack, probably will be there soon. Al Capone, himself, faces ten years' imprisonment there on three five-year sentences, two of which are to run concurrently.

Ralph Capone was convicted of defrauding the Government and concealing assets in connection with a $1,000 compromise for taxes owed but not paid on a $1,871,000 income for the years 1924 to 1929, inclusive. The Government charged he owed $300,000 taxes.

Hoover Is Closing Camp for Winter

Some of Rapidan Guards Are to Be Shifted to Other Quarters.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's most constant vacation haunt—his Rapidan fishing camp in the Virginia mountains—is being boarded up for the winter. The President has been unable to go there for the last three weeks because of public duties. It was said at the White House yesterday he does not plan to visit it again this year.

Most of the Marine guard of 175 men and 8 officers will be shifted to warmer quarters for the winter. Only a corporal's guard will remain to watch the property. Ususually the camp is uninhabitable during cold spells because its water pipes freeze solidly.

Mrs. Hoover might return at least once to the mountain retreat before midwinter. Last year she visited it after snow had fallen.

Laffoon's Lead Mounts In Kentucky's Election

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The majority of Judge Ruby Laffoon, Democrat, elected governor over Mayor William B. Harrison, Republican, had mounted to 68,553 late today on returns from 3,728 of the State's 4,178 precincts.

The totals, including Jefferson County complete, were: Laffoon, 406,648; Harrison, 338,095. Harrison carried his home county of Jefferson, a Republican stronghold, by 67,027 to 53,499.

Discloser of Talkie Tests Sought; First Lady Peeved

(Associated Press.)

The White House yesterday began trying to find out where newspapermen got information for their stories about Mrs. Hoover taking "talkie" voice tests.

Some members of the White House personnel questioned other members of the White House personnel. Questions were asked, also, of newspapermen and photographers. All sought the source from which the report first came.

Mrs. Hoover herself was displeased at the publication of stories that an impromptu studio had been set up on the second floor of the executive mansion to determine the range at which her voice recorded most effectively over the radio and in sound reels.

News reel photographers were to have set up their apparatus again this morning for further tests. Before they arrived, however, the engagement was canceled.

It was said at the White House that Mrs. Hoover did not intend to view the results of the first test.

Some weeks ago President Hoover called for an investigation both by and of members of the White House secret service detail to determine the nature of news "leaks" about happenings at his Rapidan fishing camp.

He was reported particularly irked over published stories concerning his personal activities during the formative days of his moratorium proposal. At that time questions were asked of both newspaper and secret service men concerning the source of the reports.

Later Theodore Joslin, one of Mr. Hoover's secretaries, asked formally that reports touching upon White House activities come from "stated sources." There was objection to this policy, however, by some of the older correspondents.

Although final decision was reserved, it was planned tentatively to cancel engagements for taking news reel shots of Mrs. Hoover during her radio address from the White House today to 4-H clubs.

G.W.U. REORGANIZES OLD MEDICAL SCHOOL

New Faculty Within Teaching Staff Announced by President Marvin.

Reorganization of the George Washington University Medical School, through creation of a new faculty within its present teaching staff, was announced yesterday by President Cloyd Heck Marvin, of George Washington University.

The announcement, made following the November meeting of the board of trustees, contemplates further development of the school's medical facilities, with a view to eventually establishing a new medical center, with hospital buildings and suitable school quarters.

Academic Policies.

The new faculty, comprising the dean and emeritus professors of the School of Medicine, and heads of the teaching and research departments, will formulate the academic policies of the school, and plan for development, research and appointment of new members of the teaching staff.

Dr. Martin said the university for the present will go forward with plans to erect a new addition to the present medical school on H street, providing a central laboratory for the hospital and teaching laboratories for bacteriology, public health and clinical microscopy.

Now 19 Departments.

The nineteen teaching and research departments which will grow out of the reorganization announced yesterday are: Anatomy, Prof. George B. Jenkins; bacteriology, Dean Earl Baldwin McKinley; biochemistry, Prof. Joseph H. Roe; pathology, Prof. Oscar Benwood Hunter; pharmacology, Prof. George B. Roth; medicine, Prof. Walter A. Bloedorn; dermatology and syphilology, Prof. Charles A. Simpson; pediatrics, Prof. Harry H. Donnally; radiology, Prof. Arthur C. Christie; psychiatry, Prof. William Allen White; neurology, Prof. Walter Freeman; surgery, Prof. Charles Stanley White; ote-rhino-laryngology, Prof. William B. Mason; ophthalmology, Prof. William T. Davis, and urology, Prof. Francis R. Hagner.

Slain Man Was Head Of Siciliana, Is Report

Chicago, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The Daily News said today that Salvatore Loverde, mysteriously slain in a Cicero club yesterday, was head of the Unione Siciliana, a position that had been fatal to several of his predecessors.

Loverde, the News said, succeeded Joe Aiello after the latter was slain from ambush as he left a North Side apartment. Aiello had taken over the lucrative, but dangerous post when it was vacated by the slaying of Tony Lombardo on the sidewalk of a Loop street.

1,500 Return to Work In Toledo Auto Plant

Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The Chevrolet Motor Ohio Co., after a temporary shutdown for repairs, has reopened its Central avenue plant, recalling 1,500 workers, including both night and day crews. Indications are that the force will be maintained throughout the winter, officials said today.

The Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., it was announced, is adding a few men, with indications that there will be a sizable increase in the force next month.

MARYLAND CITIZENS TO REGISTER TODAY

Eligibles to Vote at 1932 Elections Must Sign at Circuit Court.

New residents of Maryland must file their intentions of becoming citizens of the State before midnight tonight or they will not be eligible to vote in the presidential elections next November.

Those who registered last year under the affidavit form, whereby two registered voters vouched for their having resided in Maryland for a year prior to the election, also must declare their intentions today. This form was declared unconstitutional by the court of appeals of Maryland, and persons registered in this manner are subject to challenge on revision days prior to election.

While leaders of political parties have expressed their belief that they will not attempt to challenge the right to vote of persons registered in this manner, Maryland officials urge that residents file their declaration of intention today.

The office of the clerk of the circuit court for Montgomery County at Rockville, Md., will remain open until noon today.

2,445 Are Inoculated In War Against Typhoid

The report of the Prince Georges County Health Department, issued yesterday, shows that 2,445 inoculations for typhoid fever were given during October. This unusual number marks an attempt to combat the epidemic, which has struck down nineteen persons recently.

According to the report, unsanitary conditions accounted for most of the typhoid cases. There were fourteen cases of scarlet fever, most of them mild ones. In three cases it appeared that children, ill with the disease, had attended school and given it to other pupils.

Curb and Gutter Work Planned in Arlington

The Arlington County Board of Supervisors, meeting at the courthouse yesterday, authorized County Engineer C. L. Kinnier to ask for informal bids for the laying of concrete curb and gutters over the entire section of Virginia Highlands and Aurora Hills.

Owing to the sudden illness of E. C. Turnburke, member of the board from Washington District, no further business was transacted. The board will meet again next Saturday at 10 a. m.

Fairfax Club Opens Hunt Season Today

Chase to Start at Field Near Madeira School This Morning.

Third annual opening chase of the Fairfax Hunt Club will take place this morning from the farm of Oswald Carper, on the Georgetown-Leesburg pike, near Great Falls, Va. The hunt will start at 9 o'clock from a field near the entrance of Madeira School, many of the students of which are members of the club.

Following the chase a hunt breakfast will be held in the clubhouse at Sunset Hills, on the estate of A. Smith Bowman, president and master of the hunt.

The club, one of the youngest in northern Virginia, has one of the largest territories in the State. More than 60,000 acres of land are under contract, and the club has erected jumps on six courses. Rocky ledges along the Potomac River and its tributaries and dense woods form a natural home for foxes.

268 Deeds Recorded In Arlington for Month

In October 268 deeds were recorded in the Arlington County clerk's office, according to the monthly report yesterday. The tax to the State amounted to $735.86.

Other items included in the report are: Wills, 3, State tax, $6.80; chancery suits, 16, State tax, $24; actions at law, 22; State tax, $43. Fines collected during the month for violations of the prohibition law amounted to $600 with costs totaling $465; fines collected during the month for violations other than prohibition laws amounted to $5 with the costs totaling $9.25.

Zone Hearings Set In Prince Georges

2 Applications for Changes Have Been Received by Commissioners.

Hearings will be held by the Prince Georges County commissioners next Tuesday on two applications for a change in zoning of property in Brentwood and Berwyn.

Cecil G. Sipes has asked that lots 16 and 17, in block 7, of Brentwood be rezoned from residential to commercial. This application has been approved by the Park and Planning Commission.

The Park and Planning Commission has disapproved a similar change for lot 20 in Block E, of Autoville, near Berwyn, which is owned by George G. Gaylor. Approval by the county commissioners, however, will override the commission's rejection. The commission states that it does not want to set a precedent for changes of this sort in this section.

Brightseat Man, Fined, Had 3 Guns, Police Say

William J. Wood, 60 years old, of Brightseat, Md., threatened policemen with three shotguns before he was able to arrest him, Constable Earle Blackwell testified yesterday at Wood's trial in Marlboro Police Court on charges of possession of liquor.

They took one gun away from Wood when they entered, Blackwell said. While they were searching the house, Wood appeared with another one; deprived of this, he found a third, the policeman said. Wood was convicted and fined $50.

The Arlington County Chapter American Red Cross, at a dinner meeting held last night in the Odd Fellows Hall launched its annual roll call drive, which will continue through Thanksgiving Day. The goal set by the committee is 1,500 members.

J. Harrison Heckman, assistant national director for the roll call, set forth in an address the great accomplishments of the Red Cross. He stated that 50 years ago the Red Cross started with a membership of 16, today it has a total membership of 4,000,000 persons and the drive this year, as set by the national organization, is for an increase of 3,000,000 in the United States.

George A. Collier, county chairman of the roll call drive, announced the committee chairmen for the several communities as follows:

Arlington, Mrs. Julian Tapp; Glencarlyn, Miss Constance Backus; Bon Air, Mrs. Frances Mabry; Veitch, Mrs. J. N. Steed; Waverly Hills, Mrs. Frank L. Ball; Ballston, H. W. Dudley; Lyon Park, Mrs. Arthur Orr; Lyon Village, Mrs. M. W. McKnight; Cherrydale, Mrs. J. H. Walton; Radnor Heights, Mrs. C. L. Shear; county courthouse, Mrs. Rachel White; county schools, Miss Florence Gravatt; Clarendon, E. L. Bennett; Arlington Ridge, Mr. Woodward; Aurora Hills and Virginia Highlands, Mrs. A. D. Davis; Arlington Farm, Mrs. E. C. Butterfield, and Halls Hill, the Rev. E. W. Johnson.

Mrs. Bertha Kelley, chairman of the local chapter, presided.

Miller Addresses Alexandria Legion

Head of National Rehabilitation Speaks Before Post No. 24.

Watson B. Miller, chairman of the National Rehabilitation Committee of the American Legion, with headquarters in Washington, was a speaker before the meeting of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, last night in Gadsby's Tavern, and Frank W. Noxon, president of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, also spoke in line with the program of the Chamber of Commerce Week.

The post will hold the regular Armistice Day observance on Wednesday, November 11, at Gadsby's Tavern, at 8 p. m., and the service will be followed by a reception and dance given by the American Legion Auxiliary in honor of the American Legion. Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, president of the auxiliary unit, will preside at the short program, and a ladies' orchestra, under the leadership of Miss Margaret Ogden, will be featured.

The legion meeting last night was presided over by Commander John S. Arnold, who announced that Armistice Day programs will be featured in both the Alexandria and George Mason High Schools.

Company K Holds Reunion Tonight

Association Will Elect New Officers at Silver Spring Gathering.

Company K, 115th Infantry, Montgomery County (Md.) World War unit, will hold its annual reunion tonight at 8 o'clock in the National Guard Armory at Silver Spring, Md. Election of officers will be a feature of a short business session.

The first reunion of the company was held last year in November at the armory when the K Company Association was formed. At that meeting Maj. E. Brooke Lee, who had served as captain of the company, was elected permanent honorary president. Other officers are Fred Wells, Overlea, Md., president; Joseph C. Cissel, Silver Spring, Md., vice president; G. Ernest Stiegler, Baltimore, secretary, and Maurice Roberts, Washington, treasurer.

Company K was Montgomery County's largest war unit. It was formed of county men and K Company of the Fifth Maryland Infantry of Baltimore. It saw service in France.

REDEMPTION LIMIT EXTENSION OPPOSED

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Finding that the situation in regard to collection of taxes in Montgomery County, Md., is good, the committee on public finance and budget of the Montgomery County Civic Federation will not propose an extension of the time for redemption of property sold for taxes, according to a report released yesterday by Frederic P. Lee, chairman. The report is to be presented to the federation at its meeting Monday night in the Bethesda Elementary School.

The committee also has prepared a report on the observance of factors of safety in insurance of county bonds and recommendations for future financial policy of the county, and, in addition to its report on comparative costs of taxation in Montgomery County and the District of Columbia. The recommendations of future policy will not be released until Monday night. The other reports were released yesterday.

The committee report points out that the county retains title on about 90 per cent of the property sold at tax sales for a considerable period after the sale and that it may be redeemed within two years by payment of taxes and other costs and interest, and suggests that the county retain the property for a longer period of time without resale to private buyers. The loss of the use of the money could be compensated for by issuing short-term notes for the value of the taxes due on the property held. The commissioners, it is suggested, will use their discretion regarding which properties are to be held.

The committee finds that payments of principal are scheduled in accordance with the standards of safety and that the total amount of bonds issued and projected still remain within the 10 per cent of assessable value provided in the standards.

The committee points out in an addition to its report on the comparative costs of taxation in Montgomery County and the District of Columbia that, based on a lot of 50 feet frontage, the residents of the District actually expend more for water and sewer assessments than the Marylanders. This is because of the spreading out of Maryland payments for a period of 50 years, permitting the use of the money for other investments, while the District bills must be paid within three years.

The committee figures that after considering all angles and by reducing the District rates to a 50 year term, that the Marylander pays an average of $112.15 yearly while the District resident pays $139.69 yearly.

William J. B. Duncan Expires in Alexandria

William J. B. Duncan, a retired druggist, whose home was at the southeast corner of Patrick and Queen streets, died suddenly on Thursday night. Mr. Duncan had been in ill health for several years, and had disposed of his drug store within the past year, working only as relief druggist for other firms.

Thursday night he was on duty for Dr. Albert Dienelt, in King street, when he was taken suddenly ill, and carried to the office of Dr. Arthur Snowden. After emergency treatment he was taken to his home, and died while being helped into a chair. Besides his wife, Mrs. Georgie Duncan, he is survived by two daughters and two sons, Mrs. Stanley Driefus, Miss Elizabeth Duncan, Malcolm B. and Douglas I. Duncan.

Adoption of Twin Girls By Couple Is Approved

An order permitting the adoption of twin girls by Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Crossan, of Silver Spring, Md., was signed yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md. The father of the children, Benjamin Franklin Overholtz, father of six other children, gave his consent to the adoption. The mother is dead.

The twins, Jennie Lee Overholtz and Mary Lynn Overholtz, are nearly eight months old. Mr. Crossan is an insurance agent, and his wife is a teacher at the Woodside School. Jennie Lee will assume the name of Lena Patricia Crossan and Mary Lynn will be named Catherine Constance Crossan. The foster parents were represented by Attorney Bowie Waters, of Rockville, Md.

COMPULSORY WORK INSURANCE IS URGED

Filene and Others Advocate System Before Senate Committee.

Legislation to make unemployment insurance compulsory was advocated yesterday before a Senate committee by a merchant, a welfare worker, and an economist, all prominent in their own fields.

Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant; Jacob Billikopf, of Philadelphia, executive director of the Federation of Jewish Charities, and Sumner Slichter, Harvard professor of business economics, agreed before the Senate unemployment insurance committee that legislation was desirable.

Republican and Democratic members of the committee exchanged sharp words during the hearing, indicating that feeling engendered by organization of the group has not subsided.

Senator Wagner Stirred.

At one point during the hearing, when starvation of unemployed had been mentioned, Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, told chairman Hebert, of Rhode Island, and Senator Glenn, of Illinois, both Republicans:

"Starvation may be a laughing matter to you, but not to the man who is starving."

Later, Wagner cautioned his colleagues not to "get excited," but Glenn interrupted him and said:

"You seem to take the position that some one here advocated that people be allowed to starve."

Subsequently the words were eliminated from the official transcript of the hearings at the suggestion of Chairman Hebert.

When the committee was organized Democrats charged politics when Glenn and Hebert voted to make the latter chairman of the group, which was authorized under a resolution introduced by Wagner.

The witnesses at yesterday's hearing all agreed on the theory of compulsory insurance, but differed on details.

Optional System Urged.

Filene advocated an optional system under which employers of labor would be able to protect their workers by private systems they set up themselves or through a Government system. He stressed the point that unemployment insurance is important to sustain purchasing power and charged that wage cuts were very harmful to business.

Slichter proposed the Government should credit every corporation with 50 cents toward its income tax for every dollar it put aside in unemployment reserves. He also recommended State legislation to compel corporations to set up insurance systems.

Billikopf testified insurance systems in the clothing industry had proved their practicability and proposed compulsory legislation under which each industry would bear the entire cost except for administration expenses which would be borne by governments.

Prayers Will Ask For God's Mercy

Penitential Service in All Episcopal Churches Tomorrow.

In accordance with the resolution of the general convention at Denver tomorrow is set apart at Washington Cathedral and in this Protestant Episcopal diocese as a day of prayer and penitence "to the end that the people may assemble to invoke God's mercy, to pray for His forgiveness and to ask His guidance, that the Nation under God may speedily be restored to the wholesome ways of peace and happiness, of sobriety and Christian practice and obedience to His divine will."

Special prayers and intercessions will be offered at the Cathedral services tomorrow and conducted in the spirit and purposes of this day of prayer and penitence.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman will preach at the people's evensong in Bethlehem Chapel tomorrow at 4 p. m., when the service and sermon will be broadcast by radio over WMAL.

Special intercessions and prayers for the relief of the unemployed and those in trouble, for the guidance of rulers and leaders and for the upbuilding of Washington Cathedral will be offered at evening prayer in Bethlehem Chapel of the Cathedral every Friday at 4 o'clock.

Church to Give Breakfast To the Rev E. F. Reilly

Breakfast for the Rev. Edward F. Reilly, new pastor of St. Anne's Church, 4400 Wisconsin avenue northwest, will be held at the church following 7 o'clock mass tomorrow morning.

The new pastor succeeds the Rev. Hugh A. Curley. Arrangements for the breakfast are in charge of William Lapp and the Rev. F. J. Egan.

4 Men Are Nabbed On 'Smoke' Charge

Owner of Car Is Arrested After Policeman Loses Quarry in Chase.

After he was said to have escaped a vice squad policeman earlier in the day in a smoke-screen chase of several miles, Andrew Stanfield, colored, 24, of 784 Columbia road, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Second Precinct Policeman Lee Braziel at Seventeenth and U streets northwest.

Charges of operating a smoke-screen were placed against Stanfield, while three companions were booked for investigation. They were: Robert Hoffler, 32, 1734 Fourteenth street northwest; Thomas Hoffler, 31, 1522½ Twelfth street northwest, and Eugene Diggs, 25, of 1317 Wallace place northwest.

Private W. A. Schlatter, of the First Inspection District vice squad, pursued an automobile which he saw at Sixteenth street and Euclid street. Blinding clouds of smoke greeted him and after following it for several miles, a lookout was sent out for the car, and Braziel arrested the men. Officer Schlatter identified Stanfield as the person who was operating it when he was "gassed."

MILLINERY, THIRD FLOOR

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE Nordica Mandolin and Guitar Orchestra, directed by Walter T. Holt, long famous here, received international attention recently. Word has been received here that it had been heard playing from Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va., in Pehiri, Gisborne, New Zealand.

According to the National Geographic, Pehiri is exactly half-way around the world, or about 12,500 miles, which is a pretty good range for a 10,000-watt station. Pehiri, the Geographic experts tell us, is a suburb of Gisborne, a port of about 4,000 inhabitants on Hawkes Bay, in the Province of Auckland.

The New Zealand listener said that Prof. Holt's organization had been clearly heard and thoroughly enjoyed. His letter was dated September 9, though the concert referred to had been broadcast on August 31. That it should have carried so far was remarkable, because the static season was at its worst here at that time.

WITH an opportunity to actually see "Seth Parker" and all the Jonesport family just as they are when they put on a broadcast, or as we'd like to think they are, "Way Back Home" is really old home week for the radio fans at Keith's.

Seeing Phillips Lord in the picture has less of a tendency to break the illusion than seeing him in person. When we saw what a youthful, ruddy-cheeked individual Lord really is, it was difficult to get the same enjoyment from him over the radio.

However, seeing him last night in "Seth Parker" make-up brought back about the kind of character we originally had in mind. The same with "Ma Parker," "Lizzie," who, by the way, is quite good looking off the stage, and the others. There will be no disillusionment for radio listeners because these people are as good in the picture as they are over the air. Phillips Lord is splendid, and before he gets through may find himself in a class with Denman Thompson's "Josh Whitcomb."

Watching the picture, one could easily tell the radio listeners by the eagerness and pleasure with which they anticipated the characters whose voices had been coming to them for years, but whom they had doubtless never seen. Numerous persons in the audience were heard to murmur "Cephus" an instant before that favorite character was identified to them.

OF added interest to radio devotees and his former fellow Washingtonians was the presence on the screen of Maj. Gen. J. G. Harbord, shown as he was long before he ever dreamed of becoming head of the largest radio organization in the world. With the wonderful background given by pictures and sound in this second of Floyd Gibbons, "Supreme Thrills," one almost felt as if he had been with Gen. Harbord and Gibbons at the turn of the tide near Chateau Thierry.

This was the best short war picture that we have seen. Gen. Harbord was a splendid figure throughout. Floyd did not talk as fast or as excitedly as he does on the radio, but more like he would speak were he telling an individual about the battle.

Current economic and social trends will be discussed by Edwin F. Gay, professor of economic history at Harvard University, and Gardner Murphy, professor of psychology at Columbia University, in addresses over WRC tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

"SINCE the Mills Brothers have become such a sensation over the air," writes L. Z. Phillips, "I would like to call attention to how the local radio stations overlook bets. I am a music teacher, and recently from the alley beneath my window came the strains of the best popular music I had heard in a long time. I went down to investigate and found four colored boys harmonizing beautifully. Their instruments included a washboard, a radio loud speaker fitted with a piece of lead pipe and an old guitar. But they were red hot!

"Certain that they would strike a popular chord wherever presented, I telephoned the local stations of the two national chains. 'We do not look for talent in alleys' was the gist of the reply I received in each place. So the quartet went on to New York and fame. There was a chance for a local station to put on a worth-while program and get credit for really starting something, but the local powers that be muffed the opportunity."

SERAFINA DI LEO, 19-year-old daughter of a New York Italian laborer, will make her Chicago Civic Opera debut tonight. She will be heard over the WJZ network, when Verdi's "Il Trovatore" is broadcast from the Chicago Civic Opera stage at 9 o'clock.

William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives, will speak on "The Unprecedented Situation Confronting the Next Congress" over WMAL, at 9:30 p. m.

His address is expected to cover two points in the next Congress, the political situation and the parliamentary tangles which may occur as a result of the small difference in power between the Republican and Democratic memeberships.

THERE came yesterday a very excellent piano recital by Miss Ada Zeller, of New York, a niece of Wendell W. Mischler, secretary to Chief Justice Hughes. Over the WEAF network, with WRC included in the last minute, Miss Zeller played "A Major Ballade," by Chopin; "Minuet Antique," Seebach, and finally "Rush Hour in Hongkong," a composition of Chasins.

Miss Zeller has won many musical honors and will be the soloist at the forthcoming concert of the Brooklyn Choral Society.

Listeners were allowed to attend the birthday party yesterday of John Philip Sousa, attended by Walter Damrosch, Edwin Franko Goldman, Arthur Pryor and Erno Rapee.

Each led the Goldman Band in playing a Sousa composition. Mr. Damrosch chose for his number "The Washington Post March."

"When I see Sousa, I think of another famous young man," Mr. Damrosch said. "Lindbergh, who has just flown to Japan and then to China. However, Sousa's marches have flown entirely around the world time and again."

Jane Corbett Interprets the Mode

Don'ts for the chic business woman who wants a raise! According to Dah-ray.

La Chic Secretaire gets a raise!
Office above cute!
Smell nice!
Don't wear much perfume.
Don't smoke in the office, ever!
Don't wear loud dress, bracelets that rattle, or rings that glitter!
Say "No" 11-7

November 6.

IT is the chic secretary who get's the raise! She it is who gets the promotions, she who quietly brings herself to the attention of the higher-ups. Believe it, because I have talked to hundreds of big business men about this, honestly I have.

And here's something I'll bet you never thought of, and every business man to whom I spoke mentioned it. Perfume. The office girl or secretary should not use perfume.

Why? Because many men have an antipathy for certain perfumes, and all men have for too much perfume. It is one thing for the woman he takes to dinner to wear an expensive perfume that he only has to smell in the car and across the dinner table, and quite another for his secretary to wear it where he probably has to smell it eight hours a day. And it is a known fact that the wearer of a perfume gets accustomed to it, and is unable to realize just how strong it is to others. So be clever and realize this, even if your nose doesn't warn you, and wear no perfume in your office. What naturally clings to your clothes anyhow will be quite enough.

Then, there are the little things illustrated for you today—all sound humorous enough, but all of importance for or against your career. If you wish, you can have office shoes that you leave in the office all the time, changing to others for going to and from work. The same for jewelry, only this you take off when you arrive at the office, wearing it outside, to and from, but never at work.

* * * *

There are so many little tricks that the business woman should know for improving her position that any woman or girl in business at all just has to see our leaflet of helps! A stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post will bring you a most interesting leaflet on this matter, and Dare herself absolutely guarantees you a promotion and a raise in your office if you follow her hints to business women. Send for the leaflet and see!

Sister Dionne writes: "I just found another idea for keeping sick children quiet and happy! Let them cut colored advertisements from magazines in triangles an inch wide and 3 inches long, smear the wrong side of them with paste and roll them tightly around a hatpin to make beads of a long oval shape. Incidentally they make awfully pretty beads for the children to wear later on."

* * * *

Another positively last warning! If your stamped, self-addressed envelope isn't sent right off this minute to the Dare department of The Washington Post we can't send you this week's leaflet which tells how to make the stately and flattering nightie-negligee that's such a sensation in Paris!

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

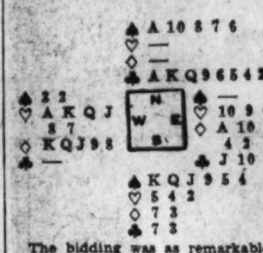
FOUR SLAMS IN ONE HAND

Up in Boston, the hub of sturdy New England civilization, they must do something to the cards that less cultured people are unable to do, for they certainly can secure some remarkable distributions of hands, which naturally lend themselves to remarkable bidding. Mr. Chester A. Brigbe, of the Mercantile Library Association there, recently sent me the hand below:

South—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding was as remarkable as the hand itself. It was thus:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass(1)	1♡	2♡(2)	4♡(3)
4♠(4)	5◇	6◇(5)	6♠(6)
Pass(7)	7◇(8)	7♠(9)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—The tame prelude to a stormy play.
2—Showing no losers in hearts and a freakish hand.
3—East seeks to shut out the exchange of information between North and South.
4—South refuses to be foreclosed.
5—Again showing no losers in the suit adversely bid.
6—East now catches the fever. His bid is scarcely sound, however, in view of the three possible losers in clubs.
7—A splendid pass. North is best fitted to determine the correct course for the partnership.
8—East's six spade bid has fit West's hand perfectly. He knows there are no losers in clubs and his partner's information regarding the spade suit justifies the Grand Slam.
9—Apparently, a certain Grand Slam in view of South's free Overcall when East sought to shut him out.

Of course, the Grand Slam was made. In fact, the examination of the cards disclosed that North and South had at their disposal Grand Slams in spades and clubs. East and West equally could make all thirteen tricks with either hearts or diamonds as trump.

Surely a remarkable distribution of the cards and one which demonstrates the dominating part played by the highest ranking suit.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: How many honor-tricks may be safely counted for an Opening bid in any one suit? Why not more?

Answer: Only two, as at opponents' bid the third round is likely to be trumped and the Opening bid should show the value of the hand at any bid, for offense or defense.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a 2-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

OFFICE AFFAIRS.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: Please advise me. I'm afraid I have confided too freely with a young married man in the office where I work. We became good friends, somehow, and have had lunch together occasionally, and he often walks home with me after work. I know other people think our friendship strange, for some of my old friends are acting differently toward me. We work in a broker's office.

Now here is my difficulty. I have told him that I don't think we ought to go around together, but he seems now to feel that he has a right to my companionship. I have insisted, indeed, I have all but insulted him, but he is persistent, and apparently will not take an insult. He argues that there is nothing wrong, that we have a right to our friendship, and that if we were to stop going out together now it would look as though the crowd were right and we had been guilty of some indiscretion. I am a respectable girl and don't like to be talked about.

He is well educated and tries to be kind and helpful. I do not dislike him. Aside from his persistence, his conduct toward me has been gentlemanly. I have to work in the same office with him. I do some of his work, and so can not go to our superior with a complaint against him. Miss McDonald, how can I stop him from forcing his attentions upon me? Or, is it so terribly wrong for us to be friends? PERPLEXED.

Now do not go dramatic. Nobody is "forcing" attentions upon you! You have got yourself all mixed up with Constance Bennett or some other wide-eyed heroine in distress. The man merely wishes to avoid a sudden break and the attendant comments. He has no more wish to be the subject of unjust suspicions than you have, and certainly if you suddenly cut him after palling around, it would look pretty much as if he had done something to which you strenuously objected, would it not? And you admit he has not, so why not be just and fair?

You know, if you are to survive in a man's world, you must learn your way around and stick to the rules. For instance, your idea of making a complaint to his superior is the most unsporting thing imaginable. On what would you base such complaint? The truth is that you have suddenly become panicky over what at first seemed a thrilling "affair," and because the man has refused to share your panic, you want him punished. Why? You knew he was married. You knew what you were doing when you started lunching with him. Why not stand by your own acts? You will have to learn to play the game if you expect to be regarded as an equal by the men you meet—or the women either. From now on be friendly but firm with your friend. Be seen with him less and less often. Arrange to lunch with some girl. Walk home alone. You certainly need not go home with him. But in the office be just as friendly and cordial as ever. In a word, show a little finesse. For the man has done nothing to justify a scene, an office scandal or a constitutional amendment. He has just done what a great many lightweight men in offices do. He has lunched with a girl who was more hungry for a thrill than for a lunch, but who was not equal to the terrible consequences as represented by meaning looks and side glances. Be a woman. Decide which way you want to go in this world and no one will block your path. It is only when you do not know yourself what you want to do, that other people dare to interfere. When you show this man or any other that you know where you are going, he will stand aside, hat in hand. Just watch and see. Play fair.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to care for a crown of thorns. MRS. HENRY S. L.

The crown of thorns requires a sunny location and must be watered sparingly, giving more moisture when the plant is in active growth.

Please tell me how I can tell when a plant is in active growth. AN INEXPERIENCED GARDENER.

When we speak of a plant making active growth, we mean that new shoots are appearing or, in the case of the palm, new leaves are developing. When growing, the plant is using up a certain energy and must have food, sun and moisture to give it strength. Of course, the amount of water, sun or food depends on the variety.

I have a vestibule where the temperature remains about 50 degrees during the day and possibly not much above freezing at night. This space is light, but only sunny for perhaps an hour in the morning. Would it be possible for me to succeed with a boxwood or euonymus in such a location? HELEN B. T.

Yes, provided you use a pot-grown plant. A plant that has been recently potted from the nursery would not be likely to do well. Water the plant as you would any other plant, though it is not likely to require as much as would a similar plant in a warm room.

My ivy, which is in water, is already covered with mealy bug. What shall I do to get rid of this pest? PATSY G. R.

Constant spraying with cold water will rid your ivy of mealy bug.

Does clematis require a mulch in winter? If so, will well-rotted manure be a suitable mulch? How deep should this vine be planted? MRS. WILLIAM C. G.

Manure makes a good mulch when it is available. The clematis should be planted at least 2 or 3 inches below the ground. This is especially true of grafted plants. Where you can choose a location for this vine, plant it to the west or southwest in full sunlight, although the roots enjoy some shade.

No, it will be well to spray your bushes now and again in the early spring before growth starts.

Please tell me whether a snake plant will do well in an eastern window and also tell me of some flowering plants which will do well in an interior window box facing south. ALICE G. T.

A snake plant will do well in an eastern window. Regarding plants for a southern window box, geraniums, begonias and lantanas will all do well in such a location. Petunias will also flourish in such a box provided it is not on top of a radiator and if the window is not closely curtained.

Can I grow clarkia in the house from seed sown at this time? MRS. THORNTON G.

If you have a conservatory or a warm, sunny sun porch, you should be able to grow clarkia successfully. Sow the seed in flats or pans and later transplant the seedlings into small pots.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF Novembebr 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:10 a. m. to 2:15 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:10 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:50 p. m. and from 9:10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

The stars foretell for November 7 unsettling, but generally beneficial, results. All constructive workers will benefit, such as engineers, surgeons and builders. Women will not be so fortunate, as impulsiveness will cause trouble. Love affairs will progress satisfactorily, and many arranged marriages will be hastened, rather than delayed. Artistic and creative types will have anxieties in connection with intimate personal affairs.

Children born on this November 7 will be cleverer and more skillful with their hands than with their heads. Without being malicious, they will be frank and outspoken. They will love ardently, and, being of a jealous disposition, will demand undivided affection.

You, if born on the 7th day of November, are a natural pessimist, and are very successful in dampening enthusiasm and destroying hope. You always visualize the worst, and imagine the disastrous. Without any sense of humor, you are a permanent wet blanket, and very often a killjoy. Until the fog of your mentality is lifted, and sunshine is allowed to dissipate the mist, you will never be of much use to your self or to others. Such is the general impression that you convey. The signs, are however, more illuminating, and clearly show that the cultivation of a cheerful spirit will not be difficult, and once accomplished would enable you to develop the many good traits that you possess.

You are, and always have been, a painstaking student. Your sense of honor is very great; your ability is above the average; your judgment, although somber, is accurate; your loyalty is unquestioned. If in addition to these gifts, you possessed hope and ambition, your success, both spiritual and material, would be assured. It would be worth your while, walking through life's intricate pathways, not to keep your eyes focussed on the ground, but as a beginning learn to look straight ahead, and then later on you will learn to look above.

Successful people born November 7:

Leonard W. Volk, sculptor.

Michael Anagnos, educator.

Royal Copeland, U. S. senator.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

DANGER OF THE BATHROOM.

IF there were any statistics on the subject, they would show the bathroom to be the most dangerous part of the house, not even excepting the room in which the booze is being made. The newspapers tell us of an occasional fatality in a parlor or bedroom, but it is largely in bathrooms that accidents happen.

There are many electrical accidents. Low voltage currents of electricity may cause fatal accidents if the conditions of conduction are just right. A man is in the bathtub. He reaches up with his wet hand and turns on the electric light. The current jumps to his wet hand and he gets a fatal shock from a current that would ordinarily not have done any great harm. Or, in some other way, the electric current is short circuited to the water in which a man is bathing. Or, with his body wet, and standing on a wet floor, he touches some place to which a current can jump in wet, warm air or along a wet surface.

Electric wires and fixtures in bathrooms need to be extra well insulated and unusually inaccessible to wet air and wet fingers.

Bathrooms are generally kept too hot and too moist. Some people faint because of this. Fainting, they fall in the tub, the head submerges, and they drown.

Many bathrooms need, for comfort, some form of temporary, auxiliary heater. For this purpose some are equipped with electric heaters, thus adding somewhat to the danger of electrical accidents. Some are equipped with small gas burners that consume gas and manufacture carbonic acid and carbon monoxide, for the removal of which there is no piping. There is some danger of gas poisoning, since bathroom ventilation is poor except where the law takes care of the matter.

The accident rate in bathrooms, as the result of falls, is exceptionally high. This includes falls due to slipping in the tub and on the floor. However, these accidents generally result in nothing more serious than broken ribs. Rubber mats on the floor and in the tub, and handles on the tub are calculated to obviate this danger. That from gas burners can be obviated by using other means of heating or by using burners with piping, or by better ventilation of the bathroom.

BALANCED FOODS.

A. T. writes: You said a diet consisting of milk and cereal for breakfast and soup and vegetables for dinner was badly balanced. How so? I thought milk and vegetables made a balanced diet.

REPLY.

I also said that since no information was given as to quantities, or as to what was eaten at the third meal, I could only hazard a guess. Since I am still without facts to answer your question, I must continue guessing.

My guess is that such a diet would be too bulky and would contain too much roughage. On the other hand, it would be low in calories, fats, proteins and starches. The chances are that it would contain enough minerals and probably enough vitamins A and C. There is more than an even chance that there would be too little vitamins B and D.

MEASLES AND EARS.

Mrs. D. L. C. writes: Two months ago my 2-year-old daughter had German measles. Soon afterward her ear commenced running a yellow matter which has a terrible odor. It has never pained her at all. 1. Is this what is called a running ear? 2. Could it have been caused by the measles? 3. What can I do to stop it? I keep it swabbed out with cotton in warm oil and grease the outside of her neck around the ear, but it does not seem to do much good.

REPLY.

1. It is.
2. Yes.
3. Local treatment will cure running ear, but it must be proper. Some cases require operation to remove dead tissue. Some are cured by proper washing with Dakin's fluid. Exposure to direct sunlight cures some. If such cases are neglected the hearing suffers.

Soviet Coaxes Citizens To Open New Areas

Moscow., (U.P.).—The soviet government is offering inducements to its citizens to migrate to sparsely inhabited sections, where new industries and agricultural enterprises are under way.

An announcement promises fare, homes, tax exemptions and other privileges to peasants who migrate to the Soviet Republic of Karelia, in the northwest of Russia. Settlers will be granted, among other things, a three years' moratorium on all government debts.

The Siberian Far West is another section anxious to draw settlers. Demobilized soldiers, in particular, are being urged to take advantage of opportunities there.

CHURCHES ARRANGE ARMISTICE SUNDAY

Federal Council Will Hold Commemorative Rites at Foundry Church.

As for some years past, Armistice Sunday will be observed this year by the Federal Council of Churches acting through its committee on Army and Navy chaplains and its commission on International Justice and Good Will. The service this year will be held in Foundry Methodist Church, Dr. Frederick B. Harris, the pastor, preaching. Col. J. E. Yates, the chief of chaplains of the Army, and Capt. S. K. Evans, head of the chaplains' division of the Navy, will participate in the service, as well as the secretary of the chaplains' committee, the Rev. W. L. Darby.

At noon on Armistice Day, members of the chaplains' committee, whose chairman is Bishop James E. Freeman, will go to Arlington National Cemetery to place a wreath at the Chaplains' Cenotaph and to hold a brief devotional service in memory of the 28 chaplains who lost their lives during the World War, to whom the cenotaph is dedicated.

In Other Capital Churches.

A number of Washington churches will commemorate Armistice Day with special exercises, in which a variety of programs will be carried out.

At the National City Christian Church, Dr. H. H. Harmon will deliver an address on "Doing Away With War." During the World War he was overseas as divisional secretary, and came in contact with the actualities of modern warfare. A special musical program will be given, including the song, "Let Us Have Peace" by Rosenberg, dedicated by the late William Howard Taft.

Every department of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church will have part in the observance of the day. The particular feature of the celebration in the Sunday School will be a symbolical reproduction of the signing of the Kellogg-Briand peace treaty. William Powell will explain the provisions of the pact, after which a replica of the agreement will be unveiled. The minister, the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, will preach a sermon on the subject: "Is There Progress Toward Peace?"

At Metropolitan Baptist.

Metropolitan Baptist Church will hold its commemorative exercises in the evening. This service will be attended by the District Chapter of War Mothers, and the Admiral Coontz Chapter of War Mothers. Mrs. Virgil Bozone, the national president of War Mothers, will also be present. The American War Mothers' service flag, which is the only flag permitted by Congress to fly on the Capitol on Armistice Day with the Stars and Stripes, will be on exhibition on the rostrum. Miss Gertrude A. Lyons, president of the Federation of District of Columbia Music Clubs, will sing "Taps," accompanied by buglers from the Army Band. The Boy Scouts of America will carry the Stars and Stripes to the platform, and the salute to the flag will be led by Mrs. Lois Embrey, who will represent Miss Columbia. The Christian flag will be borne to the platform by the World Wide Guild and the salute to the flag will be led by Mr. Trice Gravatte, of the University of Maryland. In addition to a special sermon by Mr. Mark Depp, the pastor, the service at Calvary Methodist Church will be featured with the reading of his poem, "The Boy in Armor," by Herman Hagedorn.

The young people of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church will have a special program at their worship hour at 6:45 o'clock. Dr. Andrew M. Brodie, the associate pastor, will speak on "War Days in France." Dr. Brodie served with the soldiers, and had a most engaging ministry of service with the Army in the training camps of this country and overseas.

Universalist National.

Dr. Frederick W. Perkins, minister of the Universalist National Memorial Church, has prepared a special message for the morning hour. He will be assisted by his large choir in special music.

All Souls' Unitarian Church will give the celebration over to its church school, the several departments of which have arranged attractive programs.

At Georgetown Presbyterian Church the minister, the Rev. Frank H. Niles, will preach on "Creators of Peace."

The Tip Top Club, an organization of the young people of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, at its meeting tomorrow afternoon will discuss making world peace permanent. Mrs. Theodosia Ames will lead the discussion.

Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, has a rather interesting subject for his commemorative sermon: "Fist or Pacifist?"

Albright Evangelical Church's special services will be featured with a sermon by the pastor, the Rev. George E. Schnabel, on "The Roots of Peace."

Adult Forum to Hear Erwin E. Reynolds

In a continuation of their consideration of subjects of current general interest, members of the Adult Forum of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, at their session tomorrow morning, will hear Erwin E. Reynolds, of the Department of Commerce, speak of the provisions and effect of "The German-Austrian Customs Union."

Relating reminiscences of his long service, William Tyler Page, Clerk of the House of Representatives, will be the speaker at a meeting of the Men's Club of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church on the evening of November 18.

Will Resume Children's Church.

Dr. Albert J. McCartney, minister of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, will resume his children's church tomorrow morning, with a sermonette. A nursery has been provided for small children and organized activity for the boys and girls during the worship hour.

CHURCH PAGE—MUST!

Will Continue Bible Studies.

Dr. Bernard Braskamp, minister of Hunton Temple Presbyterian Church, will continue his series of studies on "How We Got Our Bible" at his Thursday evening services. There will also be a study of a well-known hymn.

Dr. Sizoo to Speak on Germany.

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will continue his sermon of last Sunday evening on Germany, and tomorrow evening will speak on "Germany Today."

AT CONFERENCE

DR. K. M. YATES,
of Louisville, Ky., who yesterday addressed the first conference of Baptist college students at the University of Maryland.

CHURCH ORGANIZES GROUP FOR RELIEF

Mt. Pleasant Congregational Has First Organization of Its Kind.

With its organization completed, the Relief Commission of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church has begun to function as the first organization of its kind in an individual church in Washington, with these two objectives, as stated in its program for the fall and winter of 1931-32:

"An informed and thoughtful church membership with respect to unemployment, proposals for its amelioration, and measures for the relief of the unemployed in Washington and throughout the country.

"A church membership actively participating in the relief programs and fully cooperating with the relief organizations of the city and the Nation."

Will Manage Branches.

Miss Katharine Lenroot, assistant chief of the Children's Bureau in the Department of Labor, chairman of the Relief Commission, has appointed committees to manage the various branches of the work, and headquarters will be established in the Mount Pleasant Church building.

The commission had its origin in a suggestion made by the minister of the Mount Pleasant Church, the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, in a sermon preached by him September 27. Within less than a week his proposal was approved by the officers of the church, and the commission, selected from members of the congregation of the Mount Pleasant Church, appointed. In addition to Miss Lenroot, the officers are: Mrs. W. G. Stuart, vice chairman; Edmund Freeman, secretary, and Fred A. Morgan, treasurer.

Round Table Discussions.

According to the plan of the commission, there will be round table discussions conducted by the organizations within the church, to consider information gathered by the commission and to map out plans for relieving the conditions presented. Particular attention will be given to opportunities offered for employment by the membership of the Mount Pleasant congregation. The collection, sorting and renovation of old clothing, the collection of food supplies, in cooperation with the conservation of food committee, and cooperation with other agencies in furnishing milk to children, where the need exists, will all be a part of the activities of the commission.

Some special work will be done among young people by promoting an additional year for school, wherever possible. Intensive work is planned with young people not in school and not employed, through vocational guidance and placement, and the enlargement of the recreational facilities of the Mount Pleasant Church, when a group of young people is found in need of such opportunities.

Women's Club to Hear Shannon on Whittier

The Young Women's Club dinner meeting of the First Congregational Church will be held Tuesday evening at 6:15 o'clock in the Sunday school room. The speaker will be Dr. John Reid Shannon, and his subject will be, "Whittier, Our Best-Loved Poet, and His Religious Beliefs."

Rev. Chobot Preaching On Teachings of Jesus

The Rev. Godfrey Chobot, pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, is preaching a special series of sermons on Sunday evenings on the general theme, "Some Teachings of Jesus." The topic tomorrow evening is "Fear."

For the midweek prayer service on Thursday evening a series of educational films are being shown, the current one being "A Crop Worth Saving."

Missionary to Preach.

A returned missionary who has seen eighteen years of service in India, the Rev. Th. Twente, will preach at Concordia Church tomorrow morning. Mr. Twente is a representative of the Evangelical Synod of North America and is at home on a furlough.

Rev. Niles to Hold Class.

At Georgetown Presbyterian Church, beginning tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and continuing for four successive Sundays, the minister, the Rev. Frank S. Niles, will hold a communicants' class for all who expect to join the church at the next communion.

Bible Class to Meet.

The Young Men's Bible Class of Grace Lutheran Church will hold a meeting Monday night at 8:15. Dr. Arthur Christie will be the speaker. Dr. Raymond Seeger will be in charge.

TRAINING SCHOOL STARTS TOMORROW

Course Will Last Until Friday at Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church.

The twelfth annual Standard Training School for Christian Workers of Washington and vicinity will be held in Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South tomorrow until Friday. All arrangements for the school have been made under the direction of Dr. H. H. Sherman, executive secretary of the board of Christian education of the Baltimore annual conference of the Southern Methodist Church. While it is conducted under the auspices of that denomination, members of other denominations are invited. Last yaer three Sunday schools of other denominations participated. The enrollment was 231, representing 18 Sunday schools, 149 of whom were awarded credits for satisfactory completion of the courses taken. Mount Vernon Place had 50 persons taking credits.

Dr. W. A. Shelton, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Church, a noted archaeologist and educator, for many years connected with Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., is dean of the training school and one of the instructors.

The first session of the school will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The other sessions from Monday through Friday will be held at 7:15 p. m. Books may be secured at the church office. The following is a list of courses and instructors:

Catholic Radio Hour.

The Rev. Lawrence J. Sheehan, assistant director of Catholic Charities, will be the guest preacher on the Washington Catholic Radio Hour tomorrow in its weekly 5 o'clock service which is broadcast from the Church of the Immaculate Conception through Station WOL.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, director of these services, will preside. He will be assisted at the blessing of the sick and the solemn Lourdes procession by the Rev. J. Kelly Reese and the Rev. Stanley A. Czyz.

Miss Florence Yocum and Miss Ann Arlen will be the soloists of the service. Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard, organist and director of the Immaculate Conception choir, will be in charge of the music.

Among the preachers Father Hurney has engaged for the winter months are Dr. John I. Barrett, superintendent of the Archdiocesan schools; Dr. John Keating Cartwright, the Rev. R. S. Lloyd, and the Rev. Matthew J. Helmig, of the Fathers of the Precious Blood, who is coming from Carthagena, Ohio, to conduct the elaborate Novena in honor of the Immaculate Conception, which is being planned, and who will be guest preacher for two Sundays on the radio hour.

Annual Pound Party.

The annual pound party for the Little Sisters of the Poor at Second and H streets northeast, will be given this year on Sunday, November 15, from 2 to 5.

Washington General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, with all councils of the order in the District heartily cooperating, are planning for the biggest party in its history. This is one of the outstanding annual charitable affairs of the order and each year it becomes better and better.

Convert's League Meeting.

The Converts' League of the Catholic Daughters of America in Washington will open its fifth season with a lecture, musical and social program at the Community Center of the Catholic Daughters, 601 E street northwest, at 8:15 p. m., Wednesday.

A cordial invitation is extended to converts and non-Catholics, as well as Catholics, both men and women. Officers, members and friends of neighboring courts at Baltimore, Gaithersburg, Forest Glen, Bethesda, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Md., and Alexandria, Va., are invited to participate.

Chevy Chase Baptists Have Annual Election

At the annual congregational meeting of the Chevy Chase Baptist Church the following officers were elected: Robert T. Mancill, David C. Mearns, deacons; Mrs. H. A. Gaylord, deaconess; Loyd H. Sutton, A. E. Kostulski, trustees; Joseph T. Allison, clerk; Ross R. Gessford, financial secretary; Shirley L. Kines, treasurer; William A. Reilly, treasurer of benevolence; George B. Fraser, superintendent of Sunday school; Charles S. Muir, George B. Fraser, Mrs. E. W. Chafee, executive board members; Mrs. W. A. Graham Clark, Baptist Home for Children representative.

The annual church banquet of the Chevy Chase Baptist Church will be held next Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Dr. W. S. Abernethy will make the principal address. Frank H. Jackson is in charge of arrangements.

Holy Land Sermons Planned at Albright

The Rev. George E. Schnabel, pastor of Albright Evangelical Church, is going to give his congregation the results of his studies in the Holy Land last summer. Beginning tomorrow evening and continuing for five successive Sundays, he will deliver illustrated lecture sermons covering his travels.

The first subject is, "From the Oldest Inhabited City of the World to the Most Popular Lake in the World."

Universalist Club To Have Open Meeting

The Men's Club of the Universalist National Memorial Church will hold an open meeting Thursday evening, following the monthly parish dinner.

Harry Hillman, a member of the club, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Development of the Art of Printing." On this subject he will speak with the authority of intimate professional knowledge.

Breakfast to Follow Communion.

Members of the Communicants' League and the organized workers of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church will make their corporate communion tomorrow morning at 7:30 o'clock. After this service, breakfast will be served in the parish house.

Y. M. C. A. to Open Religion School

Teachers and Workers Trained for Churches and Sunday Schools.

The School of Religion of the Y. M. C. A. will open next Monday night at 7 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A. building, 1736 G street.

The school, organized in 1918 at the request of the District of Columbia Sunday School Association, is accredited by the International Council of Religious Education. Its purpose is to train teachers and workers for local churches and Sunday schools.

Dr. George S. Duncan, professor of Egyptology, Assyriology and Biblical literature at American University, is the new dean.

Highlands Church Gives Reception to Its Pastor

Wednesday evening was the occasion of a reception at Highlands Baptist Church tendered to the pastor, the Rev. Newton Mercer Simmonds, and Mrs. Simmonds, in recognition of the sixth anniversary of the pastorate. In the receiving line besides the pastor and Mrs. Simmonds was their daughter, Miss Margaret Simmonds.

Others assisting were the officers of the church, Miss Edith E. Payne, clerk; E. H. King, financial secretary; Herbert W. Gardner, treasurer; T. R. East and C. E. Brooks, deacons; R. H. Bonavita, J. E. Booth, Mrs. T. R. East and Miss Emma Guschewsky, trustees, and the following charter members: Miss F. M. Allen, Mrs. C. L. Bell, Miss Lilly Keim, Mrs. F. E. Meade, Mrs. A. A. Taintor, Mrs. William B. Thompson, Mrs. M. E. Whitford, Miss M. E. Whitford and Miss Stella Whitford. Mrs. Bella B. Thompson gave piano selections.

Angelic Figures Aiding Jobless

Work Being Provided by Caring for Episcopal Cathedral.

Carrying out the employment stimulation program recently announced by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Washington, work has begun on two of nine angelic figures which are to be carved on the soffit, or under, side of the chancel arch of Washington Cathedral.

These life-sized figures are being carved from models made in the studio of John Earley, Washington sculptor. They are said to be of great beauty and a distinct addition to the architectural glory of the arch. The figures to be on the chancel arch will represent "The Nine Choirs of Angels," one for each order of the celestial hierarchy.

The two angels now being carved represent "Angels" and "Principalities" and are on the left-hand side of the chancel arch, which soars 90 feet above the portion of the cathedral to be devoted to the most sacred offices of the church.

Tableaux in Petworth Will Illustrate Hymn

Petworth Methodist Church is having an increasing night attendance on Sunday evenings, due to the character of the service. The pastor, the Rev. Robert Louis Wood, is preaching a special discourse on "Living Messages From Old Hymns."

Into this service are woven the help of the congregation, the choir, soloists and the organ program. The hymn selected for the evening is given a dramatic presentation, with a soloist singing it.

For tomorrow evening the hymn chosen is "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," Methodism's greatest contribution to hymnology. It will be presented in a series of tableaux arranged by Miss Rita McGuire. The singing will be by the Petworth chorus choir.

Sons of Two Presidents Plan Mission Service

November 15 will be celebrated throughout the United States as "Men and Missions Sunday" because of the fact that it is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. On that Sunday afternoon services of a similar character will be held in about 1,000 cities in America.

The Washington services will be held at 4 o'clock in the First Congregational Church. Since this is held in the Capital of our country it will be considered the national service. It is expected that Charles P. Taft, son of the late former President, will preside and Richard Cleveland, a son of a former President, will participate.

Dr. Schmidt Released By Zion Lutherans

Zion Lutheran Congregation, at a special meeting Wednesday night, reluctantly released its pastor, the Rev. Richard Schmidt, after nineteen and a half years' bilingual service, in order to enable him to assume his new pastorate at the German Lutheran St. John's Church, Philadelphia at the end of the month.

Thanksgiving will be the pastor's last service in Zion Chapel, New Hampshire avenue and Buchanan street. His family will follow to Philadelphia after the holidays.

Full Gospel Tabernacle Revivals Nearing End

The month's revival campaign which the Rev. Ben Hardin of Chicago, has been conducting at the Full Gospel Tabernacle will come to an end tomorrow. Mr. Hardin will preach at both services.

It is reported that the campaign has been a success, both in the addition of new members and in the revival of interest in the church's activities. A class of new communicants will be received tomorrow morning.

Happy Even Hour Service.

Dr. Mark Depp, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, on Columbia road, has begun what is termed a Happy Even Hour service at his church for Sunday evenings. The song service by the congregation is a feature of this informal service.

Guild to Have Ingathering.

The Chevy Chase Branch of the Needlework Guild will hold its annual ingathering in the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church on November 19. Membership, which is open to all, consists of a gift of two new garments or articles of household linen, or a donation of money.

These gifts are distributed to the needy.

SERVICE TO HONOR WOODROW WILSON

Dr. Freeman to Direct Rites at Bethlehem Chapel on Armistice Day.

The annual commemoration service of President Woodrow Wilson held in front of his tomb in the Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral will take place on Wednesday, Armistice Day, at 3:15 p. m. this year, and will be carried to the Nation over the network of the Columbia Broadcasting Co. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, who ministered to the World War President during the last days of his life, will deliver the memorial address. The service will last half an hour and includes appropriate music by the cathedral choir under the direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster, readings from the Scriptures and prayers.

The arrangements are, as usual, in the hands of the Washington Woodrow Wilson Armistice Day Committee, of which Mrs. Kate Trenholm Abrams is chairman. Most of the American Legion in the District of Columbia will send delegations, it is understood, and the committee and others will place floral tributes on President Wilson's tomb.

Friends of the late President and the public will be welcome to the limit of the seating capacity of the chapel.

Takoma Park Pastor Near 10-Year Service

Pastor William E. La Rue, of Takoma Park Baptist Church, will round out the tenth year of his pastorate on November 15. He is the first and only pastor this church has had.

At the annual church meeting Monday evening the election of officers was held and the following were chosen:

Fred W. Pearce and Harry G. Helges were reelected as members of the board of deacons; John H. Mills was elected to succeed himself as a trustee; L. O. Drumwright was elected as advisor to the B. Y. P. U.; Mrs. E. E. Reynolds and Mrs. W. B. Emerson were reelected as representing this church on the board of lady managers of the Baptist Home for Aged Women; Mrs. Claud Livingston, sr., and Mrs. Edwin W. James, managers of the Baptist Home for Children.

Dr. Hollister to Preach In Chevy Chase Church

Dr. J. Hillman Hollister will preach at the union Protestant evening service on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the Chevy Chase Methodist Episcopal Church, at Connecticut avenue and Shepherd street. The Rev. J. Turnbull Spicknall will preside.

Ministers of the other participating churches will have part in the service. During November the union services will be held every Sunday evening in the Chevy Chase Methodist Church.

Dr. Snyder Will Preach On "Signs of the Times"

Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will begin tomorrow evening a series of sermons on "Signs of the Times," suggested by well-known business slogans applied to spiritual life.

On Thursday evening he will continue his lectures on "Symbols of the Church."

Eldbrooke Church Has Oxford League.

An Oxford League for boys and girls from 12 to 16 years of age has been organized at Eldbrooke Methodist Church, in Wisconsin avenue, and meets every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Officers will be elected tomorrow evening.

ORTIZ RUBIO MOVES TO STOP GAMBLING

Says Presidential Influence Will Be Exerted Upon Mexican States.

Mexico City, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Presidential influence will be used on State governors to induce them to close gambling houses within their States, President Ortiz Rubio today told the confederation of Chambers of Commerce.

The confederation recently addressed a memorial to the President asking his influence to stop gambling, which was said to be handicapping commercial enterprises, especially in border towns.

Gambling is forbidden by Mexican law, but under "gambling permits," issued both by the State and Federal governments, gaming establishments operate in some places. State governments regulate matters within their own boundaries. Gambling in Mexico City has been stopped for months.

Dispatches today from Juarez said gambling house owners there were alarmed by rumors that gambling would be stopped, but that no order had come through to that effect.

Martial Law Suspended For Argentine Election

Buenos Aires, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—For the first time in fourteen months, President Jose Uriburu's provisional government will lift the state of siege tomorrow morning and restore civil rights until Sunday evening in recognition of the general elections on Sunday.

Martial law has existed without interruption since the fall of President Yrigoyen's regime in September, 1930, and will again go into effect at the closing of the polls.

Four shots were fired and one person was wounded tonight in fighting which grew out of an outdoor rally, attended by 60,000 voters, at which Lisandro de la Torre, coalition candidate for president, wound up his campaign. While the speechmaking still was going on opponents of the candidate cut loud speaker wires.

36 Desperate Criminals Flee From Brazil Prison

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Releasing themselves with duplicate keys, 36 desperate criminals overpowered their guards in the Rio Preto prison, Sao Paulo State, and escaped today to the interior. Most of the fugitives are murderers, one being charged with 30 homicides.

Attempts by a posse to surround the prison breakers were unsuccessful and the populace of the district was in terror tonight.

Audition Winner Will Sing.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IF the motion picture producers, who are so well aware with what success his works can be translated into terms of the cinema, from their various experiences with "Scaramouche," "The Sea Hawk," "Captain Blood" and "Bardelys, the Magnificent," are looking to Rafael Sabatini, foremost of modern romanticists, for any material aid in the filming of others of his works, they might as well abandon hope and prepare to do the best they can without him.

Queried by one in whose reportorial ability this department has faith at a luncheon last Tuesday, following his lecture at the Central Community Center Monday night, concerning the possibility of his latest novel, "The King Maker" being filmed as a sequel to "Scaramouche," which rocketed Ramon Novarro to quick fame eight or nine years ago, Mr. Sabatini expressed doubts.

"They," he said, referring gently to the Hollywood gentlemen, "haven't any money and they haven't any sense"—which, any one will admit, was something less than evasive.

It is Mr. Sabatini's apparent idea that Hollywood not only is financially "broke," but also "scared to death"—in his own words—at the thought of attempting anything out of its own well-beaten tracks, meaning, I presume "costume pictures," which Mr. Sabatini's, of course, have to be.

"They don't know how to make these people of history and hundreds of years ago talk," declares this widely read author. "They don't know what to make them say. They're scared to death, and I'm not going to help them!"

Despite the constant turning out of cinema "epics" and rumors of fabulous salaries, Sabatini reiterated his belief to my informant that the movies haven't any money. "They are hard up," he said, "and if they keep on being hard up, they will make all the authors hard up, too."

"The King Maker," by the way, although it has been published as a magazine serial, is not yet even out in book form. It continues Andre-Louis Moreau and Aline and their adventures and romance and in the general view is not considered up to the level of "Scaramouche."

I wonder, everything considered, if Hollywood has made Mr. Sabatini an offer?

The week beginning Saturday, November 14, only one away, will witness the celebration of a double anniversary at the Earle Theater—that of the establishment of the vaudeville policy at the Thirteenth street house and the completion of the first year of service of Maxine Doyle as mistress of ceremonies.

An elaborate program is being arranged for the occasion. The screen feature will be Paramount's production of "Once a Lady," by Zoe Akin, starring Ruth Chatterton; the vaudeville bill will be headlined by Louise Groody and Neville Fleeson and will consist of seven acts, instead of the usual four, and it is highly probable that Miss Doyle will depart briefly from her habit of restricting her activities to the mere announcement of the others on the bill.

With William Haines at the Palace, on the screen and in person, there should be some lively competition in that block between E and F.

After a reasonably diligent search of such authorities as are at hand, I have been unable to find warrant for the pronunciation of the word "revenue" employed by the members of the Stratford-Upon-Avon Shakespeare Festival Company in several of their plays, notably "King Lear."

In the division of his kingdom among his daughters, Lear referred repeatedly to the realm and all its "ree-ven-yooz," with the accent heavily upon the second syllable. This pronunciation was affected by all of the members of the cast.

It would be a convenience if the Folger Shakespeare Memorial Library, down on Capitol Hill, were already open for the investigation of matters such as this.

In the Tabloid Magazine of tomorrow's issue of The Sunday Post, incidentally, there is an interesting and enlightening story making plain just what the Folger Memorial Library will mean to Washington when it is open. Order your copy now and prove you're smart! (Adv.)

A duality of endeavor may be observed on the downtown screens this week, if you are so minded. Jean Hersholt and Alan Hale both appear in the two Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions currently occupying the Loew screens—with Greta Garbo and Clark Gable, at the Columbia, and in support of Helen Hayes in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," at the Palace.

There seems to be no immediate fear for the survival of "Brief Moment" in New York. It is reported that the sum of $50 was offered for two tickets for the opening night (Monday) of Francine Larrimore in Guthrie McClintic's production of the S. N. Behrman comedy. The entire house has been sold out for days, according to reliable information.

This season, only the first night of Eugene O'Neil's "Mourning Becomes Electra," it is said, has created such a demand for tickets on Broadway.

In passing, the revised ending of the comedy, perfected since its opening here last Monday evening, is expected to be on view at the final two performances at the Belasco this afternoon and night.

So many contracts have not been renewed on the West Coast since the depression set in that I understand Hollywood is being referred to as an optional illusion!

You won't need the club, sheriff, I'll go quietly.

THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

PALACE

"THE SIN OF MADELON CLAUDET." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of Edward Knoblock's play, "Lullaby," adapted to the screen by Charles MacArthur, starring Helen Hayes, supported by Lewis Stone, Neil Hamilton, Jean Hersholt, Marie Prevost, Cliff Edwards, Robert Young, Alan Hale, Karen Morley and Charles Winninger. Directed by Edgar Selwyn. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

There will be those, no doubt, who will regret that Helen Hayes' debut upon the screen might not have been effected through the medium of a film play tugging not quite so relentlessly at the heartstrings. It is, to all intents and purposes, another "Madam X" with which Miss Hayes has here been equipped to demonstrate the superb development of a remarkable histrionic endowment that first began to manifest itself many years ago—but not too many—when, as little Helen Hayes Brown, she was still a schoolgirl in this, her native, city.

During the progress of this tremendously moving adaptation of Edward Knoblock's play of "Lullaby," with continuity and dialogue by Charles MacArthur, who is by way of being Miss Hayes' husband, the star is called upon to span the lifetime of a charming and lovely girl, from the blissful moment when love enters her consciousness to old age, when, beaten at every turn by a buffeting and remorseless fate, she is rescued from the streets, a starved and emaciated crone intent only on shielding her identity from her son, a rising young physician of note.

It is a variegated and poignant portrayal that Helen Hayes brings to this character of brilliant highlights and deepest shadows; an impersonation that unquestionably affords as vivid evidence as has ever been provided of the breadth and scope of her talent, but notwithstanding her consummate artistry, Miss Hayes is still too youthful, too vibrant and too much the embodiment of charm and the zest of living to be assigned to the depiction of sordid and broken old age.

The "sin" of Madelon Claudet was that of being a perfect mother. Deserted by her lover, the father of her baby; tricked by a notorious jewel thief, for whose crimes she paid the penalty of ten years in prison following his suicide, and finally driven to the pavements as a means of holding together a living death that she may supply her son the funds he needs to become a great surgeon. Madelon, her identity unknown to him, eventually is supported in comfort by the son for whom she has sacrificed so much and suffered so bitterly in both body and spirit. He looks upon her merely as an interesting and pathetic clinical case—and none will tell him otherwise.

Miss Hayes is surrounded by a cast of exceptional caliber, many noted players being enlisted for little more than "bits." Foremost in support are Lewis Stone, as Carlo Boretti, the master thief; Jean Hersholt, the kindly physician who keeps the mother's secret and guides her son to eminence; Neil Hamilton, the renegade American who deserted his sweetheart in the hour of her greatest need; Cliff Edwards and Marie Prevost, erstwhile guardians of the boy, first impersonated by Frankie Darro and then by Robert Young; Karen Morley, as Mrs. Dr. Claudet; Alan Hale, Lennox Pawle and Charles Winninger. Their contributions to a distinguished picture are uniformly sagacious and convincing.

On the stage, Loew's "Fantastique" revue, while perhaps not quite that, reveals some especially exotic dances by the Chester Hale girls, with Anita Avila as premiere danseuse, and three masculine turns of merit in their respective fields.

Stetson is a juggler, who converts all of the mishaps that befall his adventures with top hats and cigar boxes into laughs, and Paul Keast displays a rather better than usual high barytone in two colorful songs with choral background. Mills, Kirk and Martin are nut comedians, instrumentalists and dancers, who seem to permit enthusiasm to run away with discretion in the matter of limiting their act to reasonable length.

The superior bill is completed by Fitzpatrick's descriptive scenic, "Bali, the Island of Paradise;" Walter Futter's "Curiosities;" a new issue of the Hearst Metrotone News and orchestral prelude, under Harry Borjes.

FOX

"THE YELLOW TICKET." Fox picturization of Michael Morton's famous play, featuring Lionel Barrymore and Elissa Landi, supported by Laurence Olivier, Walter Byron and Rita LaRoy. Directed by Raoul Walsh. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

The yellow ticket, it develops, is a decided liability—both to its possessor and to the movie-going public.

This story of the fatal ticket has everything. In fact, it has so much of everything, so many harrowing scenes, narrow escapes and climaxes in its hour-and-a-half of dragging length, that only a strong constitution and a pair of scissors are needed to slice it into a swell serial. Yesterday's audience fell into the proper mood with salvos of applause. But maybe they meant it.

In the colorful land of the czars in the colorful days of the czar, Marya Kalish, a young Russian, is refused a passport to St. Petersburg to nurse her father, ill in prison there. However, she learns that the yellow ticket, badge of ladies of the evening, is an open sesame throughout Russia, so she secures this questionable passport.

Once strayed into the primrose path—in name only, as the picture will explain to you—she can not rid herself of the yellow stigma. Meeting a young English newspaper correspondent, who is willing to admit he doesn't know what everything is all about, Marya tells him what everything in Russia is about. Straightway his articles pick up with blood and thunder and back home the circulation manager probably has a celebration. The reaction in Russia, however, is not that of celebration, and Baron Andrey, of the secret police, steps in.

Then, as Joe Penner says, came the War! We do hope Raoul Walsh had his tongue in his cheek, for it is pretty hard to take this straight.

Elissa Landi is again beautiful and again unhappy and there isn't much she can do about it. Lionel Barrymore, as Baron Andrey, delivers his usual very sleek, shaded, and, this time, shady performance.

Laurence Oliver brings a new and most attractive personality to the screen. His voice is a delight and, though he is far from handsome, only apparent self-consciousness mars his charm as Julian Rolphe, the journalist. Walter Bryon is handsome, but wasted, as Count Nikolai, and Rita LaRoy is vivid in a thumb-nail portrayal of Fania, another yellow ticket holder.

On the stage, Fanchon & Marco take us around the world with the most interesting stops in Dixie, where Tex Morrissey and an entrancing mule play willy-nilly with the cash customers; Honolulu, where the Daniels dance beautifully, and back to that general jumping-off place, America, for Al Nord and Jeanie, who will surprise you with their persons and playing. The mixed dancing chorus is clever and capable. Harry and Frances Usher are amazing mind readers, with Frances on the stage and Harry kidding the audience.

"How does she do it?" "Maybe he's a ventriloquist."

COLUMBIA

"SUSAN LENOX, HER FALL AND RISE." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the novel by David Graham Phillips, adapted to the screen by Wanda Tucker, starring Greta Garbo, supported by Clark Gable, Jean Hersholt, Ian Keith, John Miljan and Alan Hale. Directed by Robert Z. Leonard. Reviewed (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

Since the advent of sound to the reeling celluloid, one of the major problems has been just what to do with foreign players who, in the era of silence, exerted a tremendous appeal at the box office.

Happy fortune it is to report that, at last, Miss Garbo's sponsors have awakened to the key of her box-office appeal—her emotionalizing in pantomime. If for no further reason than to present the old Greta, refurbished with modern embellishments, "Susan Lenox" would be of especial appeal. Thus, unhampered with the necessity to recite a long series of lines, Miss Garbo lets herself go and emotes as in no previous dialogue offering.

In the role opposite her is one whose performance is no less remarkable. Clark Gable delivers himself of his most finished work. The role itself, while paradoxical through most of its course, is just right for Mr. Gable, allowing him to display the many tricks learned in his apprenticeship.

Jean Hersholt, as Miss Garbo's father; Alan Hale, the lover from whom she runs away, and John Miljan, as the circus manager, offer the principals excellent assistance.

Chief among the diverting short subjects is "The Pajama Party," an amusing comedy with ZaSu Pitts and Thelma Todd. The others are a new release of "Football Thrills," Walter Futter's "Curiosities" and the Paramount Sound News.

It would seem that our Stratford friends are, above all else, poetical souls. They have proved themselves noble in tragedy and adept in comedy, but it has remained for "Midsummer Night's Dream," which is essentially a marvelous flowering of Shakespeare's lyric youth, to bring out their most sincere artistic feeling.

Last night's production was superb, not only in the tasteful and intelligent arrangement of scenes, in the telling movement of the drama and in the brilliance of the broad comic passages, but still more in the sureness and delicacy with which the delicious melodies of the fairy verse were spoken. The players seemed to put more of their hearts into this fantasy than into the severities of Lear or Henry, or the more sophisticated wit of the later comedies. So they must be mostly poets.

Take Gyles Isham as an outstanding instance. As Edmund and as Hotspur he was obliged to be the cynical realist, the practical man superior to sentiment, and possibly that was a reason for an occasional slurring or slipping of speech that some complained of. Now it is clear that what Mr. Isham really wanted was to be Oberon, King of Fairyland, the most imposing and romantic figure imaginable, and in that guise his utterance turns out rippling and crystal clear.

Miss Coxhead, as Titania, is another who proved charmingly eloquent in delivering some of the most exquisite passages. Miss Francis brought out the beauty of Hermia's lines without neglecting either the emotion or the humor of the part, and Miss Cynthia Bridge was an equally sensitive and capable Helena. Ernest Hare and R. Eric Lee, as Lysander and Demetrius, were poets as well as lovers.

A beautiful performance all told, and there is no more to be said.

METROPOLITAN

"THE MAD GENIUS." Warner Brothers picturization of "The Idol," by Martin Brown, adapted to the screen by J. Grubb Alexander and Harvey Thew, starring John Barrymore, supported by Marion Marsh, Donald Cook, Charles Butterworth, Louis Alberni and Carmel Myers. Directed by Michael Curtiz. Reviewed (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

Florenz Ziegfeld, 'tis said, refers to his Washington premieres as "public dress rehearsals." So it must have been with John Barrymore and his presentation of "Svengali," for here in "The Mad Genius" we have a reincarnation of the former character, done much better for the earlier practice.

In theme, these two productions run a similar course. As the club-footed ballet master, whose infirmity vitiated his maternally inherited genius, Mr. Barrymore is superb. Without the hypnotic manifestations of the earlier picture, yet with the selfsame soul-piercing glint in his eyes, he is the more effective.

As the one elevated to fame by Tsarakov is Donald Cook, who gives to the role a sympathetic handling and whose youthful unsophistication makes more poignant his struggle between love and duty. Marian Marsh is more than charmingly cast as Mr. Cook's sweetheart.

Charles Butterworth, minus the inebriety but very much plus his inimitable dryness of humor, periodically adds that little spark of levity much needed to contrast the grimness of the main plot.

While serving principally to alleviate the extreme tenseness of the featured drama and the gruesomness of the closing scenes, the auxiliary subjects are ample. "You Don't Know What You're Doing," done as an animated Merrie Melody, a release of Ripley's "Believe It or Not," and an issue of the Paramount Sound News make up the complement of short reels.

SONGS END JUBILEE OF GIRL RESERVES

Seven Musical Episodes Are Presented by High School Clubs.

Bringing to a close the golden jubilee of the Girls Reserve, Young Women's Christian Association, an American song festival was presented last night at Barker Hall, in which groups of girls from high school clubs participated.

The program was divided into seven episodes, six of which represented truly American music, while in the seventh music of other nations was presented.

The first episode represented songs of the sea and was given by the Western High School club. Four salty songs were given.

In the episode which followed songs of the pioneers were presented by girls from the George Mason High School. The singing of "Oh Susanna" by Stephen Foster was a feature.

In the Indian episode, given by girls from McKinley High School, Miss Mary Apple sang two Indian songs. The Indian wigwam dance was presented.

Songs of the range were rendered in the cowboy episode by the Eastern High School girls. This was followed by mountaineer songs by Business High club members.

Negro melodies were rendered by girls from the Phyllis Wheatley Reserves. Central High girls presented a group of foreign numbers, Czech, Russian, Mexican and Canadian, aided by the Takoma Park Reserves, who sang Irish melodies.

Virginia Worker Hurt On School Building Job

William Powers, 57 years old, laborer on the Brown School construction project on Oklahoma avenue northeast, near Benning road, was painfully injured yestered when a large piece of slate fell from the upper part of the structure and struck him.

Powers, who was rushed to Casualty Hospital in a Fire Department ambulance, was badly cut about the head and upper body. Physicians said he was in undetermined condition. He was said to live in Clifton, Va.

THE SATURDAY FOOD AND HOME ECONOMICS PAGE

Appearing Each Week in The Washington Post

PRIZES ANNOUNCED IN POST CONTESTS

Awards Are Made in Recipe and Favorite Advertiser Competition.

The housewives and homemakers who read the Saturday Food Page of The Washington Post regularly to obtain hints from the advertisers for their menus and Sunday meals, responded eagerly to the "My Favorite Advertiser" contest. The two prize winning entries this week are printed today and each are awarded book prizes. The contest will be continued until further notice.

The winners are Mrs. W. C. Smoak, Holiday House, Alexandria, Va., and Mrs. Hattie P. Tolson, 3646 Park place northwest.

Mrs. Smoak wrote:

"My Favorite Advertiser on The Post Saturday Food Page" is not a firm that sells food at all! Barber & Ross. When one enters the Barber & Ross store, whether a purchase is made or not, the sales force makes one feel that an honor has been conferred upon the company and that means closer and friendlier relationship with the firm than is possible in most places where a casual and occasional purchase is made.

"Barber and Ross stand behind every sale and any article purchased of them must be up to their high standard, or your money is refunded without question. It is a privilege to go on their second floor in the house-furnishing department, as their stock is most complete, with prices just a little lower (for value received) than you can find elsewhere.

"Frequently my purchase is a very small one, but I always leave the store with a desire to return at an early date, and the knowledge of money well spent, of a friendliness and hospitality which will always remain in my grateful memory."

Mrs. Tolson wrote: "It is rather a hard proposition to descriminate between the advertisers on the Food page of the Saturday Food Page, in the way of favoritism—for they are all excellent in their own way—but I think the Sanitary or Piggly Wiggly Stores are leaders inasmuch as they have so many commodities from which to choose.

"From the advertisement of the Sanitary or Piggly Wiggly Stores, there is always a variety of "goodies" mixed with the necessities of life (in the way of food, from which I can select my marketing. Then also the list changes every Saturday, giving those wishing to submit receipes so many ideas of fashioning dishes that often more than one recipe is entered by an individual because of their appetizing lists."

Recipe for Prune Pudding Wins Prize for Miss Ford

Dish Served With Custard Sauce Is Wholesome and Delicious and Most Deserving of $5 Award Offered by Post.

To Miss G. B. Ford, of 1725 Seventeenth street northwest, goes this week's $5 award for the best recipe submitted in The Post's prize recipe contest.

The prize is for "Prune Pudding" with custard sauce. The Post judges heartily agree with the prize winner that "this pudding is both wholesome and delicious." So "stick in your thumb" and let us know what you think of it.

The food page editor recommends that you try the custard sauce as well as the pudding, as the pudding is really incomplete without it.

The recipe follows:

1 cup cooked prunes, chopped (Piggly Wiggly)
2 cups dried bread crumbs
1 cup chopped nut meats (M. B. Frazier's)
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon, ground
1 large orange, grated rind and juice
1½ cups of prune juice
3 well-beaten eggs.

Mix ingredients in order given. Pour mixture into buttered pan. Bake in moderate oven 35 or 40 minutes. Serve hot or cold with cream or with custard sauce.

Custard sauce—Add to beaten yolk of one egg 1 cup of milk, 2 tablespoons of sugar, 1-3 teaspoon of vanilla extract. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly till sauce is creamy. This pudding is both wholesome and delicious.

Cranberry Mousse.

2½ cups raw cranberries, measured after sorting
1¼ cups cold water
1¼ cups sugar
1 cup evaporated milk
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ cup orange juice

Wash cranberries, add cold water and cook slowly until soft, about 15 minutes. Press through a potato ricer. There should be 1¼ cups pulp. Add sugar and cook 10 minutes. There should be 1¼ cups jelly. Chill. Scald milk over boiling water. Chill thoroughly, then whip until stiff. Add lemon and orange juice and continue whipping until very stiff. Cut and fold in the cold cranberry pulp lightly, but thoroughly. Pour into cold freezing pan of an automatic refrigerator and freeze. Or pour into a mold and pack in a 1:3 salt-ice mixture. Requires 2 to 6 hours to freeze. Yield, six servings.

Petit Fours.

½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
2 cups cake flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup evaporated milk and ¼ cup water, mixed
4 egg whites
½ teaspoon almond extract

Cream butter. Add sugar and continue creaming until sugar granules are dissolved. Sift flour, then measure. Resift with baking powder and salt. Add milk and flour alternately to the sugar-butter mixture, beginning and ending with flour. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and add flavoring. Pour into a layer cake pan that has been lined with waxed paper, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 15 minutes, then increase to 375 degrees F. and continue baking about 15 minutes. When baked, turn out onto waxed paper. Cool, then cut into little cakes. Frost with pastel tinted icings.

Peanut Stuffing.

1 teaspoon minced onion
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ cup ground peanuts
1 teaspoon salt
Cayenne
½ cup evaporated milk

Cook onion slowly in butter five minutes. Add bread crumbs, peanuts, salt and a dash of cayenne. Soften with the evaporated milk. Yield: One and two-thirds cups, sufficient for one duck.

All-in-One Breakfast.

This simple dish provides all the vitamins, including the elusive vitamin C. It can be prepared while the water for the coffee comes to boil.

Spread buttered whole wheat toast thickly with hot, seasoned tomato puree. On each place a poached egg, garnish with two slices of crisp bacon and serve.

WINTER VEGETABLES MAKE CHEAP DISHES

Government Publishes List Suitable for Meals in Cold Season.

The part winter vegetables play in low-cost meals is shown in a Bureau of Home Economics bulletin just released. The nutritionists of the bureau particularly emphasize one bit of advice to families with slender pocketbooks, "The fewer kinds of food in the diet the more important it is that some of them should be vegetables."

Vegetables, then, must be included in the low-cost food supply if it is to be adequate. Then what have we this week? Fortunately, some of the best winter vegetables are among the cheapest kinds reported in current price lists. Potatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots, turnips, onions and cabbage are first on the list because they provide exceptional food value at low cost. Then there are parsnips, beets, kohlrabi and winter squashes and pumpkins, with canned tomatoes, kale, spinach and sauerkraut to give the tang that tickles the palate and adds more minerals and vitamins. There are also just now the half-dried beans and peas that sometimes appear in market, vines and all. There are, in any case, the dried beans and dried peas, which are so very useful, as well as appetizing, because of their minerals and proteins.

A medium-sized potato, baked or boiled, has a fuel value of about 100 calories. It has also some protein or muscle-building value, some iron and some vitamin C, all of which are important because we eat potatoes in quantity. To retain their food value, however, vegetables must be cooked right. The way to keep the vitamin C and the iron in the potato is to bake or boil it in the skin.

Next to the potato, the carrot probably is the cheapest and most important underground vegetable. Carrots are rich in iron. They are unusually rich in vitamins, and many people like them better raw than cooked, which is a sure way to get all the fine food value that is in them. Raw carrots will add, if you like, a cheap salad course to a meal. A strip of raw carrot makes a tasty relish. Carrots cut small, boiled and buttered, are easy to prepare. Carrots fried with apples make a good combination, and apples, too, are cheap this fall. Mashed carrots are an agreeable variation, the bureau specialists suggest. To prepare mashed carrots, they say, steam them or cook them in a small amount of boiling water until tender, press through a colander or potato ricer, and season with salt, pepper and butter.

Onions and turnips claim attention as winter vegetables not only because they are cheap, but because they furnish variety and flavor along with exceptional food value. Raw onions, say the food chemists, contribute some vitamin C, which is important in the winter diet. Onions baked in tomato sauce combine two cheap and important vegetable foods.

Cabbage, according to the recipe expert, is surprisingly sweet and delicate if simmered in milk for five minutes, then thickened slightly with blended flour and butter and salt. Or cabbage may be scalloped with apples according to the recipe given today. Or, again, shredded cabbage may be cooked with spaghetti and cheese with buttered bread crumbs over the top, and baked until the crumbs are golden brown—making a good one-dish meal for a winter day.

This week's Market Basket shopping list is for a family of seven, two adults and five children, aged 2, 5, 8, 12 and 15 years. The menu suggested, however, should be modified for the youngest child—giving him, say, an egg and a potato baked in the skin, instead of spareribs baked with sweet potatoes around them, which may be too rich a dish for a young child.

RECIPES.

Spareribs Baked With Sweet Potatoes.

2 sections of spareribs
Salt
Pepper
Flour
5 or 6 sweet potatoes.

Select well-fleshed ribs, and have the breastbone cracked so that it will be easy to carve between the ribs. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle the spareribs lightly with salt, pepper, and flour. Wash and pare the sweet potatoes and cut them in half lengthwise. Sprinkle with salt. Place the spareribs in a roasting pan without water and lay the halves of sweet potatoes around them. Cover and bake for about an hour, or until the meat is tender and the potatoes cooked through. Then remove the lid and continue baking for 15 to 20 minutes to brown.

Mashed Turnips.

Pare the turnips. Steam or cook in salted water in an uncovered kettle for about 20 minutes, or until tender. Drain and dry, then press through a colander, season with cream or butter, and more salt if needed. Serve at once with a sprinkling of paprika over the top.

Fried Carrots and Apples.

6 medium-sized carrots
6 tart apples
2 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt.

Scrape the carrots and cut them lengthwise into thin slices. Pare the apples or leave the skin on, as preferred, core, and cut into slices about a fourth of an inch thick. Place a single layer of the apples and the carrots in a large skillet with the fat, cover tightly, and cook until well-browned, turn, and brown the other side. Just before the cooking is finished, sprinkle with the sugar and salt. Serve on a hot platter, first a layer of carrots, then a layer of apples, so the two can be lifted together.

Creamed Mixed Vegetables.

1 cup diced potatoes
1 cup diced carrots
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup diced turnips
2 cups finely chopped cabbage
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup milk

Cook the potatoes, carrots, onions and turnips in three cups of boiling water until almost tender. Add the cabbage, allowing about five minutes for cooking. Prepare a sauce of the melted butter, flour, salt and milk. Cook until thickened and stir this sauce into the vegetables. Cook a few minutes longer, until the desired consistency is reached and then serve.

Scalloped Cabbage and Apples.

2 quarts shredded cabbage
1 quart tart sliced apples
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sugar
2 to 4 tablespoons butter or other fat
1 cup buttered bread crumbs

In a greased baking dish place alternate layers of the cabbage and apples, seasoning each with salt and fat and sprinkling the sugar on the apples. Over the last layer spread the buttered crumbs. Cover, and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes, or until the cabbage and apples are tender. Toward the last remove the cover so the crumbs can brown. Serve in the baking dish.

Stuffed Onions.

5 large mild onions
3 tablespoons butter or other fat
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 cups bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper

Skin the onions, cut in half crosswise, simmer in salted water until almost tender, and drain. Remove the centers without disturbing the outer layers and chop fine. Melt 2 tablespoons of the fat in a frying pan, add the chopped onion, celery, parsley and cook for a few minutes. Push the vegetables to one side, melt the remaining fat and add to it the bread crumbs, salt, and pepper, then combine with the vegetables. Fill the onion shells with the stuffing, cover, and bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes, or until the onions are tender. Remove the cover from the baking dish during the last of the cooking so the onions will brown on top.

Gingerbread.

1-3 cup fat
½ cup sugar
1 cup molasses
1 egg
3 cups sifted soft-wheat flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup milk

Cream together the sugar and fat, add the molasses and beaten egg. Sift the dry ingredients together twice and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Bake in two shallow pans in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 to 40 minutes.

One cup of sour milk may be used instead of the sweet milk. In that case, use 1 scant teaspoon of soda in place of the one-half teaspoon now called for, and use only 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Orange Tapioca Sherbet.

2 tablespoons granulated tapioca
2 cups boiling water
½ teaspoon salt
1¾ cups sugar
2 egg yolks
1¾ cups orange juice
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cup whipping cream or evaporated milk

Add tapioca to boiling water and salt and cook in double boiler until clear. Add sugar and egg yolks, slightly beaten. Cook for three minutes longer. Cool slightly and add the fruit juices. When cold, fold in the whipped cream or whipped evaporated milk. Freeze in tray of refrigerator or pack in ice and salt.

Goblin Salad.

Six hard cooked eggs, 6 crisp carrots, ½ cup mayonnaise, 2 ripe olives, 1 pimiento or red pepper, lettuce.

Cut eggs lengthwise into halves. Remove the yolks and cream them with a little mayonnaise, salt and white pepper. Fill back smoothly into whites. If desired, a little grated cheese may be added. Place 2 halves, cut side up, on a bed of lettuce. Cut olives and pimiento or pepper into tiny bits. With these make eyes, nose and mouth on egg yolk. Cut carrots into long slender strips. Use one strip for body of goblin and others for arms and legs. Put on "necktie" and "shoes" of mayonnaise. Garnish with a ripe olive or two and serve. Serves 6.

Mayonnaise.

2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
½ cup boiling water
½ cup evaporated milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup salad oil
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
Dash of cayenne
¼ teaspoon paprika
White pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon vinegar

Prepare a white sauce of the butter, flour, water, milk and salt. Put all other ingredients except lemon juice and vinegar into a bowl. Add hot white sauce and beat until thick and smooth. Add lemon juice and vinegar and beat thoroughly. One whole egg may be used in place of two egg yolks and vinegar may be substituted for part or all of the lemon juice. If salad dressing does not begin to emulsify after beating two to three minutes, let stand half an hour, then finish beating. Yield: Two cups.

STOCK PRICES CLIMB WITH GRAIN MARKET

New York, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Wheat's rebound from an early decline, another new high for bar silver, easier money conditions and a brisk demand for bonds left the stock market little choice of action today, and it advanced strongly in the last hour.

There was some hesitation in the morning while Wall street traders were waiting to see what wheat would do, and many principal shares sold off a point or so. Fresh support for grains and a reduction in bankers' acceptance rates—the second in less than 24 hours—reflecting a more substantial inquiry for that form of short-term investment, turned the tables for shares which fell in behind the lively advance by metal issues.

The market's average gain was 2.6 points, putting the Standard Statistics—Associated Press composite at 88.2, a new high for the recovery. Thus, after several futile attempts, prices were at last able to negotiate what the technically minded called a favorable step. Activity increased sharply on the upturn and the volume, which approximated 1,400,000 shares early in the last hour, swelled to a 2,299,712-share total.

Metal Stocks Advance.

Most of the active metal stocks were up 1 to 3 points net. Utilities took heart from the recovery in American Telephone, which turned an early 2-point loss into a net gain of 3½. Foods improved 1 to more than 2 in many instances, and there was a similar range of advances for U. S. Steel, American Can, Bethlehem, National Sheet, Dupont, American Tobacco "B," General Electric, Westinghouse, International Harvester and Union Carbide. Case gained 3; Norfolk & Western jumped 9¼ in one transaction; Atchison and Eastman rose, 4, Allied Chemical, 4⅞ and Auburn Auto, 7½.

Silver advanced 1¼ cents to 34 cents an ounce, a new high for the year. China was said to have been an active buyer in the London market. It was assumed that the Manchurian troubles had considerable to do with such purchases.

Call money was officially unchanged on the stock exchange at 2½ per cent, but funds were to be had at 2 per cent and some dealers reduced time loans from 4 per cent to 3½.

Reviews Add Cheerfulness.

Weekly commercial reviews contributed to the cheerfulness, Bradstreet's saying that "more genuine optimism" was shown in its reports from 50 leading centers this week than last. The Middlewest, it said, "has been greatly encouraged over advancing grain prices, with the consequent promise of increased buying power for the farmer." Although Dun's found progress "rather slow and uneven," it pointed out that warm weather had been a handicap and that the grain rally and the easier money situation were helpful influences.

Wheat reacted between 2 and 3 cents in the earlier trading, but closed strong, gains ranging from ⅜ to a full cent. Exporters, as well as the speculatively-minded public, were said to be buying. The rise was also helped by reports of insect damage in Kansas and Southwestern dust storms. Corn also finished strong, ¾@1¼ higher. Cotton was more cautious, advancing 45 to 75 cents a bale net.

A weak French franc contrasted with a gain of 9 cents in sterling exchange. The latter probably reflected, to some extent, short covering. Chinese and Mexican currencies ralied with silver.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Unexhausted reserve buying power from outside the ordinary trade channels whirled wheat up today to within ¼ cent of the season's top point. Early in the market there had been forced down more than 2½ cents by severe price breaks at Liverpool, but many trending orders to purchase on downturns hoisted values anew almost instants from the day's bottom. Fresh jumps in values were aided by reports ominous of cross curtailment both in domestic spring and winter wheat territory and by greater attention to warlike happenings in the Orient.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¾ to 1¾ cents higher than yesterday's finish; corn, ⅜ to ¼ up; oats, unchanged to ¼ off, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents down.

Speculative general buying demand surprised the majority of professional traders who at first gave way to consternation at the manifest weakness shown in the Liverpool market. This weakness was attributed to sudden heavy selling of Australian wheat and to instability of British exchange rates. An immediate outburst of buying orders, however, which had apparently been waiting for just such an opportunity took effect in almost a twinkling, and a Chicago market shot upward more than a cent. Then came a recession of nip and tuck struggles that lasted until after midday but with the bulls the conquerors beyond question in the final half hour.

Dust storms reported in two tiers of Kansas counties were a late stimulus to speculative buyers of wheat, and the effect of drought news from the Southwest was heightened by dry weather complaints from spring wheat sections of the American Northwest and from Canada as well. Under such circumstances, bearish advices that Russia had offered vessels room for December exports of wheat failed to make much impression. Talk of enlarged offerings of wheat to Europe from the Southern Hemisphere, with harvesting commenced in Australia and yields above expectation, were also taken with a grain of salt as being much in the nature of bearish propaganda.

All deliveries of rye reached new top prices for the season. An incentive to purchasers was signs pointing to some export business.

Corn soared with wheat, and was but little affected by larger country sales. Oats met with good buying but only on price setbacks.

BONDS REPEAT GAINS OF PREVIOUS 5 DAYS

Corporate Loans and Rails Share Advances; Total Sales $12,800,000.

New York, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The bond market advanced today for the sixth successive day, although a number of the more important issues developed temporary weakness.

Closing prices were generally higher in all groups. The average price of 60 leading issues composed of equal numbers of rail, public utility and industrial loans was 83.4, a net gain of six-tenths of a point and the high-highest level since October 10 when the average was 84.1.

United States Treasury and Liberty loans showed consistent strength and about half of them closed with net gains of more than 1 point, which are unusually large for this group. The Treasury 3½s of 1943-47 and the Treasury 4¼s of 1947-52 each gained 1½ points.

Sales of the Liberty Fourth 4¼s exceeded $1,000,000 compared with the aggregate sales of all issues of $12,800,000. The action of this group was a reflection possibly of increasing confidence in the banking situation.

Strength in Argentine loans featured the foreign group. Net advances in the bonds of the national government ranged from 2 to 10¾ points, which were much larger than most of the gains. German issues scored irregular gains. Forenoon weakness in them preceded a recovery during the last two hours.

Gains in the domestic corporate loans were distributed pretty evenly among railroads, industrial and public utility issues. The gains in the two former groups were somewhat wider than in the utilities.

Among the more active bonds to close with net gains of 1 point or more were Canadian Northern 7s of 1940, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, Atchison 4½s of 1948, American & Foreign Power 5s, St. Paul 5s of 1975 and of 2000, Chicago & Northwestern General 4s, Chile Copper 5s, Big Four series E 4½s, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Detroit Edison refunding 5s and series D 4½s, Goodyear 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s of 1981 and general 4s, Phillips Petroleum 5½s, New York Steam 5s, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s, Sinclair Pipe Line 5s, Shell Pipe Line 5s, Standard Oil of New York 4½s, Union Pacific 4s of 1968, United Drug 5s and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s of 1970.

Daily Gold Movement.

New York, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Gold transactions at New York resulted in a net gain in monetary stocks of $1,372,500 today, the Federal Reserve Bank reported. There was a release from earmark for foreign account of $1,399,500. Exports were $20,000 to Switzerland and $7,000 to Jugoslavia. There were no imports at New York.

3 D. C. COLLEGES AGREE TO PLAY ALABAMA FOR IDLE; 4 TEAMS RISK HOPES OF NATIONAL GRID TITLE TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE action of Georgetown University, Catholic University and George Washington U. in collaborating to play the Alabama Rose Bowl team of 1930 in a charity game for the Capital's unemployed is a refreshing note in the smug political play that heretofore has greeted the efforts of agencies attempting to match the local colleges for a benefit contest.

First suggested by George Washington University, the offer might have been declined by Catholic University which was summarily dismissed from further schedules by George Washington last year when the Colonials decided to sever all athletic relations with local rivals as unhealthy to friendly competition.

Georgetown, too, came within the scope of the George Washington pronouncement, although the Colonials and the Hilltoppers have not met for several years and there was little reason to believe that further contests were likely.

To the credit of Catholic University and Georgetown is their decision to participate in the game against the Alabamans. They might well have taken the stand that they were in no way bound to further any proposition of George Washington U.

Instead, they generously shelved their grievances, if any, in the cause of charity. Their action insures Washington of an outstanding attraction in the Hoover committee's program of college football benefit games. The attitude of Catholic U. and Georgetown is a pleasing contrast to the smug complacency of the unneighborly University of Maryland which flatly refused to play a local team on the ground that it "must adhere to its custom of not participating in post season games."

The time will come many times during future football seasons when Washington fans must make a choice of attending either games of the Maryland team or of the strictly local elevens. In the light of the charity developments, the choice will not be hard to make. Georgetown, Catholic and George Washington have cast their bread on the waters with unerring aim.

The game scheduled here for December 12 contains all the elements of a spectacular contest. The Alabama team, which will meet each of the three local elevens in three games of twenty minutes each, will be the same team which gained national fame in the Rose Bowl last year with a 32-0 rout of Washington State, the Pacific Coast champion.

The local teams will not be playing a mere collection of all stars. The Alabamans, eight of whom are playing with the present edition of the Tuscaloosa team, will use the same plays which carried them through an undefeated season last year. They will be a compact entity, well coached and well drilled, and if their play here even approximates their games of last year, Washington fans will be treated to the best football that has ever been exhibited within the confines of the National Capital.

It would seem that the Alabamans would be placed under a distinct handicap by being forced to meet a fresh Washington team every twenty minutes, and so they would, but there is agitation for a rule permitting the visitors unlimited use of substitutes.

The Alabamans, under the direction of the present head coach of Alabama University, will bring a squad of 22 players. They should be able to play 60 minutes of football without undue strain, even against fresh opposition. The players who are not at present with the Alabama team, have been active in coaching positions, and are in condition to play.

The date of the game, December 12, is two weeks after the close of the Alabama season on Thanksgiving Day. During that period Coach Thomas will have ample time to assemble and drill the team. It will be a simple matter to practice the same plays that they knew so well last year. Don't waste sympathy on the Alabamans.

Harvard Seen Victor Over Dartmouth

Northwestern Meets Minnesota; N.Y.U. Tests Georgia.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—At least four of the remaining undefeated contenders for national college football honors—Notre Dame, Harvard, Georgia, and Northwestern — tackle the first November hurdles tomorrow, along with a chance of being tripped up.

All four are favorites to continue their unbeaten gallops. Notre Dame's resources appear adequate to the task of repulsing Pennsylvania, one of the few remaining Eastern teams with a clean slate. Harvard likewise appears too strong for Dartmouth, even with McCall and Morton on the loose. Northwestern has the edge on Minnesota. Georgia has come a long way from home to find cold weather as well as New York University's aroused team ready to make it difficult for the Southerners.

100,000 to Witness Coast Game.

More than 200,000 spectators will witness these four spotlight engagements in the East and Midwest. The day's biggest turnout, figured around 100,000, is expected to see Pop Warner turn his unbeaten Stanford eleven loose against Southern California in quest of revenge for a 1930 shellacking. This game will be played in the huge Olympic Stadium, at Los Angeles.

The business of picking this week's probable winners has had the experts on the ropes, although so far the 1931 campaign has run unusually true to form. Such contests as Washington-California, Vanderbilt-Maryland, Florida-Alabama, Michigan-Indiana, Chicago-Arkansas, Rice-Texas Christian, Nebraska-Iowa and Fordham-Detroit involve so many confusing factors and statistics that the General belief is anything can happen—and probably will.

Many Intersectional Engagements.

Sectionally the two big climax games are Northwestern-Minnesota and Stanford-Southern California. Conference championships may be decided by the outcome of each.

Intersectionally, the Georgia-New York and Notre Dame-Pennsylvania games share major interest with Navy-Ohio State at Columbus, Fordham-Detroit at New York, Louisiana State-Army at West Point and Marquette-Washington and Jefferson at Milwaukee.

Georgia and Notre Dame, each ambitious to achieve national recognition again, are playing two of the toughest schedules in the country. Georgia has unbeaten Tulane as well as Southern California to play later this month. Norte Dame also meets Southern California, between tilts with the Navy and Army. There will be a good basis for comparison between the Southern Bulldogs and the Fighting Irish, if both keep up their sensational pace.

Tulane Faces Test In Auburn.

Tulane must dispose of Auburn tomorrow to keep abreast of Georgia and Tennessee in the Southern Conference race, and Auburn is no part of a set-up this year. Tennessee has a breather against Carson-Newman.

Southern Methodist, another undefeated outfit with national title aspirations, is favored to beat Texas A. & M. Texas Christian, by hurdling Rice, can keep pace with S. M. U. in the Southwest Conference tussle.

Utah, perennial Rocky Mountain Conference champion, figures to have no trouble bowling along toward another title at the expense of Colorado College.

The Kansas Aggies, in the Big Six group, are favored to beat Iowa State, while Nebraska steps into the Big Ten to tackle Iowa.

Harvard has the stiffest assignment in the race for Eastern sectional honors, playing Dartmouth. Cornell's undefeated team has a let-up against Alfred.

BACK home after four weary week-ends in enemy territory, Georgetown's battered football forces collide this afternoon with the rugged Bisons, of Bucknell University, in a game at Griffith Stadium, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The contest gives every indication of being hard-fought and productive of thrills.

Both teams are out to atone for past failures, Georgetown seeking its first victory in five starts and Bucknell reaching for its first major victory of the season which has seen the mighty Bison held scoreless by Temple and Villanova, a club that overpowered Boston College, conqueror of Georgetown.

Bucknell is favored to win on the basis of its performance against Villanova in the rain last Saturday when, led by the great Clark Hinkle, eastern scoring leader of 1929, it shoved the Wildcat eleven all over the gridiron only to lose its punch in the scoring zone. This same Villanova team easily defeated Boston College which subdued Georgetown by a score of 20 to 2.

Line Must Stop Hinkle.

Georgetown's big chance of winning rests with the ability of its line to cope with Bucknell's powerful off-tackle plays in which Hinkle is featured. Failing to gain through the line, Bucknell will be at a disadvantage, for Georgetown's forward-passing game is generally conceded the superior.

The Hilltop's passing attack will be led by Dick King and Nick Viskovitch, both of whom are long and accurate tossers of the ball. Tommy Carolan and Joe Alenty are the best receivers on the team, but whether Coach Mills intends to use them in this capacity remains to be seen. It is believed that the Hilltop coach has instructed his men in some new maneuvers this week.

This is the eighth game of the Georgetown-Bucknell series that began in 1904 with a Georgetown victory by a score of 12 to 0. The Bisons hold an edge of 4 to 3 having won in 1905 by 18-0, in 1923 by 14-7, in 1924 14-6 and in 1925 by 3-2. Georgetown registered in 1916 by 78-0 and in 1922 by 19-7.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

SHOWING more "comeback" than any of the experts gave it credit for, the Central High School grid team, hit flush on the chin with the customary cholera of classroom deficiencies early this week, came back with a right smart assortment of football players yesterday afternoon to beat the perennial Joe Doakses of the series, Business High, by the score of 14 to 0.

About 1,500 foot-stamping and chilly fans resisted the blasts of cool air better than the players themselves, who gave ample proof of the low temperature of their finger tips by fumbling the ball on an average of about every seventh play. There were eleven fumbles in all, one of which accounted for the second Central touchdown.

Flynn's Rushes Stopped.

Business was all defense yesterday, and by the same token that its big fullback, Larry Flynn, was stopped, so was the team itself stopped. Flynn, whom every Central tackler seemed to take delight in bringing down before he was fairly started on his way with the ball, was bottled up completely, and Business had no alternate backs to take advantage of the fact that the Blue and White team all but ignored them, in their anxiety to stop Flynn.

Business was on the run all the time. Its sole advantage from carrying the ball was to make up for lost ground, and the competent toe of its scholastically inept end, Charles Purr, was keenly felt. It produced only one concentrated drive, which advanced the hoghide from the Business 20-yard line to midfield in the first period of the game, after Cumberland had checked a Central march by fumbling.

Central could not marshal its forces for a touchdown until late in the second period. A Central drive had petered out on the Business 30-yard line, and on the first offensive play Business fumbled and the ball was retrieved by three Central players. Cumberland went around end for 11 yards, hit again up to the 5-yard line. Stocky Bill Myers cracked center for 4 yards, and Cumberland put it across. He added the extra point by drop-kick.

Comedy of Errors Exhibited.

The third period was a comedy of errors, both teams being held to the equator of the field by incessant fumbling, but a measure of teamwork and momentary sure-headedness settled over Central after the fourth quarter had begun, and the Blue and White began to shove back the determined Business line, whose sole hope was Bobby Cooke, center, and Tony Mastromarino, tackle. Central worked the ball down to the 10-yard line, where Cumberland fumbled when tackled on the 5-yard strip. Harrison recovered for Business and the Stenogs kicked out to Cumberland, who brought the ball back to Business' 30-yard line.

Robinson's LUCKY TOM, Northway Stable's GALLANT SIR, Hal Price Headley's BIG BEAU, Coldstream Stud's MARMION and C. V. Whitney's MAD FRUMP.

Starters will pay $1,000 additional. If the winner has been bred by the owner, such owner gets $2,500 additional. If all start, the net value to the winner will be $59,070.

The Futurity will be run as the fourth race and will be at the post at approximately 2:45. Indications are for a fast track. Attendance of 40,000 is expected. Clubhouse space has long since been exhausted. Prominent people from all sections are here. Among the notables with reservations are Vice President Curtis, Gov. Ritchie and Mrs. Payne Whitney.

The distance of the Futurity is a mile and one-sixteenth. E. R. Bradley's BURGOO KING was the first to be entered this morning. C. V. Whitney's entry was the last made. BURGOO KING carries only 119, while the weight for colts is 122. The allowance of three pounds for the Bradley colt is due to a provision of the rules that if either the sire or dam have not produced a winner at

Cubs Buy Infield Star Of Sacramento Club

Chicago, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—The Cubs today made their first move to strengthen their battle line for the 1932 campaign by purchasing Stanley Hack, star third baseman, from the Sacramento Club of the Pacific Coast League.

A large amount of cash, not revealed, and a player to be named later was offered and accepted for Hack, whose rise within one year has been one of the most sensational in baseball. He batted .350 for Sacramento last season and sparkled on defense.

Grid Carnival Here Dec. 12 Arranged

Georgetown, Catholic and G. W. Each Will Play Invaders.

3 Games of 20 Mins. Each Expected to Net Huge Sum.

FOR the sake of Washington's unemployed, three local universities—George Washington, Catholic and Georgetown—got together yesterday and agreed to participate in a novel football exhibition in Griffith Stadium on December 12.

They consented to play their teams against the 1930 eleven of the University of Alabama, recognized in some quarters as national champion last year, in three twenty-minute games with the gate receipts being turned over to the District of Columbia committee on employment.

Representatives of the three institutions will meet this morning at 11 o'clock in the office of Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington, when final details for the attraction will be arranged and announced. Staging of the exhibition will be directed by the athletic directors of the local schools and two representatives of the committee on employment.

Griffith Donates Park.

Only the actual expenses of the visiting squad, which is to be composed of 22 players and 2 coaches, will be deducted from the gate receipts, and the expenses are not to exceed any saving in excess of $3,500 guarantee, which will cover only the actual expenses of the Alabama players and the cost of the printing of tickets, will revert to the relief committee. All funds will be handled by the local committee. The Washington Baseball Club, through Clark C. Griffith, has donated use of the stadium.

The Alabama squad is to be organized immediately by Frank Thomas, head coach of the Tuscaloosa school, who will be assisted in the preparation for the game by Henry Crisp, Alabama director of athletics. Eight members of the present Alabama team will play and the rest will be players who performed in the Rose Bowl game against Washington State last year at Pasadena, Calif. The latter group have been keeping active this year in the coaching profession. The eight members of the 1931 Alabama team are scheduled to complete their college careers next June.

Order of Games Undecided.

The order in which the local teams will take the field against the Southerners has not yet been determined. It probably will be done, however, on a luck-of-the-draw basis. Each twenty-minute game will be divided into 10-minute halves and an intermission of 5 or 10 minutes will space each contest. A proposal has been advanced to allow the Alabama players to make as many substitutions as they wish in order that the superiority of the Capital teams in numbers be offset.

Popular prices will prevail for the game. While the prices of tickets have been set at $1.50 for general admission, $2.00 for reserved seats and $2.50 for box seats, the committee has decided that the public will be allowed to insure the game. Instead of paying a large premium for rain insurance, those who purchase the tickets previous to December 1 can obtain general admission seats for $1.00, reserved seats for $1.50 and box seats for $2.00. This scale is considerably lower than that which prevailed at the Maryland-Navy game when tickets sold for as high as $4.00.

Persons instrumental in arranging the exhibition are confident that a sum of more than $20,000 will be realized for the unemployed. They are counting heavily on the support of the alumni and students of the schools in addition to the general public. Official Washington also is expected to attend en masse.

Affords Comparison Of Local Rivals.

Those behind the exhibition point out that it has enough attraction in itself to assure the attendance of a

Northwestern Bids For Big Ten Crown

Chicago, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—It may be championship day in the Western conference tomorrow.

The undefeated Wildcats, of Northwestern, engaged the husky Viking crew, of Minnesota, in a battle at Evanston hailed as the big ten title. Northwestern, if victorious, must only defeat Iowa and Indiana on the next two Saturdays to have clear, undisputed claim to the title.

Northwestern appears to be too well fortified in reserve strength, plus a powerful first team for Minnesota, and for the first time this season probably will open up to its full offensive power. Against Nebraska, Illinois and California's Los Angeles branch, Northwestern's marvelous team assured itself of victory in the first few minutes of the game and then was content to finish with reserves.

The game, the standout attraction of the Big Ten tomorrow, will attract a crowd of 48,000 or more. Reb Russell, the star plunger, is expected to be back in action for Northwestern for the first time since the season opened. Pug Rentner, a triple threat half back, will go into the game with a broken thumb, which may stop his passing, but Ollie Olson will be able to do whatever throwing is needed.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S ambitious football team, which has enjoyed a meteoric rise to popularity among local fans this season, gives its first performance at home this afternoon, following its surprise victories over North Carolina State and Duquesne when it meets the strong Manhattan College Eleven from New York in Brookland Stadium, starting at 2:30 o'clock. The doughty Cardinals are hopeful of scoring their fifth successive triumph.

The green and white jerseyed 'Jaspers' boast a potent back field averaging 169 pounds and a bulky line that, from end to end, scales 189. Striking a 179 average or thereabouts, the Manhattanites will outweigh C. U. by virtually 10 pounds to the man.

That Manhattan will show its full strength at the kick-off was learned upon the squad's arrival here yesterday. One valuable acquisition will be found at left guard where Eddie LaFrance, who was missing due to injury in the New York City College contest, returns to action.

A radical change in the back field arrangement will be effected at game time. Although Capt. Del Negro is to remain at quarter back, the "Jaspars" are to attack from a huddle and Mal Thomas, triple threat half back, is to call signals.

The Brooklanders will be seeking revenge when the opening whistle sounds. A year ago Manhattan barely shaded Catholic by a 7 to 6 margin in Gotham. Although both elevens have gained momentum since the Cardinals likely will break into action today an established favorite.

Upon the showing of Fred Guarnieri, who will be making his first start at quarter back and as a successor to the injured Johnny Oliver, rests Catholic's chances. Intrusted with the tossing end of the aerial game, Guarnieri has been drilled all week in the overhead game. And insofar as C. U. undoubtedly will capitalize passing as a medium of breaking up Manhattan's beefy defense, Oliver's understudy will be closely watched.

Having stressed defense all week, the Cardinals are to center most of their attention on Mal Thomas, elusive left half back, and Pete Battle, hard-pounding full back. While Thomas, who runs, punts and passes, will draw most attention, Battle, his team's scoring leader with five touchdowns, also must be stopped.

Notre Dame Seen Victor Over Penn

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—This Pennsylvania football team which came to South Bend today with the avowed intention of whipping Notre Dame tomorrow, may cause the Irish more trouble than other opponents this season, but almost every one around here, except the Quakers, figure it will be just one more Notre Dame triumph.

The Quakers naturally have not forgotten that 60-to-20 walloping they took in the presence of a home crowd last year, and also have not forgotten that one Marty Brill was the cause of most of their misery in connection with that contest.

There will be no Brill tomorrow, but Notre Dame points out that Marchy Schwartz, George Melinkovich, Chuck Jaskwhich, Joe Sheketski, Frank La Borne, and a lot of other handy ball carriers have managed to carry on this season. The Irish squad will be in better shape, especially in the line, than since early in the season.

Penn expected to start its most powerful front, with Smith at quarter, Munger and Gette at halves and Carl Perina, the 204-pound line crasher, at full back.

Neither eleven has been defeated, but the record of the Irish is more impressive. The attendance was expected to reach 40,000.

Georgia and N.Y.U. Will Attract 65,000

New York, Nov. 6 (U.P.).—Georgia's varsity football squad, a group of young men who frankly admit they are shooting for the national championship and will be satisfied with nothing less, rode into New York today to defend their perfect record against New York University at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow.

The Southerners are the favorites, and justly so. Coach Harry Mehre has one of the fastest, best-balanced back field squads in the country. Notre Dame, and Notre Dame alone, can match Georgia in back field strength. Outstanding in the Georgia line is the highly publicized end, Catfish Smith. So much has been written about Catfish that most of the some 65,000 persons who are expected to see the game tomorrow will go prepared to see the Catfish do everything but play a flute and juggle plates.

Georgia will not find N. Y. U. a set-up or a pushover. True, the Violets looked anything but impressive in losing to Oregon last week, but you may rest assured that the N. Y. U. team that took a licking from the coast outfit won't be the same team that will face Georgia tomorrow. N. Y. U. went into the Oregon game overconfident. It will take the field against Georgia ready to shoot the works from the bell.

Special to The Washington Post.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Maryland University's veteran football team arrived here today highly hopeful of springing an upset tomorrow at Vanderbilt's expense and continuing unbroken its string of victories in Southern Conference competition. But the invading host, as smart and clever as it is known to be, is not favored by local experts, who predict a Commodore triumph by at least 10 points.

Vanderbilt, coached by the wily Dan McGugin, has been preparing a special defense for Maryland's famed spinner plays, intending to stop the bull-like rushes through the line of Ray Poppelman, full back, who has led the Old Liners' march over V. M. I. and V. P. I. in recent weeks.

However, the Commodores are worried about the threat that is held out by Maryland's all-around back, Shorty Chalmers, whose kicking and passing are distinctly of high calibre, and who has not been successfully stopped in any game he has played to date. If the Maryland half back again gets off those long forward passes that defeated Navy and tied Kentucky, then Vanderbilt is in for a deal of trouble, perhaps a licking.

Maryland, in its workout this afternoon, showed evidence of being in tip-top physical condition, but Vanderbilt, nevertheless, will be the better team physically tomorrow. McGugin's lads are taller and will outweigh their guests by about 10 pounds to the player. It is this weight advantage that is the basis for many of the predictions of a Vanderbilt triumph.

G. W. Cubs to Oppose St. John's Freshmen

Freshmen elevens of George Washington University and St. John's of Annapolis will clash this afternoon in Eastern High School Stadium, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The Baby Colonels are favored to win, although their best offensive player, Biesiada, is injured. In a recent game with the G. W. Varsity the yearlings performed impressively.

Trojans-Stanford Seek Coast Lead

101,000 to See Clash at San Francisco; Stanford Is Favorite.

San Francisco, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Football leadership of the Pacific Coast Conference will be at stake tomorrow when Southern California's Trojans and Stanford's Indians line up in their November classic at Los Angeles.

Into Olympic Stadium is expected to pour a throng of 101,000 fans, a record turnout for Far Western football. Several years ago a crowd of approximately 100,000 watched the California-Stanford game at Berkeley, but some 20,000 of these spectators were on the hillside overlooking the bowl.

Winners of four conference contests, the Trojans will take the field favorites.

STORM WINNER IN BLANKET FINISH OF PIMLICO FEATURE

Favorite Wins In Stretch Drive

Walls Also Scores With Blue Damsel in Third Race.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 6. A sensational finish marked the feature here today, in which Mrs. H. Payne's Storm was the winner by half a length. Noses apart, Frumper and Quarter Deck were second and third in the order named. The stretch run was furious, in which there was much crowding. The winner paid $5.20. Frumper was $15.80 for place. Black Majesty set a fast pace as long as he could last, with Full Dress closest up. Turning homeward, Storm went to the front, in close quarters.

E. Kane's Bub McFarland scored in the sixth race under a good ride by M. Lewis. Nostaw, which had led in the stretch to the sixteenth, finished second and Arras was third. The winner paid $39.60 and ran the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:48. Salisbury led to the back stretch, when Nawstaw took the lead.

Frolic Winner Of Steeplechase.

Under a good ride by A. A. Pikor, Frolic II, carrying the colors of Miss Sarah Jane Sanford, won the Harford Steeplechase in a field of twelve horses. H. Rozier Dulaney's King's Own was second and C. V. Whitney's Hatbroom third. Brookemeade Stable's Potentate was fourth. Tequila, second choice in the betting, lost his rider when in fourth position at the last fence. The winner paid $5.60 and was the favorite.

The steeplechase was run under the best conditions, and witnessed by a large gathering. The turf was in good condition, and the day bright and cool.

Leading the field for more than a mile, Cahirciveen, "Pete" Bostwick's mount, led the pack, by a wide margin, but the horse while speedy between the fences failed to take off expertly and made two bad landings. When he dropped out of contention on the back field of the second circuit of the course, Potentate also was outrun, and Frolic withstanding the challenge of King's Own, won out by a length. Hatbroom, which had been in the lead, tired slightly in the last sixteenth.

Blue Damsel Gallops In Third.

Max Hirsch's filly, Blue Damsel, won the third race for 2-year-olds by four lengths, cantering through the stretch. C. H. Sprague's Step Sis was second and A. Schuttinger's Trysome third. Black Jewel was fourth. Stimulator went to the front on the back field, with Princel and Blue Damsel in the order named. In the turn for the home stretch Walls forced Blue Damsel through the leaders and took the track. The time was 1:12 4-5. The winner paid $8.30. Step Sis for second paid $10.90.

C. V. Whitney's Pintail outgamed E. R. Bradley's Busted, the favorite, in the fourth race, and won by a length. Wheatley Stable's Slambang was third, a length and a half from Busted and three lengths in front of Barcelona Pete, fourth. Senado led to the far turn, with My Fergus and Busted in the order named. Robertson brought Pintail to the front entering the stretch, and she won easily. The time for the mile and 70 yards was 1:45, and the winner paid $12.50.

H. Rosie Dulany's 3-year-old gelding, Egad, ridden by E. Smith, graduated from the maiden class in the first race, winning in the race for maiden 3-year-olds and upward. The Tout was second and Brown Mary third. The winner paid $3.60 to win and the same price for place. Smith almost tossed off the race, but got the decision by a head. G. Uteria's Pourboire, gelded son of Mad Hatter—Bakasheesh, fell dead in front of the stand at the finish of the race. P. Walls, who had the mount on the ill-fated horse, escaped injury. The horse was entered for the claiming price of $2,500.

The LeMar Stock Farm's Make Believe, by a fast stretch run, passing Bounding Deep and Tantalizing, won the seventh race going away. Bounding Deep was second and a half length back for third was Tantalizing.

P. Walls rode the winner, making a triple for the jockey. Tantalizing was first away from the barrier and led to the stretch. Royal Panoply was close to the pace to the stretch. The winner was the favorite and paid $5.90.

NOTRE DAME MEETS.

All members of the Notre Dame Preps 135-pound football team are requested to report at 2 p. m. on the Anacostia field tomorrow for their game in the Capital City League.

BALTIMORE QUINT BOOKS.

Games with teams in the unlimited class are being sought by the West Baltimore A. C. Basketball Team for the coming season. The Monumental City aggregation is starting its seventh campaign. The Stewart Bros. Photographers, and St. Martins teams are specially challenged. For games address Les Tarbutton, 816 North Payson street, Baltimore, Md., or phone Madison 1557-J.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EGAD, $3.60, $3.60, $2.80; THE TOUT, $7.40, $5.20; BROWN MARY, $3.50.

EGAD moved into contention on the inside rounding the first turn, followed close up, responded gamely under punishment when securing racing room on the inside of THE TOUT entering the home stretch and was up in the final sixteenth mile. THE TOUT reached the front steadily when put to a drive and held on gamely to the finish. BROWN MARY, rated in front, lost ground making the stretch turn and was best of the others. JOHN BARTON had a lot taken out of him forcing the pace.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FROLIC II, $5.80, $4.80, $4.30; KING'S OWN, $14.50, $6.90; HATBROOM, $4.10.

FROLIC II, allowed to race on his own courage for the first mile, fenced stoutly when moving to the pacemakers in the final half mile, took command when clearing the final fence and outstayed KING'S OWN. Latter, rated close up in the early running, finished with good energy. HATBROOM, taken wide for the final half mile, struck the last two fences when rushed hard and he was outrun after the final fence. POTENTATE was racing gamely until the twelfth fence. His rider could not do his mount justice when both stirrup irons broke. CAHIRCIVEEN had plenty of speed for the first mile and tired thereafter. MAYOR WALKER was always outrun. PROOF POSITIVE retired early. TEQUILA lost rider at the last fence.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:27. Off at 2:29. Winner, M. Hirsch's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLUE DAMSEL, $8.30, $4.30, $2.10; STEP SIS, $10.90, $5.00; TRY SOME, $3.00.

BLUE DAMSEL, sent into contention at once, gained stoutly to displace the pacemakers when entering the home stretch, and drew away at will approaching the finish. STEP SIS, hurried to the front, raced under slight urging to shake off PRINCEL, then continued gamely when put to a drive nearing the end. TRYSOME, following close up, challenged determinedly rounding the turn, swung wide into the home stretch, and tired under punishment. BLACK JEWEL finished strong on the outside. BILL SOUTHAM closed resolutely from a slow beginning.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PINTAIL, $12.50, $6.50, $4.80; BUSTED, $4.80, $3.90; SLAMBANG, $8.90.

PINTAIL gained stoutly when straightened on the back stretch, continued on the outside of her opposition when reaching the leaders, was placed to a hard drive and came away gradually nearing the finish. BUSTED, under steadying restraint after gaining a forward position, disposed of SENADO when ready, saved ground, but could not match the winner's rush. SLAMBANG, a slow beginner, circled his field and closed full of run. BARCELONA PETE, under stiff pressure, hung badly in the final sixteenth. SAND WRACK could not threaten seriously after moving up at the far turn. STEPPING SISTER met with no mishaps.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:35. Winner, Mrs. H. Pyne's ch. c. (4), by Audacious—Spray. Trained by W. G. Wilson. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47, 1:12 2-5, 1:38 3-5, 1:43 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STORM, $5.20, $3.50, $2.70; PRUMPER, $15.80, $8.10; QUARTER DECK, $2.80.

STORM, under good handling, raced resered for the first half mile, gained stoutly thereafter, here over to the inside when displacing the leaders in the final furlong, and had to be kept under severe pressure to stall off PRUMPER. Latter, ridden hard for the final six furlongs, closed willingly when slipping through on the inside of the leaders during the stretch run. QUARTER DECK closed stoutly under punishment. SIDNEY GRANT closed full of run after trailing his field.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Margaret Mc from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:07. Off at 4:07½. Winner, E. Kane's b. g. (4), by Behave Yourself—Beginner's Luck. Trained by S. Judge. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUB M'FARLAND, $39.60, $12.60, $8.40; NOSTAW, $5.30, $4.00; ARRAS, $4.60.

BUB M'FARLAND, going in his best form, secured racing room on the inside of his field when rounding the far turn, continued stoutly after reaching the leaders and came away steadily after displacing NOSTAW in the final sixteenth mile. Latter showed improvement under different handling, saved a lot of ground throughout, but faltered steadily after moving into a safe lead. ARRAS, taken to the outside for the final test, finished with good courage. SYRIAC made up ground after lacking early speed. SALISBURY was used up racing hard in the opening half mile. FERVID tired from her early efforts. GRAND PRINCE quit.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:40. Off at 4:45. Winner, Le Mar Stock Farm's b. g. (4), by Omar Khayyam—Red Riding Hood. Trained by M. Lowenstein. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14, 1:40 2-5, 1:53 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAKE BELIEVE, $5.90, $4.10, $3.10; BOUNDING DEEP, $6.10, $4.20; TANTALIZING, $7.10.

MAKE BELIEVE, reserved off the early pace, gained stoutly when put to a drive in the closing half mile, secured racing room on the inside and, finishing in bold fashion, wore BOUNDING DEEP down inside the final furlong. BOUNDING DEEP reached the leaders rapidly when put to a drive, took command when straightened into the home stretch, but could not meet the winner's rush. TANTALIZING, rated in front, weakened when challenged. ROYAL PANOPLY was stoutly ridden in the early stages, and had nothing left in the final test.

The Dixie Pig Football Team will drill tonight at 8 p. m. on the Seat Pleasant field. Tomorrow the Dixies play the Marions in The Post's Capital City League.

DE MOLAY BASKETERS WORK

The De Molay five will practice tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Laurel Armory, and would welcome all candidates for berths.

UNDEFEATED ELEVENS IN BATTLE

Irvington Lost Last Game to Apaches in 1929 Race.

UNDEFEATED since 1929, the Irvington Grid Team, Baltimore's crack contribution to the South Atlantic League, will invade Griffith Stadium again tomorrow afternoon, there to clash with the likewise undefeated Mohawks, whose one victory and two ties this year give them the lead in the professional loop.

The Baltimoreans have not been scored on this year, in five games, and both South Atlantic League games they have participated in have been ties.

Fee Colliere, Dick Allen and Center DeRoo, Mohawk mainstays who were injured in the Apache-Mohawk game last Sunday, will be back in action. The two teams tussled to a 0-0 tie in the first game of the season for the local team. The Indians are more than anxious to down their opponents, since a victory will give them a commanding lead in the fast semi-pro organization.

Bethesda Firemen Plan Unlimited Court Team

The Bethesda Fire Department, whose baseball team finished in a tie for the runner-up position of the Montgomery County section of The Post's Capital City League, will sponsor an unlimited basketball team. William Hartley has been elected business manager of the quint. Fendall Alexander will coach the team.

The following players reported for the first drill held last week: John Murdock, Joe Oldfield, Roland Hargett, and Ford Young. Only members of the Department are eligible for the team. Teams desiring to book games are requested to call Hartley at Bradley 651 between 7 and 8:30 p. m.

Tech-Business Game Proceeds to Charity

The final game of the high school series, Tech vs. Business, on Tuesday, November 17, was designated a charity game by the board of high school advisers yesterday afternoon, and promptly indorsed by the principals of the five local public high schools. It will be Tech's final local appearance of the year.

It will be the second charity game ever played by a local school. Last year Tech and Eastern played before 8,000 fans in Central Stadium and drew a $1,500 "gate" for the Salvation Army and the Central Union Mission.

Tech turned down suggestions that it play either Gonzaga or Western.

Landon and St. Alban Play to Scoreless Tie

Landon School surprised by holding the strong St. Alban's Prep eleven to a scoreless tie on the latter's field yesterday. Landon outgained its opponent in the second half of the contest, but lacked the necessary scoring punch. Chelsey and McGee starred for St. Albans, and Secconde and Harper were best for Landon.

Tennis Pros Planning First Indoor Tourney

New York, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—A professional indoor tennis tournament, to be played here during Christmas week, has been arranged by the Professional Lawn Tennis Association.

This will be the first indoor title tourney for the pros. Play will be on the courts of the Seventy-first Regiment Armory.

The association did not set the date nor name the site of the 1932 outdoor championships, but Chicago was the city most favored. All the previous tournaments have been held at Forest Hills, Long Island, where the amateur tournaments also are held.

A ranking list is being compiled by the association and will soon be issued. William T. Tilden 2d, who took the title from Vincent Richards at Forest Hills last summer, has been named No. 1.

STAR FIELD TO START PLAY IN NATIONAL CAPITAL OPEN

Post Entries Bring List To 140

O'Hara Shoots 71 to Top Players in Final Workout.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE icy northwest gale that swept across the course of the Kenwood Club yesterday played havoc with the scores of a large majority of the golfers who were playing practice rounds preliminary to the beginning of the National Capital open golf tournament this morning.

Wind breakers and heavy sweaters were in demand, but even with this additional protection against the sudden winter-like weather nine holes were enough for many of the contestants. The enthusiasts who followed the rounds of the noted players were uncomfortable in heavy overcoats.

Tommy Armour, former national champion, attracted the largest gallery, including many members of the Congressional Country Club, where he served as a professional, and was most conspicuous on account of a bright plaid woolen tam-o'-shanter that was pulled down over his ears. He played the first nine in 35, 1 over par, and was returning in splendid form until he reached the seventeenth hole when an adventure into a trap led him to pick up. He was due for a 75.

O'Hara Has Card Of 71.

Peter O'Hara's card of 71 was the lowest recorded, but Tom Creavy, the champion of the Professional Golfers Association, was close behind with 73. J. Monro Hunter, Indian Spring, and Whiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, each with 75; R. Cliff McKimmie, White Flint, with 76, and Mel Shorey, East Potomac Park, with 77, were also among the low scorers. Gene Sarazen and John Farrell played but did not keep their cards.

Although several of the noted players who were expected to compete, including Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, Cyril Walker and Horton Smith, are conspicuous by their absence, the remainder of the field is the most impressive aggregation of names connected with a local event since the national open championship was held at the Columbia Club ten years ago. In addition to the list of 122 entrants printed in The Post yesterday morning, the following post-entries were announced yesterday:

Professionals—Marty Lyons, Springhill, N. J.; John Noonan, Rochester, N. Y.; Fred Bishelli, Briar Cliff, N. Y.; Mike Turnesa, Fairview Country Club, New York; Joseph Mazziotti, Elmsford, N. Y.; Tom Kerrigan, Siwanoy, N. Y.; Dan Williams, Shackamaxon, Westfield, N. J.; Ray Teerling, Westpoint, Conn.; Eddie Williams, Westwood, Cleveland, Ohio; James Matucci, Teterboro, N. J.; John Kinder, Caldwell, N. J.; James Dante, Madison, N. J.; Jack Forrester, Hackensack, N. J.; Herman Marron, Port Chester, N. Y.

The competition today will be eighteen holes, medal play, with the entire field participating. At the conclusion of the round the sixty low scores and ties will qualify to play an additional thirty-six holes tomorrow, the player with the lowest score for fifty-four holes to be the winner of the principal purse of $700.

Armour Expects 214 to Win.

Considerable speculation was indulged in yesterday regarding the total score which will take first prize. If weather conditions improve, some contestant may play three rounds in even par, a total of 210, but Tommy Armour yesterday predicted that a higher figure, such as 214 or 215, would be more likely to win. The par of the course is 34 out and 36 in and the length is 6,626 yards.

In view of the fact that thirty-three names on the entry list represent amateurs, the Kenwood management yesterday decided that if none of these amateurs qualify among the first sixty, they will be requested to continue play tomorrow, inasmuch as five prizes for amateurs have been provided.

Final arrangements for the tournament, including the handling of the gallery on the fairways and at the greens, were concluded yesterday. While space will be provided contiguous to the clubhouse for official cars and the autos of the contestants, it is expected that a considerable portion of Dorset avenue and other Kenwood streets will have to be utilized for parking space. James D. Preston, who has had long experience at national tournaments, will handle the score board.

Central Back Gallops Through Line

ness' 10-yard line, where Cumberland fumbled, and Cooke recovered. Flynn obliged Central by fumbling on the first Business play, and it was Central's ball on the 10-yard line by right of recovery. Bill McKenzie, a Central newcomer, went around end, behind flawless interference, to score, and Cumberland added a neat drop-kick.

MARIONS MEET AND DRILL.

The Marions will hold an important meeting tonight at the clubhouse, which all members are requested to attend. Following the confab the team will go through its paces in preparation for tomorrow's Capital City League game. Ray Newman will be in charge of the drill.

ST. STEVEN'S PLAYS.

St. Steven's Prep gridders will meet the Anacostia Eagles 135 pound team tomorrow at 3 p. m. on field no. 3 at West Potomac Park. The "Saints" are riding on top of the 135 pound division of the Post's Capital City League.

Hitting The Head Pin

THE Columbia Mixed Doubles League will resume play tonight with six matches scheduled on the above mentioned drives. The participants called time out last week because of Halloween. Margaret Leaman and Eddie Espey hold the league lead, followed by Lorraine Gulli and Moore.

Fuller Stone Plant and Minte Paint are at it again in the Building Contractor's League. The two just can't make up their minds as to who shall occupy the uppermost perch. Last night at Arcadia, the Stone Plant gang dropped two to Heffron and the Paint quint took advantage of the situation by winning all three from Standard Art Marble, to tie its rival for the leadership. E. J. Harney, of Fuller, knocked over 351 pins during the evening to win individual honors. The other matches rolled resulted in shut-out victories for Evans Plumbing and Fuller Co., over Massapomax Sand and Moyer Construction, respectively.

Sparks, Groves and the Attorney team cleaned up in the Interstate Commerce Commission League matches rolled at Arcadia last night. Sparks, who bowls for Recapture, had high game of 140, and Groves took set honors with his 375. The Attorney quint captured both game and set honors with marks of 378 and 1,648, respectively.

Business was pretty good in the District Government League, which committed assault and battery on a few of Mr. Fraser's duckpins at Arcadia. The Fire Department Team took all three from Manual Training Teachers, and Health Department applied the same treatment to Water Register. All of the other matches were decided by 2-1 margins. Highway defeated Repair Shop No. 2, Chief Clerks downed Sewer Department No. 2, and Sewer Department No. 1 partially redeemed the family honor by trimming Repair Shop No. 1. High game went to Clagett, of Repair Shop No. 1, with his 136, and set went to Fireman Sweeney, who had 355 pins to his credit. The Chief Clerks and Firemen divided the team honors, the former taking game with 593 and the latter set, 1,640.

Last night was the big diamond merchants' night at Columbia, and the Jewelry League teams took full advantage of the opportunity to get in a few whacks. R. Harris Seniors retained its slim lead by trouncing Desio, 2-1, as Galt & Co. No. 1 climbed within a game of the leaders with a clean sweep over Pearson & Crane. Galt No. 2, Pirrone, and Limon were returned victorious by 1-game margins, but Heller Plating & Art Metal took the whole loaf. A. Kahn, R. Harris Juniors, Jewel Shop, Steinner-Baum, and Castleberg took the short end of the scores. Beilly won the individual honors with a set of 337 and game of 141.

Meter Shop tied for the lead in the Washington Gas Light Co. League by winning all three from Georgetown at Columbia last night. "Skeeter" Fox led the winners with a set of 338.

Judd & Detweiler took the measure of Barnes Used Motors in a National Capital League match rolled at Lucky Strike last night. The winners came back strong after dropping the initial game and copped the last two going away. Pfiel, of the Printers, had high game and set for his team, 136 and 345, respectively. Wormesly was high for the auto dealers with his game of 145, but George Isemann, secretary of the National Duckpin Congress, won the set award with his 347 score.

In the two other matches rolled in this league Young & Simon nosed out Temple in the odd game, and Farnan's Bowling Shoes squeezed a 2-1 victory out of Lucky Strike. Bild, of Temple, had a game of 125 and set of 349, but he was outdistanced by Atwell, of the opposing team, who marked up an even 400 set and game of 142 to garner individual honors. Mischou, of Farnan's, and Campbell, of Lucky Strike, were high for their respective teams. Mischou had a game of 137 and set of 403, and Campbell a game of 127 and set of 351.

The Quartermaster Men's and Ladies Leagues held forth at Columbia, last night and some good scores, especially by the ladies, were recorded. Miss Boller, of Engineers, whose average for the season is well over the 100 mark, had a game of 109 and set of 308. Her game effort was beaten by Miss Barnes, who toppled the maples for a score of 113. The team matches resulted in Personnel's 2-1 victory over Engineers, Construction's victory over Supply by the same margin, and Real Estate's odd game win over Executives.

Honors were well distributed among the men. Dulin, of Transportation, counted high set of 347 as his team knocked off Supply in all three, and Stewart, of Construction, took game honors, with a score of 129 to aid his mates in sweeping the set with Depot. Design and Power carried off team honors as the latter triumphed in their match, 2-1. Design's 537 was high for game, and its opponent's 1,539 sufficed to gain set laurels.

The password at Convention Hall for the remainder of the week will be Donaldson. Last night five brothers bearing this name stole the show in the Odd Fellows loop. Brothers Will, Linwood, Melvin, Frank and Ed, rolled Amity No. 2 to a three-game victory over Washington. The other member of the family (his initial is also W, so we'll call him Bill), smashed the seasonal high game mark with total of 147 bottles. His team, Amity No. 1, also whitewashed its opponent, Fred D. Stuart.

Patents No. 3 ran its winning streak to twelve in a row by sweeping its match with Patents No. 2 in a Department of Commerce League tilt at Rendezvous last night. In the other matches, Foreign and Domestic trampled Coast Survey underfoot, 2 to 1, Patents No.1 downed Bureau of Standards by the odd game, and Census tripped Mines, 2 to 1. Woods, of Patents No. 2 registered high set of the evening, 345.

Jack Chesbro Dies; Famed as Pitcher

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Former Pirate and Yankee Spitballer.

Conway, Mass., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—"Happy Jack" Chesbro, one-time spitball pitcher of the New York Americans, died suddenly today on his chicken farm of a heart attack. He was 56.

Born in North Adams, Chesbro led the National League pitchers in 1901 and 1902 while with Pittsburgh, winning 21 and losing 9 for an average of .700 in 1901 and piling up a percentage of .824 the following year with 28 victories and only 6 defeats.

He won the most games in a season of any year from 1900 to present in 1904 while with the New York Highlanders, now Yankees. In that year he won 42 games while losing 13 for a percentage of .759.

Jack Chesbro was a former coach of the pitchers on the Washington Club several years ago. He was retained for one season.

GONZAGA 13-0 VICTIM OF SWAVELY

Purple Suffers First Defeat of Season in Thrilling Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

MANASSAS, Va., Nov. 5.—Gonzaga's victorious march through the ranks of schoolboy elevens came to an abrupt halt here today when Swavely Prep's gridders plastered the Purple with a 13-0 defeat in a thrilling game before a large crowd of fans. It was Gonzaga's first defeat of the season, and also marked the first time its goal line had been crossed.

Small though the margin of victory was, the game was fought on an even closer basis than the score indicates. Swavely tallied its first touchdown in the opening period when Mowrey took Carr's long punt and threaded his way 65 yards through a broken field to score. The Washington team quickly regained its equilibrium and pounded its way deep into Swavely territory only to be halted when one of Carl Mills' passes fell into the arms of an enemy receiver.

Relying almost wholly on a play involving a double-pass behind the line, Swavely tramped to its second and final touchdown in the third quarter. Mowrey and Thomas bore the brunt of the attack that dispersed the defending Purple warriors as it advanced down the field. But the eventual losers also had one last punch in their system, and this drive carried them to Swavely's 20-yard line, where another intercepted pass ended their scoring chances.

The work of Mowrey and Thomas in Swavely's back field, and the play of Joe Mills, Tom Nolan and Viau, for Gonzaga, featured the game.

West Virginia Team Here Tonight for Contest.

WITH its first team due to start, George Washington University is expected to register an easy victory tonight in Griffith Stadium, where it engages Salem College from West Virginia under the arc lights commencing at 8 o'clock. The West Virginia club in no way figures to equal the Colonials, who held Iowa last Saturday to a 7-0 score.

This is the second night game of the current season hereabouts and offers entertainment for the many football lovers whose daytime activities prohibit an indulgence of their athletic appetites. A crowd of about 8,000 is anticipated.

Whether or not Coach Jim Pixlee intends to keep his regulars in for the entire duration of the game could not be learned yesterday, but the probability is that he will use the occasion to give as many of his reserves a chance to play as possible. Three hard games remain after tonight in the Colonial schedule and Pixlee wishes to strengthen his reserve department by giving the substitutes plenty of experience. However, he may use the starting eleven throughout to determine the worth of several players who gained varsity nomination last week by the proverbial hair-line margin over anxious competitors.

Fenlon in Best Condition.

Johnny Fenlon, ace back of the Colonials, will appear in the starting array. For the first time since the Elon game on October 3, this elusive ball-toter should perform in high gear, for he has fully recovered from an ankle injury which rendered him almost useless in the intersectional tilt won by Tulsa. G. W. observers declare that Fenlon, in proper condition, would have increased the Colonials' effectiveness against Tulsa about 25 per cent.

D. C. Umpires Stage 11th Annual Banquet

The eleventh annual banquet of the District of Columbia Umpires Association was held Thursday night at the Hamilton Hotel. Billy Betts acted in the capacity of toastmaster. A number of prominent local sportsmen attended, and many addressed the gathering. Among those present were Walter Johnson, manager of the Washington baseball team; Harry (Doc) White, former star southpaw of the Chicago White Sox; Maj. David L. S. Brewster, Bert Olmsted, George L. Hightman, Bill Rapp, scout for the Cleveland Indians; Winfree Johnson and Cy McDonald.

The banquet was one of the most entertaining ever given by the association. Toastmaster Betts, a past master at the art, was at his best. Music, songs, and of course, the speechmaking, followed the dinner.

Walker Rejects Stribling Match

New York, Nov. 6 (A.P.).—Mickey Walker, favorite of Max Schmeling as an opponent for a heavyweight title fight somewhere this winter, is not going to tangle with W. L. (Young) Stribling or any other rugged warrior just yet.

An attempt to match Stribling, unsuccessful challenger for the title last summer, and Walker, who recently fought a fifteen round draw with Jack Sharkey, were abandoned today by Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden promoter. Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, refused to consider the match at this time.

Walker expects to sign for a title fight with Schmeling either in Miami, Fla., Los Angeles, or Atlantic City, N. J., as soon as the German heavyweight arrives here from his homeland late this month.

It was learned last night that the Alabama players declined invitations to play in Memphis, Tenn., and Los Angeles in preference to the Washington proposition.

Johns Hopkins Trounces American U. Eleven, 61-0

Eagles Earn One First Down in Night Game at Baltimore; Undefeated Maryland Eleven Has 150 Points for 6 Games.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—Scoring more points than any Johns Hopkins team has rolled up against any foe since 1924, the present Homewood squad crushed American University, of Washington, 61 to 0, tonight at Homewood.

While a thousand fans shivered as they watched, Hopkins' first team rolled up 34 points in the first half and then relinquished the job to a second string outfit, which fell one touchdown short, compiling 27 points in the second half.

Gardner Mallonee, assistant coach who works with the second string outfit, sent them into the game with the reminder that for the first time in many years they were able to perform as a unit while the first line troops watched from the bench. They responded by scoring 21 points in the third period for a high mark in single quarter.

The size of the score places Hopkins fifth in points among the undefeated and untied teams in the East, with 150 in six games.

Don Kelly, first string quarter back, who scored two of the touchdowns, jumped to second place among the State scorers with six touchdowns for a total of 36 points. Vince Carlin, of Loyola, leads with one more touchdown, for a total of 42 points.

Hopkins turned back every attacking threat of the American team, which never was able to transfer the play from its own territory. This was due in great measure to the persistency with which American chose to receive the kick-off after each touchdown. Only one earned first down was registered by the invaders, in the fourth quarter on a long forward pass. Twice before first downs had been made, but penalties played a part in the advances.

The Homewood attack beat back and crossed up the weak opposition at every turn.

DUNBAR WINS IN SCHOOL SERIES

Cardozo Eleven Bows by 33-0; Minns and Matthews Star.

RIDING high, the dark-garnet Dunbar eleven, in a busy afternoon at the Walker Stadium yesterday, auspiciously opened the colored high school city championship series by defeating Cardozo, 33 to 0. Cardozo found its hands full from the start, but fought gamely throughout and took it on the chin like veterans.

The Matthews-Minns combination was responsible for most of the scoring, starting early in the game. After a steady march down the field in the first quarter, Minns smashed through the Cardozo center for the first count. Dunbar threatened to score thereafter, but was unable to break through a stiffened Cardozo defense, the half ending, 6 to 0.

The third quarter proved a romp for the Dunbarites, who drove through the Cardozo line at will and opened up a bag of tricks that demonstrated an easy mastery. A lateral pass, Matthews to Minns, on the Dunbar 30-yard line, and a 30-yard run around the Cardozo left end by Minns scored the second touchdown.

Immediately thereafter Minns kicked off, Tolson fumbled and recovered the ball behind the end zone, only to be downed within sight of the Cardozo goal when he attempted to run with the oval instead of grounding it. Cardozo lost the ball on the next play on a blocked punt and Dunbar fumbled to return the ball to Cardozo, which punted again. Blocked once more, the punt was recovered by Honesty for the third touchdown. A pass, Matthews to Minns, added the extra point.

Matthews crossed the Cardozo goal line again after four minutes of fast action, punishing Cardozo with straight line plunges, to which were added referee's penalties for offside play. Again the short pass, Matthews to Minns, counted the extra point.

The final score was made when Turner intercepted a forward pass on the Dunbar 30-yard line and by clever broken-field running, eluded the entire Cardozo team. The usual combination, Matthews to Minns, made the extra point.

Primo Carnera Signs For Loughran Match

New York, Nov. 6 (U.P.).—Primo Carnera has accepted terms for a ten-round bout with Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, at Philadelphia on December 10, Leon See, Carnera's manager, said today.

After the Loughran bout, Carnera will depart for an extended tour of Europe and Latin-America, unless the New York Athletic Commission abolishes the new "dreadnaught" class, See said.

TITLE HOPES OF TULANE RISKED

Auburn Latest Test; Five Intersectional for South.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 6 (A.P.).—While five Dixie football teams, including the Georgia Bulldogs, seek intersectional gridiron honors tomorrow, Tulane University will risk its perfect Southern Conference record against a formidable team from Auburn at Montgomery.

Although nine intraconference battles are arranged, only the Tulane-Auburn game and the Vanderbilt-Maryland encounter at Nashville have direct bearing on the conference championship.

Georgia will rule a slight favorite over New York University as they meet in the Yankee Stadium in New York tomorrow afternoon. The Bulldogs already have won their first contest in the East against Yale and hope to finish the campaign with flying colors. Harry Mehre's team is in fine condition, Army and Columbia figure too strong for Louisiana State and Virginia, respectively, in their contests at West Point and New York. The other invaders from the South, Arkansas and Centenary, are accorded a better chance against Chicago and Purdue at Chicago and Lafayette, Ind., respectively.

District Hockey Team in Tourney

Capital Girls to Compete in Play at Plainfield, N. J., November 26-28.

The All-Washington girls' hockey team will invade Plainfield, N. J., to participate in the Southeast hockey tournament during the week-end of November 26-28, it was announced yesterday by the Washington Field Hockey Association. It will be the first Washington team to participate in such an event.

The Washington Field Hockey Association is made up of five active and five allied clubs. The active organizations are the Colonials, Websters, Etceteras, Washington School of Physical Education team and a team from the National Park Seminary. The allied members are Holton Arms, Madeira School, Mount Vernon Seminary, another team from the School of Physical Education and the Marjorie Webster School.

The All-Washington team will be picked from the ten eligible teams and also any unattached player in Washington. Tryouts are held every Wednesday at 4:30 o'clock on the Ellipse. The team will be chosen by a committee of the local association, whose officers are Mrs. Sussie-May Weaver, Jenny Turnbull, Miriam L. Spaulding and Elizabeth Morrison.

Capital Golf Clubs Will Aid Charity

Tournaments to Be Staged November 21 and 22 to Help Needy.

In accordance with the suggestion of the United States Golf Association the Maryland State Golf Association will sponsor a tournament at each club in Baltimore and Washington for the benefit of the relief fund. This tournament will be held at all clubs on Saturday and Sunday, November 21 and 22, at their respective courses. Prizes will be donated by the Maryland association for low gross and low net in Classes A, B, and C, using the Maryland association handicap card.

Players without handicap cards will be assigned a temporary handicap by the club professional. The event will be played under winter rules and also the rules of the United States Golf Association.

Each player may play as many rounds as he desires, paying the usual entrance fee of $2 for each round. The entire amount realized will be used for relief purposes. Returns from Washington clubs should be reported to Robert Stead, jr., care Bonbright & Co., the vice president of the association in charge of the Washington district.

LEVEY SIGNS FOR 1932.

Jim Levey, the St. Louis Browns' shortstop, got into the fold early and already has signed his contract for 1932.

GALLAUDET'S TEAM BOWS 5TH TIME

Marines Take 20-12 Decision in Game at Quantico.

QUANTICO, Va., Nov. 6.—The winning streak of the Quantico Marines was lengthened to seven and the losing streak of Gallaudet University was extended to five games here this afternoon as the second and third teams of the hard-bitten Leathernecks beat through the determined defense of the Mutes to win, 20 to 12, before 800 people.

Lieut. "Butch" Bauer, of the Marines, and "Bilbo" Monoghan, stellar Gallaudet end, were the individual heroes of the game. Bauer's mighty punting, passing and his 25 and 35-yard gallops to two touchdowns were spectacular, while Monoghan, a made-over end, snared a pass from Marine Quarter Back O'Neill late in the third period on his 35-yard line and ran the remainder of the distance through most of the Marine Team.

The Marines were the first to score when an exchange of punts gave them the ball on the 25-yard line. Bauer hiked around end to the 10-yard line and Shess rushed across on the first play.

The Blues scored their first touchdown on a sensational 40-yard pass, from Gamblin to Brown over the Marine goal line, early in the second period.

Washington-Lee Cubs Rout Maryland Frosh

Lexington, Va., Nov. 6.—Exhibiting a forward wall which was the feature of the day and taking advantage of more than its share of the breaks, the Washington and Lee Freshmen trounced the Maryland Freshmen here this afternoon, 20 to 0.

In the only sustained drive of the afternoon, the W. and L. eleven crossed their opponents' goal in the second quarter, Seaton going offtackle from the 7-yard line. After being outplayed in the third period, the Little Generals came back in the fourth to crowd Maryland to its goal and intercept two passes for two more touchdowns.

Mrs. Hedrick Among Army-Navy Winners

Amid a diffusion of trophies, the final Friday afternoon of golf, staged by the women of the Army and Navy Country Club, was held yesterday. Mrs. L. A. Hedrick and Mrs. P. Luscombe were winners of prizes in an 18-hole medal play event, while Mrs. John Lee and Mrs. Ed O'Hara won cups for the 9-hole event.

Trophies were given to the following: Mrs. Carl Ransom, Mrs. L. H. Hedrick, Mrs. Tom Shock, Mrs. Maurice Barroll, Mrs. John Upham, Mrs. O'Rear and Mrs. Noyes for choice ringer scores; to Mrs. Royce, Mrs. Carl Mueller, Mrs. Garber, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. William Angwin for low net scores, and to the women's golf committee, composed of Mrs. Berkley Merchant, Mrs. William Angwin and Mrs. Lewis Coxe, for splendid work in women's golf this season.

JOB ROTATION PLAN OF DISTRICT BEATEN BY SOCIAL WORKERS

Part-TimeWork Would Have Been Provided for 800 After Next Week.

STEP WAS SUGGESTED AT WHITE HOUSE TALK

Abandonment of Idea Will Bring Dismissal of 400 Highway Employes.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Condemned by leaders of social welfare and charity work in the District, a plan announced by District Commissioners to cut in half the work and wages of 800 low-paid municipal employes will be abandoned, it was intimated by the Commissioners yesterday.

The plan had been adopted by the Commissioners without preliminary public discussion after the President's employment commission had suggested that one way to help relieve unemployment would be to compel Government workers to share their jobs and pay with persons out of work.

Following a conference at the White House, the District Commissioners, as well as members of the local unemployment committee, headed by E. C. Graham, prominent business man, decided to follow the Gifford committee's suggestion insofar as per diem workers on the city rolls were concerned.

400 Were to Have Been Retained.

Four hundred of these workers were to have been laid off at the close of the outdoor highway working season November 15. The Commissioners planned not only to keep these men at work by furloughing others regularly employed throughout the year, but to extend the furlough idea to three days a week so as to provide jobs for 400 additional men.

The plan, the Commissioners were told by local welfare leaders at a meeting yesterday, was "economically unsound and socially unjust;" it would merely spread the "area of humiliation;" it would mean increasing the number of families requiring aid from charity organizations.

It would be "poor economy" for the District; the one rule of charitable relief required those who had to give and not to make the low-paid worker divide his little pay with others only less fortunate economically than himself.

Discharges Due November 15.

Although formal decision of the Commissioners was not reached, they indicated after their meeting with the welfare leaders that they would abandon the scheme and on November 15 discharge the approximately 400 workers whose jobs will end with the end of the outdoor work season. Those who condemned the scheme included representatives of the Monday Evening Club, the District League of Women Voters, the Laymen's League of the All Souls Unitarian Church, the St. Vincent de Paul Society, the Associated Charities, the Jewish Charities and the District of Columbia Rehabilitation Service.

In the meantime, however, members of the President's employment committee continued their efforts to persuade private industry to adopt the suggested scheme for rotating employment.

Col. W. A. Starrett, vice president of the Associated General Contractors of America and a member of the President's organization, made public a statement urging adoption of the plan by contractors and subcontractors engaged on Government work in the National Capital.

McCarl Decision Explained.

Col. Starrett's statement was dictated in a telephone conversation from New York to the contractors' headquarters here. It was prompted by fear that publication of the recent decision of Comptroller General Raymond F. McCarl would interfere with adoption of the scheme by contractors.

Mr. McCarl's ruling was in response to a query from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who asked whether there is authority in law to compel rotation of employment by contractors by providing for it in advance specifications. There was not, Mr. McCarl said. Seeking to prevent damage to the employment committee's plan through a misunderstanding of this ruling by contractors, Col. Starrett said:

"By no stretch of the imagination can the comptroller's decision be interpreted as forbidding the rotation of construction workmen by contractors on Government work.

Contractors Plan Rotation.

"The comptroller has properly ruled that it is not in accordance with existing law for the Government to insert mandatory clauses in specifications requiring such rotation on all Government construction contracts. This meets with heartfelt approval of the Associated General Contractors and will have no bearing on the association's Nation-wide drive to promote relief of unemployment through rotation of employes wherever practicable on construction operations.

"I anticipate securing the same hearty cooperation in all communities as was demonstrated by contractors in Washington."

E. J. Harding, managing director of the Associated General Contractors of America, announced that contractors are reporting in increasing numbers details of plans they are working out for rotation of work on construction jobs in the National Capital.

Man Driven From House By Fire Goes to Hospital

Lawrence Morgan, 22-year-old taxicab driver, was in Emergency Hospital last night as the result of severe chill received after being forced to leave a sick bed at a rooming house at 1139 New Hampshire avenue northwest, when fire broke out in a basement room.

Morgan, who was at home ill with a cold, became alarmed because of the noise and smoke. The chill blasts brought him to a state of near collapse and Fire Rescue Squad apparatus took him to the hospital, where it was said his condition was undetermined.

HALLOWEEN PRIZES AWARDED IN THEATER

Delayed Judging Completed Before Audience; Partillo Wins First Honors.

Before an audience of several hundred persons at the Fox Theater last night, individual contestants in Washington's first organized Hallowe'en celebration were awarded prizes for the best costumes entered in the line of march.

First prize, a silver cup donated by the Rialto Theater, was won by Frank Partillo. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Barrett took second prize, a sterling silver platter given by Kahn's Jewelry Store. Third prize was won by Phil Drysdale. He was awarded a coffee set donated by the Rudolph & West Hardware Co.

The Kann's Department Store trophy was awarded to the team of Sebastian and Yost, while 3-year-old Betty Jane Collins was given a trophy donated by the Hecht Co. A prize given by the Peoples Drug Stores was won by Mack Athey.

An all-day trip in an airplane as the guest of Eastern Air Transport, was awarded to Oliver Stafford for his representation of Buck Rogers, a character in the comic section of The Post. Other prizes were won by Mary Louise Snyder, Hahn's Shoe Store trophy; Robert Anderson, Dreyfuss Hat Co. prize, and Harry MacFishell, Cascade Cafe trophy.

Judges of the awards were Al Mitchell, master of ceremonies at the Fox Theater; William A. Roberts chairman of the Halloween Committee, and Archie Shipe, of the Washington Board of Trade. Prizes previously announced as having been won by civic organizations which took part in the celebration, were also awarded last night from the stage of the theater. Among them was The Washington Post trophy which was presented to the Glover Park Citizens Association.

Physician Indicted As Narcotic Seller

Dr. Keister Was Arrested in Raid by Federal Operatives.

An indictment charging Dr. Bittle C. Keister, 3461 Fourteenth street northwest, with violating the provisions of the Harrison narcotic act, was returned by the grand jury yesterday.

The doctor was arrested by Federal agents on September 4. The agents testified that between July 11 and September 2, Dr. Keister bought 5,000 narcotic tablets. On the latter date, they said, the doctor bought a large number of tablets, and on September 4 another large purchase was made.

When the arrest was made, Dr. Keister allegedly had 1,232 tablets in his possession.

Physicians Extract Bead From Nose of Active Boy

Little 3-year-old William Nash wriggled so much that physicians at Sibley Hospital were forced to administer ether to quiet him when they extracted a bead from his nose.

William was playing in his home, 1701 C street northeast yesterday, and placed a glass bead in his nostril. It lodged there. At the hospital Drs. R. E. Dunkley and William Clements removed it with the aid of the anesthetic and sent William home.

Rheem Suit Merger Asked; Blair Questioned at Hearing

Shoreham's Bondholders Also Want Court to Name Trustees.

Question of Ownership of Stock Debated in Bankruptcy Case.

A committee representing substantial amounts of two bond issues on the Shoreham Hotel Corporation, one of which was $1,100,000 and the other $1,650,000, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to consolidate four suits already filed by others involving the Shoreham Hotel, and also to have trustees appointed. Both issues were marketed through the bankrupt Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co.

The committee, claiming to have bonds totaling $1,250,000 deposited with it, is composed of Edward F. Colladay, Harry L. Rust, C. F. R. Ogilby, George W. White and Walter B. Guy, who is chairman. The bill was filed in the name of the noteholders committee and it named the hotel corporation and 157 others as defendants.

The bill discloses a highly complicated situation. It declares that foreclosure of the two deeds of trust would be harmful, and that while the committee has received various propositions looking to an ultimate settlement of the questions involved, the court's sanction of these matters is asked.

The four suits already filed resulted in having receivers appointed to manage the property, the second suit substituted trustees for Edmund D. Rheem and Luther Swartzell, the third sought to enforce mechanics' liens of $534,000, and the fourth was for reinstatement of a former deed of trust on the property securing notes made by the National Presbyterian Church.

In an hour and a half session yesterday afternoon, E. Hilton Jackson, attorney, and his associates who are attempting to have Edmund D. Rheem declared personally bankrupt, got from Henry P. Blair, one of the receivers for the bankrupt Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., much data concerning Rheem's financial affairs.

The trustee brought to court in response to a subpena a large folder containing thousands of dolairs' worth of bank stock, certificates, and trust shares of a score or more of companies.

Whether it is the intention of the plaintiffs to have these assets declared Rheem's or not is not known, but Mr. Blair said he deemed them properly assets of the bankrupt company, and as such subject to proration among the thousands of creditors of the company.

The huge task of listing countless papers in Rheem's personal vault in the Swartzell company's safe was started, but owing to the necessity of carefully checking each item, not much progress was made. Rheem himself was called to the stand to identify many papers.

Mr. Blair, in response to a question as to whether any one had removed papers from the Swartzell firm safe, said that Rheem had come to the office after the receivers had taken possession and claimed the contents of the safety-box in which he kept his personal papers.

These were given to him after they had been listed, and when the trustees later suffered a change of mind, they asked for, and received back, the papers. They were intact, Mr. Blair said, when they came back.

The hearing will continue Monday.

Woman Battles Blaze Despite Burns in Blast

Gasoline she was using to clean clothes near a kitchen stove yesterday exploded, burning Mrs. Saran Goldberg, 42 years old, of 1407 Varnum street northwest, about the face.

Mrs. Goldberg, despite her painful burns, attempted to fight the fire, and then called the fire department. The blaze was confined to the kitchen where damage was slight. The woman was treated by a private physician. Her condition is not serious.

Plasterers' Union Ends Strike of 90

Overtime Pay Rows to Be Arbitrated in Future, Is Agreement.

Strike of 90 workmen employed by A. W. Lee, plastering contractor, caused by a dispute over $6 overtime pay for work which Mr. Lee said had not been authorized, was adjusted yesterday at a conference of officials of the International Union of Plasterers and Cement Finishers, and Mr. Lee and other contractors.

Collective daily earning capacity of the 90 men is approximately $1,050, and the strike had been in progress five days. The men will return to work immediately, union officials announced.

After an investigation by union officials, Mr. Lee was absolved of all blame. To prevent recurrence of the misunderstanding on overtime pay, an agrement was made between contractors and plasterers to submit the disputes to arbitration before drastic action is taken.

Man Court Finds Insane Wins Freedom 'In a Walk'

"How's that for telling 'em, Judge," a middle-aged man who had just been found to be of unsound mind, asked of Justice F. D. Letts as he was led from the courtroom yesterday. The prisoner gave the name of John Francis Logan.

Before the smiles of those who heard the remark had completely dissipated, the man could truthfully have asked "How's that for leaving 'em," for he walked right out of the courthouse, leaving attendants and policemen guessing what it was all about.

Five minutes after he had left the courthouse, the patient was being wildly sought. At a late hour last night he was, presumably, still asking 'em how they liked his mannerisms.

The man was picked up at the White House when he demanded $100,000,000 of attendants there. When in court he was asked if he wished to say anything to the jury and he replied "What? You want me to speak. You'll have to get me a soap box before I tell you what happened."

BABY GIRL CHOKES ON SMALL BEAN

Doris Jean Clark, 15 months old, was pronounced dead at Sibley Hospital, where she was rushed in a neighbor's car from her home at 2024 Higdon street northeast, three miles away, after choking on a small bean.

The child was playing on the kitchen floor when her mother, Mrs. Mabel Clark, saw her put something in her mouth. A moment later the child began to choke. Mrs. Clark picked up the strangling child and ran to the front porch, screaming for help. Neighbors rushed them to Sibley Hospital.

The child was dead on reaching the hospital. Coroner Joseph D. Rogers was notified and it is expected that an autopsy will be performed.

Mrs. Clark is the mother of two other children, Thomas Eugene, 4, and a boy, 2 weeks old, who has not been named. Her husband is Samuel Clark, a Marine, who is stationed in Cuba.

Man Who Killed Wife Will Be Electrocuted

Benjamin Brown, colored, was sentenced to electrocution yesterday following his conviction of a charge of murdering his wife, Alice Brown, March 31.

Brown shot and killed the woman when he called her into a corridor, leading her away from some friends with whom she had been talking. He had been estranged from her. The shooting occurred on Hanover street. The date for the execution was set for February 19, 1932, by Justice F. D. Letts.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE DEER SHELLING SEASON.

THIS is the deer hunting season, the time of year when the emergency ward of every hospital in the suburbs has a waiting list. From now until the game law provides for an armistice no farmer is safe, no cow knows what the next volley may bring forth, and no farmhand at work in the open field knows at what moment he may be eligible for wound stripes.

• • • •

These are the days when the slightest rustling of the leaves brings a barrage from the ridge, when the crackling of a twig is the signal to begin firing and when the slightest movement in the brush brings into action the world's largest and most nondescript army of cockeyed riflemen.

• • • •

There is nothing a man needs less than a deer, but when the season opens he leaps into his corduroy coat, grabs his trusty rifle and takes a crack at everything that moves, including milch cows, horses, tax assessors, surveyors, boy scouts, hitchhikers, lumbermen, and suburbanites making a desperate dash for safety from the Ford to the kitchen door.

• • • •

Golfers looking for lost balls in rural districts do so at their peril, and the wary player pursues his weary way over the suburban links in November in the knowledge that he may be taken for venison at any moment.

• • • •

There is something about November that makes every delicatessen store clerk imagine himself a Daniel Boone. Then it is that the fellow who couldn't hit an iron deer at ten paces with a shovelful of coal goes forth to nail the fleetest of animals on the wing regardless of distance, visibility or traffic conditions.

• • • •

In most States custom or the law requires that deer hunters wear red hats while in the woods. This is so the hunters will be able to confine the war to themselves, no person without the red hat being considered fair game.

• • • •

IT also serves the purpose of letting the deer know where the hunters are so they can come within rifle range and be relatively safe.

The minute a deer loses touch with the hunters he is apt to be shot by mistake for a civilian.

• • • •

Deer hunting was once a simple pastime requiring few preparations, but as conducted today it takes on the nature of an African hunt. The standard deer hunting equipment consists of an automobile, a case of rye, three or four cases of beer, a box of cigars, binoculars, camera, flashlight, portable radio, road map, deck of cards, poker chips, a three days' ration of bicarbonate of soda, a megaphone and a corkscrew.

• • • •

Many a deer hunt has been ruined the first night out by the failure to bring a corkscrew.

• • • •

The idea is to sneak up on the deer or his proxy, drink by drink.

• • • •

The megaphone is to amuse those huntsmen who tire of quartette singing in the deep woods and want to croon.

• • • •

HONK! HONK!

An automobile is to be named the Rockne. It will obviously have great lines and something sensational in the way of a shift.

• • • •

But what buyers will want to know in these days of congested highways is whether the new Rockne car will have anything in the way of a forward pass.

• • • •

The National Horse Show is on again. Some of the former exhibitors are reported financially unable to participate this year. In fact, Elmer Twitchell says he knows a man who exhibited a coach and eight in 1929, a Shetland pony in 1930, and who is down to a point this year where he can barely afford to enter a horsefly.

• • • •

THE BIG POLLYANNA!

"Although I don't want to take a pessimistic view, I am afraid England's part as a world power is approaching its end. The profligate expenditures of the World War, followed by a kind of government I will not criticise, have reduced the nation to the verge of bankruptcy. I think our empire in the old sense is coming to an end."

NEW TRIAL REFUSED TO ATTORNEY GUILTY ON BRIBERY CHARGES

LAWYER'S BAIL BOND INCREASED TO $5,000

Defendant, in Statement to Court, Declares His Hearing Unjust.

A sentence of eighteen months in jail was imposed yesterday by Justice James M. Proctor upon Abner Siegal, attorney, convicted of bribing a jail employe. Justice Proctor overruled the plea of Siegal's attorney, E. Russell Kelley, for a new trial.

Through his attorney Siegal noted an appeal to the Court of Appeals and was permitted to remain at liberty pending the appeal, although his bond was increased to $5,000 He had been out under $3,000 bail since his conviction by a jury in criminal division a week ago.

Makes His Statement.

Asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Siegal replied:

"I hope that there may never happen in your honor's life, or in the lives of any of your family, such havoc as has been caused to my family by this unjust conviction."

Justice Proctor pointed out that the statute sets a limit of three years in the penitentiary as penalty for conviction in such a case, and said he construed that as being intended as the punishment for extreme cases. While he did not want to be interpreted as saying the present case was not serious, Justice Proctor said, he thought a sentence of 18 months would be ample. United States Attorney Leo A. Rover protested against Siegal's release under bond.

Bribed Jail Guard.

The attorney had been convicted of bribing Harry S. Dean, a guard at the District Jail, to insert in the jail records a card purporting to show that a man wanted in Pennsylvania for murder had been in prison here at the time.

At Siegal's trial it was revealed that Dean, after being approached by Siegal, had related Siegal's proposition to Col. William A. Peake, superintendent of the jail. After a conference with Mr. Rover and officials of the Department of Justice, Dean was instructed to appear to colloaborate in the fraud with Siegal, and $250 said to have been given the guard by the attorney was exhibited at the trial and identified by Dean.

Siegal acted as his own attorney during the trial, but though he sought by vigorous cross-examination to break down Dean's testimony, he was unable to trip up the guard's story.

Unidentified Man Attempts Suicide

Takes Poison in Rear of Downtown Theater After Writing Note.

An unidentified man, about 28 years old, is in an undetermined condition in Gallinger Hospital, suffering from the effects of a large quantity of poison he is said to have swallowed last night while in an alley in the rear of the Fox Theater.

The man was found by passersby slumped in an semiconscious condition against the rear wall of the theater. An empty glass and poison bottle were found at his side. The Fire Rescue Squad removed him to Emergency Hospital.

At the hospital an unsigned note was taken from a pocket of his coat. It read:

"I have tuberculosis and am despondent. Take care of me. I have drunk a bottle of iodine."

Four Men and Still Are Seized in Raid

Materials for Producing Liquor Found in House on R Street.

A 150-gallon capacity copper still, 52 20-gallon barrels of mash and a quantity of other materials used in the manufacture of liquor were seized in a raid on a house at 2010 R street northwest yesterday, according to police. Four men were arrested.

They gave their names as Smauel A. Specter, 34 years old, and Lewis Specter, 31 years old, his brother, both of the R street address; Herman Rosenstein, 23 years old, of 1125 Maryland avenue northeast, and Raymond W. Snyder, 24 years old, of 1105 Sixth street southwest.

Snyder told police he had been hired to deliver several packages of yeast to the place, but police said they found a key to the garage and to the basement where the still was hidden, in his pockets. The house is located in a fashionable neighborhod and many socially prominent persons live nearby.

COURT TEST LOOMS IN ORDER OF BOARD UPON TAXI METERS

Two Companies Indicate They Will Carry Issue to Highest Bench.

CAB RENTAL SYSTEM ORDERED ABANDONED

Utilities Commission Makes Many New Rules to Regulate Drivers.

A court test of certain phases of the Public Utilities order requiring all taxicabs to install meters by January 10 looms as the reaction of at least two of the companies which inaugurated the zone system. Officials of the City and Bell Cab Companies indicated shortly after the order was issued yesterday that they would carry the issue to the District Supreme Court.

A rate of fare comparable to the present 20-40-60-cent flat charge was established by the commission in an order that attempted to cover every phase of taxicab regulation. After January 10 all taxicabs will be required to carry meters which will register as follows: Twenty-five cents for the first two miles or less and 5 cents for each additional third of a mile.

No charge can be made for time except waiting time at the request of the passenger. When such a charge is made, it shall be 10 cents for each five minutes, the order states, but no charge shall be made for a wait of less than five minutes.

Rental System Abolished.

Meters which register distance only will be required, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, explained. This will eliminate extra charges for time consumed in congested traffic.

The order contains a clause intended to abolish the rental cab system whereby a driver pays a certain amount each day for a cab and pockets all additional that he makes. This article declares that no taxicab shall be operated "except by the proprietor thereof or by a driver employed by the proprietor and responsible to the said proprietor."

Considerable question was raised yesterday as to several phases of the order which appeared to add dubious authority to the commission. Among these was a regulation requiring that drivers "be clean in dress and in person and wear a coat or a duster at all times while operating a cab."

Other regulations relating to speed and traffic congestion were believed by other District officials to come rather within the jurisdiction of the Traffic Bureau, whereas those relating to licensing should properly be enforced by the Department of Vehicles and Traffic.

Hearing Evidence Analyzed.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, who has been the arch defender of the zone cab system, had no comment to make yesterday after the commission had overridden his proposals other than to reiterate his belief that the public would resent the return to meters and would reduce its patronage.

The commission opens its order with twenty concise "statements of facts" based on its interpretation of findings at the recent taxicab hearing. Among these contentions, several of which are denied by the people's counsel, are that the zone system is "entirely unsuitable to a city the size of Washington," that it "unduly favors certain riders and unduly discriminates against others," that it tends to increase cruising and thus congests traffic, that the average cost of operating a cab is ten cents a mile, including a fair wage for the driver, and that "under the present rates operators are not able to earn a reasonable wage without working for such long hours as to impair seriously their efficiency and thereby endanger their passengers and the public."

12-Hour Day Ordered.

Among the regulations governing equipment is a broad clause that will enable the commission to remove almost any cab from the street that it sees fit. This section states: "Every taxicab shall be so constructed and maintained as to provide for the safety of the public and for continuance and satisfactory operation and to reduce to a minimum the noise and vibration caused by such operation."

The order prohibits any taxi company from working its drivers more than 12 hours in a 24-hour period and states that no cab shall be driven by a person under 21 years of age or any one who is not of "good moral character" and is not addicted to drink or drugs.

All cabs must be equipped with two doors for the use of passengers and no driver whose car is equipped with a radio is permitted to use the radio while the vehicle is in motion.

While proponents of the zone cab system expressed disappointment at the action of the commission yesterday they were gratified that the rate of fare was so low.

Among other questions raised regarding the authority of the commission to enforce all of the regulations imposed was that of whether the utilities body actually has the power to control the operation of cabs operating with L tags; that is, on calls and out of a garage. It was recalled the United States Supreme Court in 1916 held that such vehicles are not common carriers and therefore are not subject to public utility regulation within the meaning of the public utility act.

Assault Charged In Horsewhipping

Woman and Four Men Are Indicted in Labor Union Episode.

The horsewhipping episode that brought the International Union of Operating Engineers to the front pages of the newspapers was the cause of a grand jury indictment yesterday, one woman and four men being indicted for simple assault.

The indictment alleges that Ruth Stevens, Robert Stevens, William I. Green, Clarence B. Rockenbaugh and Robert Ely were responsible for the affair. Mrs. Stevens is named as the actual wielder of the whip.
